

CHILDREN'S CLINICS ARE BEING HELD IN WATAUGA COUNTY

Doctors Hagaman and Perry Meet With Parish Nurse Each Month for Examination of Children. Dr. Warfield Conducts Similar Clinic at Bailey Camp. Public Invited to Take Advantage of Free Work.

More than forty-five million children live in the United States. Every one of these children deserves protection—that protection which will insure the child health in mind and body. The future of America and of the world depends upon the children of today. As a nation we are coming to realize this fact and are giving more attention to the problems of child welfare. On November 11 there gathered in Washington about five thousand people to attend the White House conference on Child Health and Protection. President Hoover made this statement: "If we could have but one generation of properly born, trained, educated and healthy children, a thousand other problems of government would vanish. We could assure ourselves of healthier minds in more vigorous bodies, to direct the energies of our nation to yet greater heights of achievement."

The White House Conference agreed upon twenty fundamental principles of child health and protection. The following are only five of the twenty:

- "1. Every child should have periodical health examinations before and during the school period, including adolescence, by the family physician, or the school or other public physician, and such hospital care as its special needs may require.
- "2. Every child should have regular dental examination and care.
- "3. Every child should be protected from communicable diseases to which he might be exposed at home, in school or at play, and be protected from impure milk and food.
- "4. Every child should have proper sleeping rooms, diet, hours of sleep and play, and parents should receive expert information as to the needs of children of various ages as to these questions.
- "5. The rural child should have as satisfactory schooling, health protection and welfare facilities as the city child."

Expert information does not come from your neighbor but from the trained physician. He is qualified to guide you in preserving the health of your child. You have always heard that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Prevention may save your child's life, it certainly will protect his future health and happiness.

On Thursday after the second Sunday in each month Dr. Hagaman and Dr. Perry hold a child welfare clinic in the Daniel Boone Cabin Colony at the home of Miss Fisher, Watauga parish nurse. Bring your child every month for a free health examination. Sick children treated at office price. Don't wait until the child is sick—keep him well.

Similar clinics are being held at Bailey Camp by Dr. Warfield on the third Wednesday of each month at 2 o'clock. The next clinic at Bailey Camp will be held on Wednesday, April 15. Bring your babies!

DREAM NETS MAN $3,700 IN SUIT FOR ALIENATION

Chicago.—Louis Jims' dream brought his $3,700 Friday.

It was Louis who told the court during an allegation of affections suit that he fancied in slumber that he saw his wife and James E. O'Brien in affectionate embrace. The next day, he said, he went home just to see how true his dream was and found it highly veracious. He had asked $50,000 but the judge cut this to $3,700.

Bomb Sticks But Pilots Leap and Escape Unhurt

Newport News, Va.—An army bomber pilot and his passenger Monday afternoon escaped in parachutes when a bomb stuck in the releasing device and could not be disengaged. Fearing to land with the bomb dangling beneath the plane, the occupants, Captain Robert G. Breen, air corps, and Major Charles A. French, coast artillery, decided to jump. They reached the ground safely. Some distance away, the empty plane crashed and was demolished by the charge. The accident occurred during maneuvers.

157-Year-Old Turk Has Returned to Native Land

New York.—Zaro Agha, the Turk who claims to be 157 years old, sailed for home last Friday on the Bremen and glad he was to shake the dust of the United States from his American style shoes.

For this Turk, who says he is a veteran of five wars and eleven marriages, has had enough of us. He wants to get back to his house in Stamboul. Everybody has been most kind to him. He has met such American eminents as Elizabeth Marbury, Democratic National Committeewoman from New York, and Tallulah Bankhead, actress. But to a man who says he remembers the face of Napoleon Bonaparte, such honors are puny.

Zaro has been feeling cooped up lately. He has lived in various hotels during the last few months and his only exercise has been walking. His interpreter is authority for the statement that he has covered 20 to 25 blocks daily—pretty good hike for a man of 157. But it hasn't been enough.

In Stamboul he will be close to the various farms of his various relatives—there are 36 sons and daughters alone, by Zaro's count—and on a farm a man can really stretch himself.

A couple of days before he sailed Zaro had the misfortune to damage his most prized souvenir of American civilization. He dropped his set of false teeth.

"I told him I could get them repaired," said Oseim Ridvan, his traveling companion, "but he said there wasn't any sense in it."

Rocket Motor Newest Mechanical Wonder

Berlin.—Paul Heylandt's latest rocket motor, developing a recoil of 400 pounds and claimed by the inventor to be capable of hurling itself in projectile form from Berlin to any point in Europe in 12 minutes was shown to newspaper men at the Heylandt oxygen plant Saturday.

The motor, which looks like a small cannon, weighs only fifteen pounds. The engineers declared they were interested in perfecting it as a "vest pocket" airplane motor. Heylandt himself sees it as the logical motive power for airplane flights from Europe to America, through the stratosphere.

The rocket motor demonstrated by Heylandt and the late Max Valter last year would seem a toy alongside this successor, which is not only far larger and more powerful but much more efficient and smoother in operation than its predecessor. The old motor drove an auto chassis 60 miles an hour. The new one is to be mounted on a larger racing chassis for public demonstration of its propulsive force at Tempelhof Airport on May 3.

The right way to use the new HUMIDOR PACK

1 Do not tear Collophane. Look for the convenient flap at the top and back of package

2 Simply lift this flap and you will break the specially devised air-tight seal

3 Hold package as shown and with your thumbs push it part way out of Humidor Pack

4 To avoid tearing tin foil, slip first finger of each hand under Revenue stamp and break it

5 Help yourself to a fresh cigarette, then slide package back into its Humidor Pack

6 Close package. It guards Camels from dust and germs and provides sanitary protection

THE moment you open the new Camel Humidor Pack you begin to note the advantages of this new, scientific and sanitary method of wrapping Camel cigarettes.

At once you are greeted with the delightful aroma that comes from choicest Turkish and mellowest Domestic tobaccos in prime condition.

Your sense of touch also detects the freshness of Camels, for unlike moisture-robbed cigarettes Camels are pliable to the fingers.

But the real difference comes when you light a Camel and inhale its cool, fragrant smoke.

Cigarettes brought to you so perfectly conditioned deserve to be kept that way in your pocket.

The simplest way to insure this is to open the Camel Humidor Pack as shown above.

That will keep intact the mildness and freshness that is making the whole country say: "Now I'd walk two miles for a Camel because they're twice as good."

If you haven't tried Camels in the new Humidor Pack, switch over for just one day.

Then go back tomorrow if you can.
