BETTER THAN RICHES

"There was once a rug-maker of Persia noted for the beauty of his work, and his name was Ali Ben Sahrab.

"Many buyers came and waited for him, knowing that his rugs were good; while the merchants in the market place despised the poor weaver who had little to sell, though that little was of the finest quality.

"Once late at night as he bent lovingly over his loom, these merchants came secretly to him, saying, 'Why do you waste so much time over each small rug when you might make many and sell to us at a great profit?'

"And Ben Sahrab answered with the wisdom of Solomon: "A good name is better than riches and Service is above silver or gold. I am content."

Like the ancient Persian our pride of product is greater than our pride of profit. and the Service we render is likewise more pleasing than silver or gold.
