

APPALACHIAN HI SCHOOL NEWS

The student body of Appalachian High School enjoyed a varied and entertaining program presented in chapel by the high school band this past Friday.

Selections included, "Commandery March", "A Syncopeated Clock", "Chant of the Sea", "The Thunder March", and two amusing novelty numbers, "A Trio Grows in Brooklyn" and "The Three Bears".

At the end of the program Betty Raye Greene, president of the Tri-Hi-Y club, presented to Miss Brister, librarian, a scrapbook of the year's events made by the club members.

Baccalaureate Sermon On Sunday evening at 8 o'clock in the Boone Baptist Church members of the Appalachian High School senior class heard a sermon by Dr. W. G. Bond, assisted in the service by the Reverend Joseph T. Shackford. Special music was presented by the Choral Ensemble class. Graduation exercises and a reception following will be held on Friday evening, May 25.

Teas Given By Class The eighth grade Home Living classes, under the direction of Mrs. Hamby, have given several teas recently in connection with a unit study on foods. On May 4 a tea was given in the Home Economics room for mothers of the class and faculty members. The visitors enjoyed dainty sandwiches and punch.

On May 8, the same group entertained the faculty and student teachers at a farewell tea for the student teachers. The table was decorated with apple blossoms and lilacs. Punch and sandwiches were served to the group.

Party Planning Club On Thursday, May 10, members of the Party Planning Club enjoyed a party given by Carolyn Greene, Dorothy Greene, and Kathryn Payne. Refreshments consisted of cookies, candy and drinks. During the party records were played.

Homeroom News Miss Wells' homeroom had a picnic last Friday after school at Winkler's Creek. The picnic was given by the grade mothers. The group enjoyed delicious food followed by a softball game.

Members of Mrs. Beaty's homeroom enjoyed a picnic during their homeroom program this past week. Members of the class brought the various kinds of refreshments, and the group climbed the hill by the boys' dormitory for a picnicking spot.

SHORT TERM DEBT HITS HIGH LEVEL

The short-term debt owed by U. S. farmers now totals about 6 billion dollars—the highest amount since the peak levels of the early 1920s. About 2.6 billion of this is owed to individuals, merchants, and dealers, and about 3.4 billion to institutional lenders such as commercial banks and federally sponsored lending agencies.

Clark, extension farm management specialist at State College, it is likely that the short-term debt will continue high, at least for 1951. Money spent for machinery, equipment, and livestock is becoming a larger proportion of the total farm investment. Farms are less self-sufficing, and cash costs are heavier now than before the war.

Clark says the Korean situation brought in several new factors that stimulated the use of short-term credit. Farmers generally feared a recurrence of wartime shortages and expected substantially higher prices. They did not hesitate to increase their debt to acquire goods for future needs as well as to expand production.

The volume of short-term debts may expand and shrink rather rapidly. Crop production loans usually call for repayment during the same year in which they are made. Even loans made for the purchase of farm machinery and basic livestock ordinarily are paid within two or three years.

Clark says Tar Heel farmers are conscious of their need for adjustments and are moving toward increased use of machinery and increased livestock production. Lending institutions, he says, must recognize that farmers of the State need credit to finance improved pastures, fencing, buildings, and breeding stock. Repayment plans must be practical and cover longer periods to fit farm income possibilities.

I REMEMBER BY THE OLD-TIMERS

From Mrs. W. C. Blaine, Tuscola, Ill.: I remember when the whole family gathered in the parlor on cold winter nights. Mother would play the organ and the family would sing "Just Because You Made Them Goo-Goo Eyes." "Put Your Arms Around Me Honey, Hold Me Tight," "Red Wing." We would wind up the evening singing Stephen Foster songs and hymns.

From Mrs. Bessie K. Hubbell, Ada, Ohio: I remember when women at 40 stopped wearing hats and wore straw, silk or velvet bonnets with ribbon ties to make a bow under the chin. They wore somber clothes and never all white.

From Mrs. M. E. Stanley, Milton, Vt.: I remember, when a girl, father making butter, packing it in tubs, then in early morning when cool, driving 14 miles to sell it for 15 cents a pound. Also when women and girls had high button shoes, flour sold for 75 cents for a 25-lb. sack. Eggs were only 10 and 12 cents a dozen.

From Edna Marsh, Blairsville, Pa.: I remember when women wore shirtdresses with high neck and stiff collars up against their jaws. Some collars were ribbon wound around their necks. Hair was pinned on top of their heads with a puff all around their heads, kept out by hair "rats."

From Mrs. Ella M. Conant, Plymouth, Mich.: I remember when we slept on "ticks" filled with dried corn husks. When house-cleaning time came, mother would empty the husks on a clean sheet in the yard. It was my job to pick the husks up one at a time, shake out dust and put them in a clean "tick." We called them "ticks" because they were made of ticking. When boiled in a large copper boiler washing, all white clothes were placed on a wood range.

WARNED

Shipwrecked Man (to another who wants to share his raft)—Before you get on, old chap, I think it's only fair to warn you that I have a rather nasty cold.
