

Farm, Home Week To Start Next Monday

When Farm Home Week begins on the campus of N. C. State College next Monday, June 8, it will be different from any other Farm Home Week ever held in the fifty years of its existence.

According to Ruth Current, state home demonstration agent, the events of this year's Farm Home Week will definitely "challenge home demonstration club women to help find solutions to the current problems in education and science."

The purpose of the education program is to provide an opportunity for the women to hear the status of education throughout the nation discussed and applied to the problems we face as citizens and leaders in North Carolina.

An address on education will be given by J. Hiden Hamsey, N. C. Board of Higher Education, Asheville, followed by a panel moderated by Dr. Carey H. Boston, Chancellor of N. C. State College. Panel members include such personalities as: Dr. Charles F. Carroll, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Raleigh; Dr. Gordon W. Blackwell, Chancellor of Woman's College, Greensboro; Dr. Charles T. McNary, public relations director, Blue Bell, Inc., Greensboro; and Mrs. L. B. Pate, president of the N. C. Federation of Home Demonstration Clubs, New Bern.

Wednesday morning's program during Farm Home Week is equally significant in that, as Miss Current says, "We are living in a world of science and change with many new innovations coming into our lives." Alvis Proctor, E. I. DuPont de Nemours and Company, Wilmington, Delaware, will address the group on "Science and the Citizen of Tomorrow," followed by another panel moderated by Dean D. W. Colvard, Dean of the School of Agriculture, N. C. State College. With him to discuss how progress in science will affect the home tomorrow will be William Newell, N. C. State School of Textiles; Dr. Hazel Steiberling, Institute of Home Economics, Agricultural Research Service, Washington, D. C.; and Edward Loewenstein, teacher and architect, Greensboro.

Another emphasis for the week's activities will be in the realm of human relations. The nationally-known pair, Harry and Bonaro Overstreet, Falls Church, Va., will speak on "Living Richer and Fuller Lives," "Learning to Live with Ourselves," "The Home as a Place for Maturing," and "Where Personal Problems Become Social Problems."

Annual Federation Day will take place this year on the last day of Farm Home Week, and as usual will be another history-making chapter in the home demonstration book. According to Miss Current, the state report for the year will be taken from the recent study of Home Demonstration work in North Carolina which was a part of a national study. "This will perhaps be one of the most informative and satisfying

FORNOGRAPHY BILL
The House has passed a bill to tighten controls on mailing of pornography and increase maximum penalties for violators. The bill would permit prosecutions not only at the point of mailing, but also at point of delivery, or any point in between. Present law provides a maximum penalty of a $5,000 fine and five years in jail. The new bill would double this for second and subsequent offenses.
