Home Life Dept. Has Meeting

The Home Life Department of the Worthwhile Women's Club of Boone met with Mrs. Dempsey Wilcox on Oak Street Thursday night at 7:30. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Cicero Greer and Mrs. John Wethered.

The meeting was called to order by Chairman Mrs. Dempsey Wilcox and the club collect was given by Mrs. Lona Qualls. Guests Mrs. Alfred Adams, Mrs. Humie Adams and Mrs. Jo Ragan were introduced, along with the speaker, Mrs. A. E. Hamby, Jr.

The club gardens were discussed and it was reported that someone had been engaged to dig the bulbs and help store them for the winter at Mrs. Herman Wilcox's basement. Mrs. Harman reported that she thought a need at the rest homes was recreation and some little attentions from outsiders for the guests in the home.

A ride into the country for an hour and an ice cream cone would add to their joy. Sunday afternoon she said was especially long and dull for them in that they could not work and the afternoon's were so very long to them for that reason. It was suggested that various clubs could take a home and make it their project to do something for the guests in that home as often as they could. It was also called to the clubs attention that a citizen living in the neighborhood of one of our gardens said he knew that garden had been photographed this summer by at least twenty-five tourists and that they would stand and admire the beauty often when no one had a camera.

The citizen said he was willing to pitch in and help keep the gardens another year for reasons mentioned.

Christmas decorations were discussed as new business and it was decided this department would take charge of decorating windows this year. Prizes for judges for Christmas decorations were mentioned but nothing done about it at this meeting.

Mable Brown, General Club Chairman, called attention to the next general club speaker, Mrs. Ballentine, and urged all to be present. She also asked for names of all who could go to the district meeting and said she hoped to have three autos full for that trip.

The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Hamby who talked at length on etiquette. She had the subject well in hand and took up such subjects as weddings, parties, entertaining guests in the home, table settings, flower arranging and many special occasions. She said the Fogue's book on etiquette seemed to her to be one of the best and made the information the simplest of any she had found. She said that etiquette in general was simply good and kind consideration of those about us and doing everything in the nicest and most tasteful manner, and that any rules of etiquette might be changed to suit the occasion especially in our homes and entertaining friends.

The meeting was a most enjoyable one and many of the members asked questions and entered into discussions which always makes for a better program.

The hostesses served delicious refreshments to the twenty-four guests and members present.
