

Next Saturday Is Poppy Day

"In Flanders Field the poppies blow,
Between the crosses, row on row."
This poem written shortly after World War I in memory of the war dead in Belgium and France has caused the poppy to become the national symbol of honor and memorial for those who died in defense of America.

Paper poppies are made throughout the year by veterans in hospitals whose idle hands are made busy and whose lonely hours are gainfully employed by their construction. For some veterans in hospitals this is the only way they have of earning a little extra money for themselves.

The American Legion Auxiliary disposes of these poppies for the disabled veterans and all the money received from their sale is used for the benefit of veterans and their dependents.

The local Legion Auxiliary asks you to wear a poppy next Saturday and Sunday in memory of our war dead and to give as liberally as you can to help those who helped to keep America free.

Flowers Bloom On Park Route

The spring flowers are now in bloom along many sections of the Blue Ridge Parkway, officials of the drive announced this week. The many and varied ground flowers are showing their blossoms above the green grass of the fields and woods. The various shades of the Azalea are becoming dominant in the color scheme of nature, particularly along that section of the Parkway from Cumberland Knob south to Doughter Park.

The Pink Azalea although now past its peak is still very beautiful. According to District Ranger Anthony Stark of the National Park Service the Flame Azalea in all its shades from pale yellow through orange and red should be at its height on the week end of May 26 and will continue to provide a beautiful sight throughout the month of May. Some of the Purple Rhododendron blossoms are already opening and should be very attractive by this week end, although this bloom is not expected to be at its peak until later.

The National Park rangers wish to remind the public that the Blue Ridge Parkway is for the use and enjoyment of the people. Please cooperate by helping to keep the area clean and attractive. Use the trash cans at the overlooks and please leave the flowers for others to enjoy.

Donald Warman Aids In Honoring Caretaker

Parkville, Missouri, May 21.—Donald Warman, 420 Greene Street, Boone, was among the 300 Park College students who volunteered this week to devote a day to physical labor on the 80-acre campus. The occasion honored Spencer Cave, Negro caretaker who, born a slave, made the care of the campus his life work during the 72 years he spent at the college before his death.

Students cleared brush under power lines, uprooted dandelions by the thousand, planted perennials, cut dead trees into logs, dammed a spring to make a woodland pool, clipped grass along the campus sidewalks and carried away debris by the truckload.

A 40 per cent increase in air freight reported for year.

Keyserling links output, and taxes as curbs on inflation.

Newspapers urged to reduce waste to assure paper supply.

RESPONSIBILITIES OF FARMING FALL ON WOMEN, SAYS P. M. A.

"The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world."
The same hand mentioned in the old adage also plays an important part in operating a successful farm business, according to Jennings B. Robinson, County Supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration for Watauga county.

"Some of the heaviest responsibilities of farm life fall upon the homemaker, involving home-food production and conservation, health of the family, wise expenditure of income, and improving the attractiveness and comfort of the home."

The Farmers Home Administration has pioneered in the supervised credit field by giving on-the-farm guidance in carrying out recommended farm and home practices Robinson pointed out. This means practical training on the farm and in the home. A limited number of home management specialists assist county supervisors in handling
