A Resolve To Swap Heart Facts For Fancies In '59

CHAPEL HILL — Makers of New Year's resolutions were urged today by the North Carolina Heart Association to put at the top of their lists: "Resolved, that in 1959, I will avoid needless worry by checking symptoms of heart disease with my doctor."

Emphasizing the importance of periodic health checkups and early diagnosis, John Manning, Chapel Hill lawyer and president of the state Heart Association, pointed out that in the last ten years, heart research has given the physician much new knowledge for the benefit of patients.

Among these weapons against the heart and circulatory diseases are:

1. Newly improved methods of diagnosis.
2. Drugs to prevent many initial and most recurrent attacks of rheumatic fever, which can cause heart damage.
3. New and improved methods of including drugs that retard blood clotting heart attacks and strokes, clotting and help prevent repeat attacks.
4. New drugs that can control most cases of high blood pressure.
5. New methods of treating diseases which may lead to heart failure.
6. Surgery to correct or relieve many congenital and acquired defects of the heart, as well as surgery to remove clots and replace sections of damaged arteries.

"These are only a few of the major advances of the past decade," stated Mr. Manning. "Credit for done nothing to lessen the impact of the school closures and that there had been a "definite lack of leadership in this respect."

White is a board member of the Norfolk chapter of the pro-segregation Defenders of State Sovereignty and Individual Liberties and counsel for the Tidewater Educational Foundation, which set up emergency stop-gap schooling for about 70 of the displaced students.

The six Norfolk schools were closed Sept. 27 by Virginia's massive "resistance" anti-integration law.

White contended in a statement that students and teachers displaced from the closed schools could be accommodated in three elementary schools not involved in the integration dispute.

Public Takes A Liking To New Red-White-Blue Savings Stamp

WASHINGTON — The public has taken a liking to the new red-white-and-blue United States Savings Stamp, if a preliminary survey by the Treasury Department is any indication.

In a spot check of 35 cities, sales of 25-cent Savings Stamps for the four weeks ending December 12 show a 41 per cent increase over the corresponding period of last year. Total sales in these cities were $80,437 this year, compared with $57,078 in 1957.

The new 25-cent stamp, the first Savings Stamp printed in more than one color, went on sale in Post Offices throughout the country on November 15. At the same time, it was offered in Gift Books of $2.50 and $5.00 value, as well as in sheet form. Sales in 25 of the 35 cities showed increases, ranging from a modest 5 per cent in Evansville, Ind., to Little Rock, Ark., where the volume was more than 8 times that of the four-week period of 1957.

Among the larger cities, the Postmaster in Washington, D. C., reported a jump in sales of 125 per cent over a year ago. In Baltimore, four-week sales of $20,590 were up 24 per cent above the $16,790 for the corresponding four-week period of 1957.

Oakland, Calif., sold ten times as many 25-cent stamps as last year, and Atlanta, Ga., had a healthy 36 per cent increase. Sales jumped 200 per cent in Omaha, Neb., 212 per cent in El Paso, Tex., and 173 per cent in Columbus, Ohio.

"Naturally, we are pleased with the manner in which the public has accepted the new 25-cent Savings Stamp," said James F. Stiles, Jr., National Director of the Treasury's Savings Bonds Division. "It proves to us that there was an urgent need for the Gift Books, and we expect the next sales report to show an even larger increase, as people did their last-minute Christmas shopping for children who already have everything."

The spot check did not reveal what portion of the sales was in the form of Gift Books. Postmasters in some places, however, reported a brisk business in the gift items.

In addition to interest in the new multi-color stamp, Treasury officials also credit some of the increased sales volume to the Love Ranger Peace Patrol promotion this fall.

Senate's Right To Adopt Rules Now Supported

The text of a brief in support of the Senate's right to adopt rules at the opening of the 86th Congress was released by a bipartisan group of Senators. The brief was earlier presented to Vice President Nixon by Senators Douglas (Illinois), Humphrey (Minnesota), Case (New Jersey) and Javits (New York). They seek adoption of a new rule to curb filibusters.

In releasing the text of the brief, the Senators made the following statement:

"We believe this brief clearly shows that the position in our Senate rules at the start of the session is in order, that the Constitution authorizes the Senate of each new Congress to determine its rules, and that a majority of the Senate in the new Congress cannot be balked in this effort by the action of the Senate of an earlier Congress.

"The brief likewise points out the irrelevancy of the main argument of those who oppose this effort, concerning the Senate as a continuing body.

"We have considered it essential, as in 1957, to present a brief in advance of the session in order (1) to prevent any assumption that we have acquiesced in the old Senate rules and are therefore tied up by its restrictions on rules changes, and (2) to give the vice President the main legal arguments for our position in case he should be called upon to give a binding ruling on this historic issue.

"Upon the outcome of this effort will probably depend the fate of the U. S. Senate and of legislation of far-reaching national and international importance."

Quiz 1960 Presidential Timber On A Case Of Discrimination

TRENTON, N. J. — Gov. Robert B. Meyner, the chief executive of the state of New Jersey, and often considered a possible Presidential candidate for the Democratic Party in 1960, was quizzed this week by Republican State Chairman Carl Erdman about former Attorney General Grover C. Richman's interest in the discrimination complaint against William J. Levitt, builder of the Levittown projects.

Last week Levitt was granted a temporary injunction preventing the State Division Against Discrimination from holding hearings on the complaint of discrimination, until the constitutionality of the law is tested.

Two Negro residents of Burlington county have already filed complaints against Levitt, charging that he violated the State's anti-discrimination law by refusing to sell them houses in his Willingboro project, because they were Negroes.

The GOP chairman released a statement from the Committee's Headquarters saying that the Governor had confirmed discussing the Levittown case with his former Attorney General.

Erdman further said that "For the Governor to admit that his former Attorney General came to discuss this case with him, and then try to tell us that he can't remember for what reason, is difficult to understand."

Bishop Clair To Address Methodists

ST. LOUIS — (ANP) — Bishop Mahew W. Clair, Jr., resident bishop of the St. Louis Area of the Central Jurisdiction of the Methodist Church, will be one of the four prelates who will appear on the program of the annual convention of the National Association of Methodist Hospitals and Homes here Jan. 27-29.

The sessions will be held in the Sheraton-Jefferson Hotel.

"Christianity in Action" will be the theme of the convention, which is expected to attract hundreds of administrators, staff people, and board members from the 219 Methodist hospitals and homes in the United States.

Biased Man Says Pupils Could Move

NORFOLK, Va. — Segregationist attorney Harvey E. White, Jr., claims that some of the 10,000 white students displaced by the closing of six Norfolk schools could have been transferred to several other schools which remain open.

White charged Monday that state and local officials had
