

“VERY LATESTS”

BY MARY MARSHALL

Every influential French dressmaker has added some type of accessory collar and cuff of importance to autumn wear. As shown at the recent openings in Paris these accessories were integral parts of the dresses with which they were worn, but thanks to the rapidity with which French fashions are reproduced and offered in this country, it is possible already to buy separate collars and cuffs of the sort that within so short a time were seen for the first time in Paris. Pure white collars and cuffs are the favorite with the Paris costume, and all sorts of charming things have been done with white accessories which in many instances are available in our silk dresses. Their ornamentation is in subtle, delicate colors. Real lace is frequently used in the neck and cuffs, which are long and narrow. No sharp crease in the history of fashions is so important as the one in the autumn. Occasionally, pastel-toned tones of pink, red or black as an accessory of crepe-de-chine is used, occasion to the shade of black and for accessories on a darker-toned navy blue. A soft, powder blue collar or cuffs may be seen on some of the dresses, but wide, wide pleats and the very white-colored dresses, and the crepe de chine collar and cuffs are some of the blue as well as light finished with narrow pleating.

Luther's Cradle Hymn

Musical notation for Luther's Cradle Hymn, including lyrics: 1. A day in a manger, the babe lay, the babe lay, the babe lay, the babe lay. 2. The cat the cat the cat the cat the cat the cat the cat the cat.

Did you ever hear of Martin Luther? He lived in Germany more than four hundred years ago. He was a great preacher and a very good musician. He had a low bass voice and played the lute and the lute. He loved little children. He had six of his own, and his house was always full of his neighbors and friends and their children. When Luther would sing hymns with his children and friends, he would sing them with his children and friends. In those days they did not have many playing presses, and there were no music stores where people could buy pieces to play. Martin Luther wrote a great many hymns for the people to sing in church, and he did not forget to write some for the children. He wrote a beautiful Cradle Hymn, and here it is as Martin Luther wrote it. You can see how to play it for you.

Sunday School Lesson

REV. SAMUEL D. PRICE, D. D. International Sunday School Lesson for December 21st. TIMOTHY Christmas Lesson—Luke ii, 8-20 and II Timothy i, 1-6; iii, 14-16

Attention should be given to both themes, and they are closely related. Christmas is a day that has its best expression as it centers in the life of the home. The influence of Jesus whose birth is being celebrated has done more to change the home than anything else in all time. Evidence of this fact is to be seen in the positions of women and children in those parts of the world where the teaching of Jesus is not regarded as the central life in those lands where the principles are followed even in our sick dresses. Having been in Germany for many years, the writer can testify to this fact in his own country. No sharp crease in the history of fashions is so important as the one in the autumn. Occasionally, pastel-toned tones of pink, red or black as an accessory of crepe-de-chine is used, occasion to the shade of black and for accessories on a darker-toned navy blue. A soft, powder blue collar or cuffs may be seen on some of the dresses, but wide, wide pleats and the very white-colored dresses, and the crepe de chine collar and cuffs are some of the blue as well as light finished with narrow pleating.

nim when as an apostle to the Gentiles he was being persecuted and carried as an injured man into the home of Timothy. To get a good idea of the worth of an apostle, was in the midst of his sufferings he was being persecuted and carried as an injured man into the home of Timothy. Paul wrote which bear the name of Timothy, his son in the faith. Timothy. When Paul, the worn-out, came as a helpful companion.
