The award is given each year to a graduate of the University of an honorary degree recipient who has made "a contribution of lasting significance to society." Dr. Bunche received an honorary doctor of laws degree from NYU in 1956. The first Albert Gallatin Award went to Dr. Jonas Salk, who obtained his M.D. degree at NYC's College of Medicine in 1938.

Arthur B. Foye, chairman of the Albert Gallatin Associates and senior partner in the accounting firm of Haskins & Sells, presented the award to Dr. Bunche.

Albert Gallatin, Secretary of the Treasury under Presidents Jefferson and Madison, was a founder of the University and served as first chairman of its governing Council.

Among the guests of honor at the dinner were Dag Hammarskjold, Secretary-General of the United Nations, and John M. Snyder, former Secretary of the Treasury. Some 300 persons attended. The dinner was held at 2 p. m. in the grand ballroom of the Pierre.

Police Capture "Man With The Golden Earrings" In Rape Case After 1 Month

TRENTON, N. J. (ANP) — After a month long search, the police caught up with Herman Louis McMillan, 17-year-old rape suspect, who wore a golden earring in his left ear and a tammy.

The suspect was picked up here on Wednesday near his home on Kowal and Det. Pat Nardelli, after Passaic Street by Det. Lt. Stanley they had questioned about 200 persons in their hunt for the attacker of a 32-year old W. Hanover Street woman last December.

YOUTH HAS LONG RECORD

According to the detectives, the youth, said to have a long record of crime dating back to early boyhood, met the woman walking alongside the West Hanover Street and forced her to accompany him to the bank of the nearby Canal Feeder.

The victim said the attacker cut her hair and coat with a razor, and when arrested, the suspect reportedly gave a statement admitting he assaulted the woman not far from her home.

McMillan was also arrested last year after he was involved in a race disturbance at Trenton High School, and is currently on parole from Annandale Reformatory.

VICTIM SAYS "THAT'S HIM"

On Thursday morning the suspect was confronted with the 32-year-old woman who said, "That's him," and also at the Detective Bureau at the same time was Charles Russo, the boy's probation officer.

The boy's father, 38-year-old Curley (Curt) McMillan learned on Wednesday that the police was looking for his son and located him in a Willow Street poolroom.

The two detectives arrested the boy as he was approaching home with his father, and at that time he was wearing a beret, but not the gold earring his left ear as described by his victim.

The elder McMillan has a record of 10 arrests, according to the police, with his last one giving him a six-month term in the Workhouse on an assault and battery charge in June of last year.

ON POLICE RECORDS SINCE 9 YEARS OLD

The youth has been carried on police records since he was nine years old. A sister is in the State Home for Girls, and a brother is in the state Home for Boys at Jamestown.

Currently on parole, the rape suspect was released from Annandale Reformatory last September, and since then served a 30-day jail term because he gave his age as 18 in a local offense.

Young McMillan's arrest record began on June 5, 1951, when he stole a penknife from an ice cream truck parked near his home. His records also show two more theft arrests the same year, two more in 1952, He has been an inmate of Jamesburg twice, and in 1954 and twice in 1956 there were three arrests.

The offenses at that time were burglaries and drinking wine while a pupil at Junior Five.

ATTACKED ON LOVELY CANAL FEEDER

The story of the attack on the December night was that the boy was out walking when he encountered the woman asking her dog on the canal feeder near Passaic and West Hanover Streets.

This reporter has often visited in the vicinity of the canal feeder, which runs through the town, and the locally mentioned in the story is rather dark and inviting for muggers and rapists. The railroad tracks run not too far from the location and a bridge spans the dark and muddy water running by. The section is predominant a Negro neighborhood.

Quakers Will Sponsor A Trip Of Montgomery Leader To India

PHILADELPHIA — Dr. and Mrs. Martin Luther King will leave February 3 on a Quaker-sponsored trip to India, where they will study the Gandhian non-violent movement.

The American Friends Service Committee (Quakers) has been planning the trip for several months. James Bristol, the Committee's representative in Delhi, and Dr. William Stuart Nelson, dean of Howard University, have been making arrangements in India.

Dr. Nelson is the former director of two programs in India for the Quaker organization. He is in that country now studying non-violence as currently applied to the political life of India.

The Kings will be accompanied by Dr. Lawrence Reddick, professor of history at Alabama State College, who will study basic education programs in Gandhian centers.

A prominent Indian leader will accompany the Kings during their travels in the country.

Also cooperating in the visit of the Kings is the Gandhi Peace Foundation, a new international center devoted to the teachings and philosophy of Gandhi.

Dr. King gained national and international recognition when he led the successful bus boycott in Montgomery, Alabama. He is pastor of Dexter Avenue Baptist Church in Montgomery and president of the Montgomery Improvement Association and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. The latter two organizations also helped make the trip possible.

His story and analysis of the Montgomery protest, "Stride Toward Freedom," is being widely acclaimed.

NYC Board Of Education At Odds Over 'JC' Schools

NEW YORK CITY — (ANP) — The decision recently of the New York City Board of Education to appeal the decision of Justice Poller, in which the woman jurist declared some Harlem schools were inferior in their educational standards, has stirred Negro leaders here into action.

The militant Dr. Gardner C. Taylor, only Negro member of the Board, has already mobilized the members of his 2,000 - strong church, Brooklyn's Concord Baptist, to raise $1,000 by February 8, to help finance the NAACP legal battle.

The Concord Baptist congregation voted unanimously to support Dr. Taylor's position.

In a stirring sermon, Dr. Taylor asserted:

"I never thought that I would live to see the day when the City of New York would array its vast resources against the NAACP. Actually to see this is to witness the desecration of a dream of my youth."

"What the City of New York is saying to underprivileged Negro and Puerto Rican youngsters is this: 'You can't go to schools that are equal; you can't have equal opportunity here.'"

"But ten years from now the city will deny these same children employment and point out that they don't have the proper training and schooling for the job."

Superintendent of Schools, John J. Theobald, the embattled school official who inherited the present inferior Harlem schools from his predecessor, is scheduled to meet with Dr. Robert C. Weaver, outgoing state Rent Commissioner; Dr. Frank S. Horne, executive director, Commission on Intergroup Relations; and Edward S. Lewis, executive secretary, Urban League of Greater New York.

In the meantime, Congressman Adam C. Powell, Jr., told the press that since 1955 Mayor Robert Wagner has been ignoring his written complaints about segregation in the city's public schools.

The letters were shown to newsmen.

As for Dr. Gardner C. Taylor, he spurred efforts to enlist the support of other churches and synagogues, as well as the 340 members of the Empire State Baptist Convention, against the Board of Education's position to battle Justice Poller's decision.
