LESS BEEF

The Agriculture Department predicts smaller supplies of beef during the next two or three years—possibly as much as one-eighth below last year's consumption average. Cattle numbers started a decline last year under the influence of drought and low prices. Once a downward trend sets in, it takes several years to reverse it.

Miss Nan Priest Visits Schools

Miss Nan Priest, State School Lunch Supervisor, recently completed a week's study of local school cafeterias in this county. The purpose of the visitation was to work with cafeteria supervisors and principals in the improvement of the lunch program in our schools. Miss Priest devoted most of her time in the kitchens working directly with the cafeteria employees in the preparation and serving of foods.

Miss Priest praised individual schools for the progress which has been made during the past year in the purchase and installation of new cafeteria equipment. All schools have acquired all the major equipment necessary for efficient operation, and increased student participation is noted in all schools as a result of improved facilities and better food preparation.

Cafeteria supervisors were praised for their knowledge of foods and the managerial efficiency of their operation. Miss Priest also pointed out that she had never worked with a group of cafeteria personnel and principals with a better attitude toward their work.

Our schools appreciate the help which they receive from state officials, and all school personnel are to be commended for the fine cooperative spirit existing between the local and state level.

visit in itself can be rewarding.

Howard Miller of the television show by that name, says he has to wear a shirt of a different color every day he is on the air because the show is broadcast in color. He appropriately has a blue one for Monday, a pink one for Tuesday, an orange one for Wednesday, lavender for Thursday and a light green one for Friday. White shirts are out. They shine too much, he says.

The local chestnut vendors remind me of those youthful halcyon days when we hunted wild chestnuts in the woods and picked their unique goodness from the prickly burrs. Unhappily, blight killed all those trees about 30 years ago, though some are reported coming back—we hope. These here come from Italy and though they are large and look good, do not compare in taste to the old-time wild ones we knew.

Corporate profits declined in second quarter. Business decline is seen extending to mid-1958.
