Friday Afternoon Club Meets With Mrs. A. E. South
The Friday Afternoon Club met January 25 with Mrs. A. E. South as hostess. Members of the club and Mrs. Roy Ruffy and Mrs. James H. Council, additional guests, enjoyed the fun and fellowship of the afternoon. It was a pleasure for the club to welcome Mrs. Tracy E. Council, after an absence of three months, back into the group.

Following a brief business period, Mrs. South passed personality tests to her guests. The answers to these furnished a lot of fun and laughter for the group, and each person was surprised with her personality as revealed by the quiz. Miss Marjorie South, daughter of the hostess, entertained with a piano selection.

At the close of the program the hostess, assisted by Miss Marjorie South and Mrs. D. J. Whitener, served a delicious salad course and cup cakes.

The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. Jennie Critcher.

MAN OF WAR—AND MAN OF PEACE . . . There is a striking contrast in these two photographs of Harold Pellow, Detroit. At the left is a photograph of him taken as he returned after two days of heavy beach fighting with the marines, during the battle for Eniwetok in the drive across the Pacific. At right, as he appears at his mechanics job in Detroit. The picture of the tired marine was one of the most published pictures of the war.
