Jr. Clubwomen Honor Teachers

The Junior Women's Club will honor the teachers of Boone Elementary School on Teachers Day Thursday at 10 a. m. Clubwomen request the publication of the following Teachers' Day Prayer, which is credited to Mrs. Lark Newsome: Keep us oh, God, thankful for our teachers, with their untiring efforts and unselfish devotion to our children. Let us be done with criticism of today's education and devote our time and efforts to helping the teachers with their heavy responsibilities. Help us to put away our pride and selfishness and to meet the teachers more than half way with only the teacher's problems at heart. May we never be hasty in judgment and always remember the teachers are devoting their life's work for us. Oh, Lord, we pray that every one in all walks of life will take time to celebrate Teacher's Day. Give us the wisdom to realize that without our teachers we could not prepare our children for the future ahead. Teach us Oh, Lord, that we should give thanks every day for this land of opportunity where our children can be taught freedom of thought and freedom of speech. Oh, Lord, we thank thee for Teacher's Day. Amen.

Parkway School Is Observing Education Week

In observance of National Education Week, Parkway School extends a special invitation to parents to visit the school on Wednesday, November 13, and to attend the combined P. T. A.—Parent-teacher conference and meeting Thursday night, November 14. Wednesday's program, planned for the entire day, will include a discussion with the principal on "Homework in the School Plan"; observation of classes; lunch in the school's cafeteria; a full length feature movie, illustrating the type of feature films Parkway children see once each month. Parkway has recently completed a two-year testing program. Information from these tests, together with students' classwork and grades, will serve as the basis for parent-teacher conferences at the meeting Thursday night. The Thursday night meeting begins at 6:30 with open house until 7:00. Following open house parents will meet in the various classrooms for individual conferences with their child's teacher. Parents and teachers assemble in the school cafeteria at 8:00. The school financial report will be given, school accomplishments and school problems will be discussed, and individual reports will be given by teachers. Teachers will discuss and illustrate various phases of school activity which they have undertaken as special projects—including songs by the Glee Club, and films to illustrate the purpose and place of audio-visual training in the school's program.
