Alexander Barnes Keynote Orator For Rush Metropolitan's Men's Day

ALEXANDER BARNES

BY MRS. ANNIE H. THORPE Sunday, Oct. 27th, was Men's Day at Rush Metropolitan AME Zion Church and the men turned out in large numbers. Mr. Lacy Morgan was master of ceremonies. The music was furnished by a mixed group of men from Durham. The speaker for the occasion was the National Director of Public Relations for the AME Zion Church Alexander Barnes. Mr. Barnes was introduced by the pastor, Rev. T. H. Harris. The scripture and further remarks were read and given by the Rev. Essex Henry. Mr. Barnes chose passages of scripture from several books of the Bible which were centered around his theme, "Wanted: A Man." The speaker began by saying that "Men's Day should be a day when men should take stock of their lives, asking themselves the following questions: (1) What have I done to mend broken homes? (2) What have I done toward the building of God's Kingdom? then admonished them, (1) To have the faith of an Eagle. (2) The courage of a Lion. (3) The strength of an ox. The faith to believe that I can. The courage to venture out and the strength to continue in the field of progress. This was certainly a very timely message, and we take this method to thank Mr. Barnes for having come to us in a time like this.

NEGRO SOLONS ABSENT AS CR TUSSEL BEGINS

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) as Clayton Powell was out of the country; Congressman Robert N. C. Nix was reported to be in Philadelphia; Congressman Charles Diggs, of Detroit, was reported "out of town," and no word was received on Congressman William L. Dawson's whereabouts. The only Negro Congressman known to be in town while the Kennedy's were "playing politics" was the Negro's Augustus Hawkins who was in a meeting when ANP called. Since none of the Negro Congressmen were reached, it is difficult to state exactly what their reactions are to the Kennedy's political gambit. Meanwhile, Rep. Thomas P. Gill (D-Hawaii), was one of several men who spoke against the Kennedy action. He called Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy's compromise thusly: "May I respectfully suggest that a compromise on a compromise bill will not make these willing young men statesmen — it will merely make them the laughing stock of the old pros in these halls and failures in the eyes of their friends." Rep. John V. Lindsay (R-N. Y.) denied the Administration's claim that the compromise was needed to win Republican support. Lindsay, a member of the Judiciary committee, said at least seven of the 14 Republicans on the Committee would support the subcommittee. Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N. Y.) posed to strike the board Title III injection power which would allow the Justice Department to file suits in behalf of those denied their rights. He said this was a "tragic retreat," and an abandonment of the most important part of the bill.

Avery Jones, Imperial Legal Adviser, keyed the affair with a chronological history of the Order and a factual description of the contribution it has made to the on going of American events. Grand Master of N. C. Masons, Clark S. Brown, commended Potentate Poag for his contribution to not only the secret orders with which he was affiliated, but those made to Winston-Salem, the state and the nation. He ended by saying that the presence of such a large number was a fitting indication of the esteem in which he was held. Booker T. Alexander, who is known to be the symbol of the Order and often referred to as "Mr. Shriner" told the diners

The editorial appealed to Gastonia's Negro community to tell the seven local Negro ministers siding the Rev. Mr. Cox to stop the demonstrations and to stop breaking the law.

LOCAL WHITE OFFICER CAUGHT IN RACIAL WEB

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) Chief Davis' reply was "I do not know" to every one of the questions. He said that Coats had told him that a woman came to his home, on Brooks Road, on a Saturday morning and represented herself as an agent of the magazine. The police head said that Coats also stated the interviewer questioned him for three hours and he was led to believe that he was being queried as to not only local and state topics, but international questions. Coats told THE CAROLINIAN the same story. He also stated that even though the interview lasted for three hours and he was asked about many things, including President Kennedy's approach to both foreign and domestic matters, he was shocked to find that he had been quoted only on the racial question. Coats admitted making the statement. However, he said he made it as a private citizen and not as a police officer. He confessed to the and that he felt he was using his constitutional right of free speech. He said that his opinion did not prohibit him from being fair to Negroes. He said that he had about as many friends among the Negroes as he had among the whites and he cherished that friendship. He said he held no malice for Negroes and was proud of the relationship he had enjoyed both as a private citizen and a police officer. Coats could not account for him having been selected by the interviewer. He described the person as a modestly dressed white woman, who looked to be about 40-years-old and could easily be taken for a school teacher. When asked whether he was believed to possess any rare ability as an authority on racial matters, or any other national matter he said he did not know that he was armed with any such ability. He said that he had prosecuted his duties as a police officer to the best of his ability and did not feel that he had performed any feat that warranted his judgment on any matter. He is a native of Johnston County and a product of Cleveland High School, according to information furnished by him. He alleges that he attended Campbell College and has done further study at one of the state schools.
