"A genuine appreciation for the little things of life, your best foot forward, and faithfulness to the task at hand," were the basic thoughts left with the students and staff of the Raleigh Business College by Rev. Charles W. Ward, Pastor of the First Baptist Church, at the Pre-Thanksgiving assembly on Wednesday, November 25.

"The First Thanksgiving" was portrayed by Miss Barbara Davis of Wilmington, Miss Yvonne Taylor of Columbia, S. C. gave an interesting rendition of the poem, "O Give Thanks," and Edward Everett Hale's "Thanksgiving" was presented by Miss Geraldine Mosley of Greenville. These renditions were interspersed with group singing of appropriate Thanksgiving hymns. Following Reverend Ward's message, the assembled group participated freely in a "thanks" expression period.

Mrs. D. A. Barnes, president-director, has announced that the winter quarter begins on Wednesday, December 9.

COPS SAY MAN ADMITS RAPES

The scene of the latest crime. His mother, Mrs. Lucinda Williams, described her son as, "Sick in the mind."

The New Orleans police did not explain the discrepancy. The first crime took place almost four years ago when Donna Trussell, an art student, was slain on her 18th birthday. She had been drugged and strangled to death.

Now, almost four years later, police claim that she also had been raped.

The latest victim was Mrs. Lillian Harris, wife of a business executive. She was discovered by her 13-year-old son. The woman had been shot in the head, beaten and raped.

According to police, Williams confessed the killing in the presence of an aunt. However, he had been arrested two days earlier on another charge.

Police said that while Williams was in jail on the lesser charge, not connected with the killings, new information developed which made him a suspect in the Harris killing.

They did not say what the evidence was nor how the long unsolved slaying of Miss Trussell was connected to the suspect.

According to police, Williams gave the following account of the Harris murder:

He was walking past the victim's house when he saw the front door walked into the Harris kitchen and pointed a gun at Mrs. Harris. Demanding money, he followed her to a bedroom where she kept her purse. The suspect raped the victim, then shot her when she grabbed him as he attempted to flee.

It was not stated when the victim's hands were tied behind her back, as had been previously reported. Nor was it stated what was used to bind her.

Police say the gun used by Williams was later passed on to another man, and was recovered after having been in the possession of several persons.

The latest information from the New Orleans police department is that they received a tip more than two months ago that Williams had "confessed the Trussell murder" to a girl friend.

It was reported that Gail Brown, 19, told homicide detectives that he killed Miss Trussell. The information came after Miss Brown was treated or knife wounds allegedly inflicted by Williams.

sat in the rear of the sanctuary.

All four stalked out and joined several other robed men on the street adjacent to the edifice as the Rev. Johnson began to read.

One robed man who stated he was on the outside during the service, said the incident was not planned, but the group had hoped to call attention to its meetings, even in the churches.

When asked if the Klans was active in the Wilson area, he replied, "Very much so."

No incidents took place outside the church following the worship.

SOLDIER DIES AS CAR HITS HIM IN STREET

McKay, 68, of 305 Horseshoe Rd. "One wheel of the car ran over the soldier's head, and he apparently died of head injuries," Miller said.

Miller charged McKay with failure to decrease speed when a special hazard existed. McKay posted $300 bond and was released pending trial in City Record's Court.

Miller late Saturday night was attempting to learn why "Daley had been lying in the road. He ordered a blood test to determine if he had been drinking, but had not received results of the test at midnight. He said Cole, Garner and other witnesses did not know Daley. The death boosted Cumberland County's highway death toll to 44 for this year. The figure compares with 42 on this date a year ago.
