

Southeastern Flower Show Is Being Planned At Chapel Hill

Raleigh—Colorful and growing, spring will again come early to the southeastern states in the form of the second annual Southeastern Flower and Garden Show, which will be staged in the J. S. Dorton Arena, February 23-27.

The show is sponsored by a non-profit corporation organized by the North Carolina Commercial Flower Growers and the North Carolina Association of Nurserymen. Also participating in the event are: The North Carolina Federation of Garden Clubs, The North Carolina Orchid Society, and the North Carolina State Florist Association.

The arena will be transformed into a floral fairland with over 20,000 square feet of major flower and garden displays by exhibitors from ten southeastern states.

The show's principal attractions will be the professionally designed gardens on the arena floor. Richard C. Bell, Raleigh Landscape Architect, has prepared architectural drawings for the show layout and will coordinate and supervise the installation of the gardens. The over-all show layout has been completely redesigned with ten large gardens and five smaller ones located in and around a central pedestrian way. Better circulation has been provided and the viewing public will be able to walk into the gardens, to see the plantings close up, to sit on the seat walls and benches, to examine the fence and wall details close up, and to note the various construction techniques. Two hundred and fifty different trees and shrubs will be used in the gardens and tagged so they can be identified. Hundreds of bulbs, flowering trees, and shrubs will be forced into bloom for the show.

The entire show will be designed for maximum "audience participation." Near the exhibition gardens will be five information booths which will be staffed by members of the participating organizations. Educational exhibits and daily lectures and demonstrations by the Horticultural Department of North Carolina State College, the Orchid Society, the Florists Association and the Garden Clubs will be feature attractions.

The artistic division presented by the Garden Clubs of North Carolina and judged by Accredited Flower Show Judges will feature flower arrangements, table settings, "horticultural" exhibits, junior exhibits, and miniatures.

Every night, from a platform located in the mountain garden, the merchants of Cameron Village will present a dazzling fashion show.

Hugh Vann, General Chairman of the Show, expects interest and attendance to the 1962 Show to far exceed the crowds which thronged the first show in Raleigh. "Our first show was proclaimed by expert and novice alike, as one of the most beautiful Flower Shows produced in this country."

Industrial production showed a rise for October.

M-G-M reports record profit for year.

NATO force will grow to 25 divisions by 1962.

Shoes For Needy Church Project

The Seventh-day Adventist Church of Valle Crucis started its "Shoes For Needy Children" program Oct. 17 in Watauga County, says Mrs. Lola Miller, welfare secretary for the church.

The church supplies the money and other assistance for the shoes program but permits the local county welfare director, Mr. D. P. Mast, to decide who is to receive the shoes each month.

The children are taken once a month by Mrs. Miller to a local store where they are fitted with new shoes of their choice.

The "Shoes" program is only one of several welfare projects the Seventh-day Adventist Church is sponsoring in the Carolinas.

"The Seventh-day Adventist Church patterns its ministry after Jesus Christ, who went about doing good, healing the sick, teaching the people, and preaching the gospel. Therefore its humanitarian program is based on welfare, medical, educational and evangelistic projects," the announcement said.

The latest available annual report reveals 6,481,172 persons helped, 6,443,762 volunteer hours worked, 1,527 welfare centers and units in operation.

RELIGIOUS CONTROVERSY

A possible religious controversy lurked in the background of a threatened fight over the House speakership.

The possibility was raised by an announcement by Representative Rains (D-Ala.) that he was considering opposing Representative McCormack (D-Mass.).

McCormack is a Roman Catholic, and his election as speaker would give members of that religion the two top positions in Congress, as well as the Presidency.
