Two Are Arrested In Seizure Of White Liquor; Still Destroyed

Two men were arrested Saturday night when a large quantity of non-tax paid liquor was found in a pickup truck and at their homes, according to Sheriff E. M. Hodges. Placed under arrest were Tilden Wineberger, 34, and Glenn Greer, 52, who live on Rainbow Trail, southeast of Boone. They were charged with possession of non-tax paid whiskey for purpose of sale. The men were released upon posting $500.00 bond each.

According to Sheriff Hodges, three quarts of whiskey was found in Wineberger's truck. A total of 44 gallons of whiskey was confiscated by the sheriff's department, and both men were arrested at their homes. The truck was also confiscated. The arrests followed discovery of a still Friday by the sheriff's department in the woods between Howard's Knob and Rainbow Trail.

Deputies watched the still until it was destroyed Saturday night. No one was at the still at time of discovery but the outfit showed evidence of having been in operation recently. Mash was in the process of fermenting in one of two vats when the law officers found the still.

A car radiator was being used as a worm, and it, along with several barrels, metal drums and the vats were blown up with dynamite by the officers.

The white lightning was in gallon jugs, half gallon and quart jars. Three hundred pounds of sugar, believed by the officers to have been intended for use in the manufacture of whiskey, was also taken. Sheriff Hodges said Wineberger and Greer were also being charged with the manufacture of whiskey, in connection with this still.

"Rain" Opens At Barter; Star Studded Cast Features Show

"Rain", the legendary tale of Sadie Thompson and the downfall of Reverend Davidson, opened Monday evening at the Barter Theatre in Abingdon, Virginia. Guest star Gerry Jedd, who received the Obie Award for her role in "She Stoops to Conquer" in New York this year, appears as Sadie Thompson. Herb Nelson, a busy man at Barter this year, plays Reverend Davidson. The star studded cast includes Elizabeth Wilson, appearing as Mrs. Davidson, and Gordon Greene, who plays O'Hara.

"Rain" will be presented for one week only, through Saturday July 1, and will not be repeated later this season. The Barter curtain goes up at 8:30 every night except Sunday. There are matinees at 2:30 on Wednesday and Saturday. For reservations, call the box office in Abingdon, Virginia.

HOUSING BILL
President Kennedy has wrapped up a victory on the $8,140,000,000 housing bill in the Senate. This gave the Kennedy Administration encouragement over the House floor fight that is expected to follow in debates.

Alabama Democratic Representative Rains said that a House fight was in prospect over public housing and the method of Treasury advances to finance many of the programs. These often are denounced as backdoor spending.

International Relations Workshop To Start Monday

A two-week International Relations Workshop beginning July 3 on the campus of Appalachian State Teachers College will feature consultants from world areas of strategic importance.

Dr. J. C. Yoder, social studies department head, announces that the consultants will include Dr. Felix Garcia, a Cuban international lawyer and economist, and Hans-Georg Wieck of Germany.

Dr. Robert Gregory of Wake Forest College, who has spent some time in Africa, will give talks and hold discussions about this continent. The workshop will be under the direction and supervision of Dr. Frederick D. Ogden, professor of political science, from the University of Alabama. Dr. Ogden, a graduate of Tusculum College and Johns Hopkins University, has spent a year in India on a Fulbright scholarship and has traveled extensively in Europe. In the summer of 1959, Dr. Ogden was a visiting scholar in Duke University's Commonwealth Studies Center.

20 Grads To Receive MA's At End Of Term

Twenty 1961 M. A. graduates of Appalachian will be teaching in junior and senior colleges next year, according to an announcement made this week by Dr. Cratis Williams, director of graduate studies.

Joining the faculties of North Carolina colleges will be the following: Robert Lee King, biology, and James Crump, mathematics, College of Albemarle; Mrs. Frances S. Fulmer, mathematics, Appalachian; William Gregg, athletics and physical education, Brevard; Patricia Britt and Charles Helms, business education, Chowan; George K. Boyles, biology, Mitchell; Doris Sparks, history, Wingate.

John Rouche will be a part-time teacher of history at Appalachian as he continues work beyond the Master's degree.

Three M. A. graduates will teach at Greenbrier College in West Virginia: James J. Saulmon, biology; Ann Culp, music; Elaine Ellis, who received the B. S. degree at the spring commencement, will teach French at an exclusive school for girls.

Four will be teaching in Georgia colleges: Claude Leffingwell, mathematics, North Georgia College; Betty Claxton, business education, Georgia Southern College; William Koon, English, Georgia Military Institute; Lloyd Clay Dotson, history, Young Harris College.

Bobby Russell Himes will teach history at Campbellville College in Kentucky. Eugene Fernetto has signed to teach English and journalism at Brevard Community College in Florida. James Wentworth will teach physical education in Wesley Junior College at Dover, Delaware.

Kenneth Clawson, a biology major, resigned from an appointment at Lees-McRae College to accept a Kellogg Fellowship in junior college education at Florida State University.

Over a hundred requests for college teachers have come to the Graduate Office since March 1, says Dr. Williams. Leading the list are requests for teachers of mathematics and English.

Farm Value Has Increased

The average value of North Carolina farms has increased rapidly in recent years, but the typical Tar Heel farmer still owns a lot less than his national counterpart.

Preliminary information from the 1959 Census of Agriculture shows that the average value of farms in the state was about $15,000 when the census was taken.

This is an 88 per cent increase since 1954, but still far short of the average national of $33,000.

Tar Heel farmers did close the gap somewhat in the 1954-1959 period. The average farm in the nation only increased in value by 63 per cent during this period.

The census figures only show the value of farmland and buildings. They do not include machinery, equipment and livestock.

Average North Carolina farm values are about in line with those of other Southern states with the exception of Florida and West Virginia.
