

Science Fair Draws Exhibits 9 Counties

The science fair of the North-western District was held at Appalachian State Teachers college on Saturday, and attracted 37 exhibitors from seven high schools in the nine-county area.

Schools were invited from Watauga, Ashe, Alleghany, Wilkes, Caldwell, Burke, McDowell, Avery, and Mitchell counties. Exhibiting in the junior division (grades seven through nine) were the eighth grade of Bethel high school and Appalachian high school in the biological sciences, and Bethel high school in the physical sciences. Exhibiting in the senior division (grades ten through twelve) were Appalachian, Bethel, Cove Creek, Beaver Creek in Ashe County, Mountain View in Wilkes County, in the physical sciences; and Appalachian, Cove Creek, Bethel, and Morganton high schools in the biological sciences.

Five winners were chosen in each division of the senior exhibitions, all of whom will be eligible to participate in the State Science Fair which is to be held at North Carolina State College in Raleigh April 25-27.

The winners in the biological sciences were: Keith Wyke of Appalachian high with the Respiratory System; Joe Miller of Appalachian high, Taxidermy; Louis Cornell of Appalachian high, Auxinometer; Nancy Higgins of Morganton high, The Brain from Fish to Man; and Bobby Deaton of Morganton high, North Carolina Trees and Uses.

Winners in the physical sciences were: Tad Buckland of Appalachian high, Van DeGraff Generator; Lenny Glenn of Bethel high, Disk Recorder, Phonograph, and Radio; Bob Smoot of Mountain View high, Van DeGraff Generator; David Woodruff of Mountain View high, Progressive Steps in Radio; and Frank Eller of Mountain View high, How Electricity Is Produced. The fair gave an opportunity for students interested in science to display their work to parents, teachers, other students, and the general public. It also helped to find boys and girls who may become scientists through aptitude and training. Certificates of participation were given to all entrants, and seals of merit were given to all winners.

The exhibits were judged by Norman Isenhour of the International Resistance Company; T. K. Pease, naturalist-ranger for the Blue Ridge Parkway, and Dr. I. W. Carpenter of the biology department faculty at Appalachian State Teachers college. Dr. F. Ray Derrick, head of the college's department of biology, directed the fair, assisted by Kent Robinson, member of the department's faculty.

County Agent Notes Are Given

By L. E. TUCKWILLER

Would you like to know an easy way to make $10.00 to $100.00 more per cow on each cow you milk? Messrs. John F. Brown and T. Carlton Blalock will give you some suggestions on how we might do this at a special dairy meeting April 18, at the Courthouse in Boone at 7:00 p. m.

They will use slides and charts showing how some farmers increase their income without spending much more money.

Valuable door prizes will be given to holders of lucky numbers. These prizes are donated by the people who are interested in helping you make more money with your cows.

The Cow-to-Can milker will be demonstrated at 7:00 p. m. Other dairy equipment will be on display.

Special plans are being made to make the meeting profitable for you.

Unit Test Farm Families

The Unit Test Demonstration Farmer Committee is ready to accept applications from farm families who would like to become Unit Test Farm families. Applications should be made to Otto Thomas, chairman of the committee or to one of the following: Mrs. W. R. Vines, Mrs. Ferd Michael, Cecil Swift or J. C. Stansbury. The county or home agents will be glad to relay your application to the committee.

To be a Unit Test Demonstration farm family, the farmer must depend on the farm for most of his income, and actually work on the farm most of the time.

NEW EJECTOR SEAT

Corporation To Sell Stock, Build Factory

A new corporation has been chartered by the State of North Carolina to do business in Watauga County under the name of Watauga Industries, Inc.

Incorporators were E. F. Coe, G. R. Andrews, and D. L. Wilcox, all of Boone, and the charter was secured by Boone attorney, Wade E. Brown.

The corporation will be empowered to raise funds by selling stock, negotiate with industrial firms, option prospective sites for new plant locations, and erect buildings for new industry.

It is expected that the first order of business will be to sell stock in the amount of $35,000 to erect a building 120 x 100 feet to house a lingerie plant expected to locate here as soon as details can be worked out.

The deed for this property will be made to the new corporation, W. H. Gragg explained at the Chamber of Commerce meeting Tuesday, and it will be owned by the individuals who purchase stock in the corporation. The manufacturing firm will rent the building with an option to buy the property from the corporation, he added.

A meeting will be held to elect officers for the new organization in the near future, it was announced.

for all the world like a big rat. Starting back into the apartment through the fragrant kitchen, I almost stepped on three sad-eyed Basset hounds which waddled ahead of men into the dining room followed by some Siamese cats. It would have been a welcome relief to sit in the adjacent lounge, only Debbie, a huge but friendly Great Dane dog was there before me. It seemed remarkable that all these various animals got along with each other so well—much better than humans.

Lorraine and Berne D'Essen explained that these animals had been carefully selected, trained and tutored accordingly. They go on stage or before the television or movie cameras and no one needs worry about their conduct in any way. They are transported to the studios in cabs, Cadillacs or truck, whatever is the best means, and are always treated kindly. They live here right in the house with their owners and seem to appreciate it. There is no doubt that the D'Essens love their four-footed friends; and as for the animals—well they never had it so good!
