N. C. BUILDING FIGURES GIVEN

Raleigh—The post-war building boom saw a total of $127,754,964 spent in North Carolina's 26 principal cities, the Department of Labor reported yesterday.

The report said that in the biennium which ended June 30 a total of $70,647,741 was spent in the 26 cities to provide housing for 13,919 families.

Non-residential construction totaled $39,650,280 during the period and $17,456,933 went for additions, alterations and repairs.

Winston-Salem ranked sixth among the N. C. cities in new construction.

Charlotte led the cities with $24,592,178, Greensboro $15,406,415, Durham $13,062,119, Raleigh $12,204,733, Winston-Salem $9,991,956, High Point $6,385,912, Asheville $5,060,754, Burlington $4,482,373, Rocky Mount $3,660,580, Fayetteville $3,541,626, Wilmington $3,447,074 and Wilson $3,983,745.

The North Carolina corn crop this year is expected to yield about 74 million bushels—13 per cent above the 1947 crop and 45 per cent more than the average for the previous ten years.

Sunday School Lesson

A RELIGIOUS FAMILY

International Sunday School Lesson for September 28, 1948

GOLDEN TEXT: "As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord."—Joshua 24: 15.

Lesson Text: Acts 16: 1-5; II Timothy 1: 9-13; 3: 14, 15.

With this lesson, we bring to a close the series on "Unheralded Bible Characters." Certainly, during the past quarter, we have come to know many men and women who made distinct contributions to their day and age and their examples should inspire many who while they cannot do big things, can live their best from day to day, making the world a better place for their having passed through it.

We do not know when or where Paul first came in contact with the family we are to discuss in this lesson. It was while he was on his second missionary journey that he, accompanied by Silas, arrived in Derbe and Lystra. There, as our reference tells us, was a certain disciple, named Timothy, the son of a Jewess that believed; but his father was a Greek. Paul had heard good reports of this young man and needing another helper in his great work he invited Timothy to join him in the dangerous, difficult work of spreading the gospel. Timothy accepted the invitation and thus began a friendship between two workers in the Kingdom, one now a rather old man and the other a comparatively young man.

How was it that Timothy, a young man, was prepared for service when the call came? Paul himself tells why, when he declares, "From a babe thou hast known the holy scriptures, which we are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus." Oliver Wendell Holmes said, "To educate a child we must begin with his grandfather." In the case of Timothy his religious education began with his grandmother, Lois, "from her to his mother, Eunice. Timothy received his training in his home and while his grandfather and his father are not mentioned, there evidently was no objection on their part to the religious instruction given the young child.

The fellowship in a truly religious family is the best soil possible for the development of the finest traits of character. In the family circle each member learns to consider the interest of the other members, learning the habits of thoughtfulness and unselfishness. In a Christian home, parents and children appreciate and care for each other, and a strong tradition of love and comradeship is established. Their love for each other naturally is expressed in a mutual love for God and, in their worship of Him they find a daily source of strength and joy in family living.

The faith which sustained Timothy in his hours of trial was largely the consequence of the early teachings of his mother and grandmother, both of whom were believers in Jesus Christ. As a young child (babe) he was taught the scriptures and the truths he learned then never departed from him. Most educators agree that the impressions formed during the early years of a child's life have much to do with the development of later years.

Angelo Patri, in an article in NEA Journal, declared: "Children need to know the comfort and joy of religious feeling, need to be taught the good way of life, and too often they are deprived of that teaching because of our neglect. The first, last, best, and most influential teacher of religion is the family. The family dedicated to goodness will rear children with sound and deep religious feeling. That is what we need."

"All children should learn to pray. Little children begin by saying their bedtime prayers, in-between children pray for material good; adult souls pray for the strengthening of the spirit. We have no right to expect any church, any school, any body of people to carry the responsibility for the religious instruction of our children. That is the duty and the high privilege of the family group. The groups gather their strength from the family, the source of all support for church and school and state. Let us see that our own children receive this most essential endowment of the soul."

"go-ahead" order on some future M-Day. From them, industries would know what the Government needs, about how much it would pay and would give business a chance to compute in advance what it would need in manpower, materials and money to carry out the contracts.

NET SALES
Net sales of U. S. Corporations increased nearly $3,300,000,000 in the second quarter of 1948, compared to the corresponding period of last year, according to the Securities and Exchange Commission. The total of $28,846,890,000 in the April-June period—against $23,000,000,000 a year ago.

USAF ABROAD
The United States Air Force has 130,000 men and officers stationed overseas, which is 35,000 more than in the same period last year. The 130,000, however, does not include all Air Force men abroad, the emphasis being placed on the term "stationed." The figure is understood to exclude crews and supporting groups for B-29 units in England and Germany for what the Air Force described as "training missions." Nor did it include about 1,500 supply and maintenance men being sent to England to support the Berlin "Airlift" and other operations of the USAF in Europe.

Sarah Anne's Cooking Class

One of the best aids to good teeth is the proper diet. Parents should remember this and serve the right foods to their growing children. For the average child of 5 to 16 years, these foods are suggested for daily consumption. One quart of milk, at least one egg, one serving of meat, fish, chicken, or liver; two vegetables; one orange, apple or tomato and one additional fruit and two tablespoons of butter.

Jellied Fruit Cup
1 cup orange juice
1 cup pineapple juice
1 package lemon gelatin
1-2 cup pineapple cubed
1-2 cup white seedless grapes
1-2 cup maraschino cherries
chopped
Sprigs of mint
Heat the pineapple juice, add the gelatin and stir until the gelatin is dissolved. Add the orange juice and pour the mixture in a flat pan. Chill until firm and cut in tiny cubes. Fill sherbert cups with the gelatin cubes, pineapple, grapes and cherries. Garnish with sprigs of fresh mint.

Apple-Orange Jelly
3 apples
2 oranges
1-2 cup brown sugar
3-4 lb. macaroons
Butter
Slice apple and remove orange section. Arrange a layer of apples and a layer of oranges in a greased baking dish. Sprinkle with brown sugar and a little salt. Then add a layer of crushed macaroons and dot with bits of butter. Repeat the process until all ingredients are used. Bake in an oven 375 degrees about 25 minutes or until apples are tender. Serve hot or cold with cream or hard sauce.

Baked Eggs
3 cups mashed potatoes
2 tablespoons butter
1-2 cup milk
Salt, pepper, paprika
2 tablespoons chopped chives
5 eggs
Add the butter and milk to the hot mashed potatoes and season to taste. Beat well. Add the chives and spread in a shallow greased baking dish. Make 5 hollows and in each place a raw egg. Sprinkle with paprika and salt. Bake in a moderate oven until the eggs are firm.

Scrambled Eggs
6 eggs
1-4 to 1-2 cup milk
3-4 teaspoon salt
Pepper
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
Beat the eggs slightly and add the milk, salt and pepper. Melt the fat slowly in a skillet. Pour in the egg mixture and cook. As soon as the eggs begin to set, stir them up from the bottom and the sides of the pan until they are fluffy and creamy. Remove from heat and serve at once with breakfast bacon and slices of tomatoes.

Beef Paprika
1 cup sliced onions
1 1-2 tablespoons shortening
1 1-2 lbs. cubed beef
1-4 cup flour
3 cups hot water
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 tablespoon paprika
Salt
2 tablespoons undiluted evaporated milk
Saute onions in the shortening, add the beef, sear till brown. Sprinkle with the flour and add the hot water, vinegar, paprika and salt to taste. Simmer for an hour or more. Add the evaporated milk for gloss and richness. Serve in a noodle ring.

Baked Liver Loaf

1 lb. beef liver
1 cup dried bread crumbs
2 tablespoons melted margarine
1 beaten egg
3-4 teaspoon salt
Pepper, paprika
2 level tablespoons minced onion
1 1-2 cups hot water
Pour some boiling water over the liver and let stand 5 minutes. Drain and put through the food chopper. Add all the other ingredients but the hot water. Shape into a loaf. Place in a baking dish and add the hot water. Bake in an oven 350 degrees for 1 hour, basting occasionally.

Apple, Celery and Tuna Fish Salad
1 cup apples pared and diced
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 1-2 cups celery diced
2 cups tuna fish flaked
3-4 cup mayonnaise
Sprinkle the apples with the lemon juice and blend with the celery, tuna fish and mayonnaise. Serve in crisp lettuce.

State Leads in Assault Cases
Washington — North Carolina was the worst state in the country for aggravated assaults the first half of this year.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation reported Tar Heel aggravated assaults for the first six months of 1948 totalled 242 per 100,000 people.

Charlotte was credited with 233 cases of aggravated assault for the period.

Aggravated assault, the FBI explained, includes assault with intent to kill; assault by shooting, cutting, stabbing, maiming, poisoning, scalding, or by the use of acids.

Alabama was the state with the second highest total in aggravated assaults with 125 per 100,000 people, and Virginia was third with 114.

North Carolina had six murders per 100,000 people compared with thirteen for Georgia, six for South Carolina, and seven for Virginia.

North Carolina's rate of crime per 100,000 population for other offenses included nineteen for robbery (from a person); 229 for burglary; 447 for larceny, and 96 for automobile theft.

Charlotte, the only North Carolina city in the survey, was listed with twelve cases of murder, thirty-one of robberies, 299 burglaries, 111 thefts of more than $50, and 370 under $50; and 127 automobile thefts.

Dale Carnegie

Just how much attention do people pay to you when they talk to you? Or, what is more important, just how much attention do you pay to others when you talk to them? If you let your gaze wander while you're talking, you are not getting attention from your listener. Yet this is a trait common to most people. And, as a matter of fact, it isn't very courteous not to give your attention to that other person, is it?

Dr. David Powers of the department of speech, Queens college, Long Island, New York, recently told me a story illustrating what giving one's attention means to the one who is listening.

He was telling a story to his little five-year old son. It was a story that had been told and retold, and perhaps his attention to the details, and to his son, was not too intense. As a matter of fact he said thoughts of other things crept into his mind. The little boy sensed this, and when he saw his father looking off in space he suddenly reached up, took hold of his father's chin and turned his face toward his own.

"Look at me, daddy," he pleaded, "look at me. I can hear it better when you look at me."

If lack of attention disturbs a small boy who is hearing a story he has heard many times, certainly it is going to have the same effect on your adult listener. And if you are not going to talk to satisfy your audience, why bother with talking at all?

I've had applicants come to me for a job, and while relating their experiences they would stare at the top of my desk, stare around the room, out of the window, in fact, anywhere and everywhere their gaze could penetrate—except at me. I cannot recall that I have ever considered such an applicant for a job seriously.

If you are applying for a job, there's just one thing that should interest you at the moment—the job. So look at the man who can give it to you, pay him the closest attention. The chances are you'll learn a lot when you do.

FALL FROM TRACTOR FATAL
Frederick, Md.—While pulling a wagon loaded with baled hay, Charles Leighton Fritz, 21, fell from the tractor he was driving into the path of the wagon. The wheels of the heavily loaded vehicle rolled over him, fracturing his skull, fatally injuring him.

IN THE CHIPS
Cleveland, O.—When police apprehended four youths who had broken into a railroad box car, they found them deep in the chips—soap chips, that is. They had already unloaded and were about to make off with ten cases of soap chips.

When you use herbs, especially dried herbs, use them with a light hand. Herb flavors are lost through long cooking. So add them to stews, soups and pot roasts, about a half-hour before cooking is finished. You'll find that you can draw out and extend the flavor of the oils in herbs better by adding the herbs to fat. Home economists recommend using herbs in the following ways:

Serve cooked string beans or peas mixed with chopped chives; or with a dash of garlic salt or rosemary.

Try basil or bay leaves with tomatoes.

Dill seeds and caraway seeds pep up cabbage dishes.

Put a few whole cloves in creamed onions.

Try tarragon vinegar for beets.

For a change from everyday mashed potatoes, add a little chopped chives or parsley.

A dash of rosemary makes that vitamin-rich spinach taste like more.

Sprinkle a little dill into cooked winter squash.

"Southland," a new tomato variety which is resistant to collar rot and nearly immune to fusarium wilt, has been developed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.
