The church was decorated with native greenery background and huge baskets of orchid gladioli and yellow roses, with seven branch candelabra using orchid candles.

Mrs. Grady Moretz, Jr., of Boone, organist, and Mr. Dale Holland of Winston-Salem, soloist, presented a program of wedding music. Elizabeth Barrett Browning's sonnet, "How Do I Love Thee?" was read to a musical background by Mr. Johnny Mast of Sugar Grove.

Given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Norman Lee Wilson, of Sugar Grove, the bride wore a white wedding dress of chantilly lace and net over satin, fashioned with a Sabrina neckline, long sleeves and an over skirt of lace over a gathered flounce of net at the bottom. Her double-tiered shoulder length veil of imported illusion was held in place on a double ruffled head piece with seed pearl trim. She carried a white satin-bound Bible topped with a purple orchid with an imported lace handkerchief tucked inside the Bible.

The bridegroom's mother was attired in beige lace. She also wore a corsage of baby orchids.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the Fellowship Hall of the church. The bride's table was centered by a nosegay of pink rosebuds flanked by crystal candelabra holding white candles. The hand crocheted cloth was caught up on the sides at intervals by miniature nosegays similar to the centerpiece. The four-tiered cake, decorated with small pink and white bells and topped with a miniature bride and groom, rested on a round plate glass mirror bordered with native greenery.

Serving at the reception were Mrs. Albert Henson, Mrs. Norman Wilson, sisters of the bride, Mrs. Murriel Glenn, Mrs. Clarence Swift, Mrs. Dave Mast, Mrs. Sarah Horton, and Mrs. E. M. Blankenship.

The bride's going away suit was baby blue trimmed with rhinestones and seed pearls. She wore a hat of iridescent sequins and her accessories were white. Her corsage was the orchid from her bridal bouquet.
