

DEAR SALLY

BY SALLY SHAW
DEAR SALLY: I need some advice or help for my daughter who is a very unhappy girl at the present time. She is to be married next month. My cousin, who has always been very close to our family, has a four-year-old daughter on whom she and her husband fairly dote. They want very much for their child to serve as a flower girl at my daughter's wedding. My daughter does not want a flower girl. She says she has attended too many weddings where small children participants have botched their parts and turned the wedding into a circus. I dislike very much the idea of hurting my cousin's feelings, but I do want my daughter to be happy. So, what can you advise?

MOTHER OF THE BRIDE:
DEAR MOTHER: It is the bride's inalienable right to invite whomever she wishes to take part in her wedding ceremony, and if your daughter does not want a flower girl, she should not be pressured into having one. You'll have to explain this as tactfully as you can to your cousin.
DEAR SALLY: I'm a girl of 21.

SPECIAL NOTE: The CAROLINIAN will give $1.00 for each question used in this column. Winner this week is Mrs. Pensacola McClambe, Auburn. Send your question to P. O. Box 628, Raleigh, N. C. or call

Rev. D. N. Howard.

QUESTION THIS WEEK:
 "Who Will Win the World Series—Giants or Yankees?"

H. C. HIGH, Sr., 307 E. Hargett St.: "Yankees, one must keep in mind the past reputation of this club and you will have to say this club is coming through. My favorite National League team is the 'Dodgers.' I would really like to see the Giants win this year, but I am afraid they won't make it through. The Giants are tired, coming from the playoff."

MRS. ZONNIE WILDER, Route 3, Raleigh: "The Giants, I think that the Giants are better ball players than the Yankees. The Yankees have had a good team for a long time. This year the Giants are a little better. You can count on Willie Mays to help bring them to the World championship."

S. J. MACON, 723 E. Martin Street: "Giants, they have won two games in a row. With power at the bat and the strong pitching, they will come through with the victory on their own home field, when Mays and Cepeda are hitting you have trouble on your hands for the other team. I believe they will come through."

MRS. PENSACOLA, Auburn, N. C.: "Yankees, you must admit that the Yankees have the best ball club. They have dominated the base ball world so long until you must look for them to win. One must not overlook hitters like Mantle, Maris and Howard. This combination is hard to beat at the bat. I think that the Series will go all the way to the seventh game."

REV. IRVIN DAVIS, 103 Harper St. Garner: "Giants! They can produce the best line-up that will provide the team work necessary to win. The Giants team is my favorite team. I am pulling for them to win. I think that the Series will go six games with the Giants winning games 5 and 6 at home."

Parents Host Of College
 ELIZABETH CITY — The Annual Parents Day Program at Elizabeth City State Teachers College, Elizabeth City, was observed at 8 o'clock Sunday morning, Oct. 7, with Registration and a Coffee Hour in Hugh Cole Hall.

The program was promoted by the Personnel Department, under the supervision of John R. Mabon, Director of Personnel, and other members of the faculty and staff.

In the morning parents attended the Campus Sunday School and participated in discussions. Arrangements were made to facilitate attendance at a church of their choice in the community. After dinner in the Captain's

Dr. Shute, Barber-Scotia Speaks Here

Dr. M. F. Shute, dean of the college, Barber-Scotia College, Concord, and son of the late Dr. Charles Shute, dean of the School of Religion, Johnson C. Smith University, Charlotte, will be the featured speaker, Sunday, Oct. 28, at the morning worship services in the Davis Street Presbyterian Church.

The services this year are sponsored by the Council of United Men of the Presbyterian Church of which John F. Nobile is the president and Samuel Boyd is secretary. They are designed to motivate new concepts of Christian behavior in everyday life and to solidify the strength of the church against immediate and visible evils.

Mr. Nobile has announced the names of chairmen of committees in the following areas, who are working out details of the program in their respective areas. They are: Music, Mr. D. H. Keck; Publicity, Mr. James Johnson; Attendance, Mr. William A. Myers, and Program, Elder Charles G. Irving, Jr.

Cabin — Lane Hall Dining Room. A program will be presented in the Lighthouse College Center — "So This Is College" designed to acquaint parents with the activities of college life outside the classroom. Opportunity will be given parents to express their opinions and ask questions.

The program concluded with an informal reception, at which faculty and staff members met and talked with parents.

ATTEND THE CHURCH OF YOUR CHOICE SUNDAY

Thompson School

On Oct. 3, the boys and girls at Thompson School went on a trip to the Midwest.

Mrs. Dorothy P. Goodson, Supervisor of elementary schools of Raleigh, shared her summer experiences of her trip to Colorado and Wyoming during an assembly program last week. She told of the great plains and the rocky mountains which cover that area of the country. Along with the discussion, pictures were shown to the group. It was a wonderful lesson in geography for all the pupils and everyone enjoyed the trip.

The Thompson School PTA will convene Thursday, Oct. 11 at 8 p. m. in the school auditorium. The Grade Mothers will meet at 7:30 in Room 3.

 During this special meeting, the parents will go to the classrooms and follow and abbreviated program or schedule of their children. All parents and friends are invited to be present.

DEAR SALLY: My wife and I have never had any trouble with neighbors previously, but now I think we're heading that way. A family has moved next door to us, and they have a couple of boys who persist in bouncing their basketball against the side of our house. This goes on every afternoon after school and into the evening, and it's fast driving us crazy. I hesitate to complain to their parents because, from what I've always heard, this usually causes strained feelings. But we MUST do something. What?

DEAR SAM: Why not talk with the boys themselves? Do not do this in a stern or disciplinary manner, but keep everything in a light vein. Tell them your nerves are shattering from the constant rat-a-tat of their ball against your house, and you might gain some popularity with them, too. If you volunteer to help them construct a basketball hoop on their garage or on one of their trees.

DEAR SALLY: My daughter-in-law has redecorated her home at considerable expense, and for the most part it has been done beautifully. But the draperies she chose for her living room are all wrong. They clash resoundingly with the other furnishings in the room and every time I enter that room I have to swallow hard to keep from saying something I might regret later. I guess the fact that I'm only a mother-in-law rules me out from having my opinions — or at least that's what I've managed to gather from having read your column in the past. How about this? H. G.

DEAR H. G.: I've never said a mother-in-law can't have opinions. But if she's a good and wise and tactful mother-in-law, she'll keep swallowing them as you've been doing unless she's asked.
CONFIDENTIAL TO UNDECIDED: If the best that can be said about this man is "he's better than nothing," then I advise you to say no to his proposal. A marriage based on desperation has little or no chance, and you'd be risking a lifetime of misery if you were to go into this one. Much, much better to wait until Mr. Right comes along.
