

Tuskegee Institute Benefits From March Of Dimes Aid

BY DARCY DEMILLE

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—What miracles medical science has wrought, especially in the study of various crippling disorders, is very much in evidence at Tuskegee Institute in Alabama.

The blessing of the Salk vaccine is a dramatic achievement—the greatest single accomplishment since the National Foundation began its fight against polio back in 1933. But day by day, little miracles are being wrought at Tuskegee Institute. And the wonderful part is that each and every one of us who has contributed as little as one dime via the March of dimes' annual march — has in a way aided and brought into being these little miracles.

One such "miracle" was the hydrotherapy equipment, bought with funds provided by the March of Dimes, which has relieved suffering not only for polio patients, but for patients with other diseases. This expensive miracle-equipment has also served as a training facility to acquaint doctors with new methods of treatment.

Miracle-working has been the business-of-the-day at the Institute since the National Foundation-Tuskegee partnership began with a grant in 1939.

opened in 1941 and has been steadily accomplishing modern-day miracles without much fanfare.

More than $4,700,000 has been spent at the Institute to fight other diseases indirectly. When the Infantile Paralysis Unit was established at Tuskegee, it was meant to be one of the battle stations in the nationwide fight against the dread disease.

The unit has evolved as a training ground for medical personnel. It has been a force in educating the practicing physicians in the immediate area in the administration of polio treatment; it has provided a place for surgical residents to receive training in ortho-

Leather Luggage Is Ideal

With one in every five Americans planning a vacation trip this loaded down — with leather-light will be crammed full — but not luggage. Equally at home aboard ship or in the air, the new leather luggage travels with a traditional air of elegance.

Modern leathers are good travelers. Silicone finishes resist scuffs and scratches, and a damp cloth will remove stains at journey's end.

The jet traveler who visits his European branch office on a mid-week business trip will appreciate the roominess of a modern flyweight leather, sacrifices none of the lightness demanded by flight control.

For his wife, who snatches a few days of sunshine while he's in conference, there are a whole line of the shoulder or in the hand, the multi-purpose and tote bags. Over combination leather carry-all holds as well as change purse and accessories. Lingerie and toilet articles not — and all conspire to help a lady get there with the mostest and without exceeding the weight allowance.

A matched set of leather luggage makes a rich personal gift. The man who tops your Christmas list will cherish them with the same affection he lavishes on his matched irons. If you plan to give him the set over a period of time, start him off with the all-purpose two-suitcase and at least one unfringed case. That second bag could well be an overnight or weekend case, a companion bag — smaller version of the two-suitcase — or a club bag that packs handily from the top.

Longtime popular masculine colors in genuine leather luggage polished black is seen more often are ginger and suntan, though high this year.

The attache case for the traveling man is no longer simply a container into which everything is piled helter skelter. The modern case for the businessman on the run combines an overnight compartment with brief-case accordion plane. It makes a fine emergency attache case teams with the career man, too.

The traveling woman's steady companion is a 24-inch case with ample room for dresses, gowns and lingerie for a two-week stay. Leather luggage for women comes a rich assortment of shades. From Arctic white to deep tropical hues, there are a dozen colors to complement the touring woman. Fila beige, smooth champagne, pink, pastels in blue and green, and the charcoals — both gray and brown — all mark the smart woman going places.

pedic surgery; it has given Tuskegee students visible, daily contact with people in the health professions — medical social workers, occupational therapists, physical therapists, nurses — and has shown them the dignity and the satisfactions of such careers.

practical written examination; and of public health administration on the State and local levels.

Take advantage of this year's bumper corn crop by building more storage facilities.

If none of the Negro citizens of North Carolina are prepared in this field, then we urge young men and women to prepare themselves for positions in such categories.
