Dr. Lake Candidacy Is Left In Doubt

North Wilkesboro—Did Dr. "As a result, both party lines I. Beverly Lake indicate to reare blurred and indistinct, lead-

A wire service story last and the welfare state." night said he did.

Lake said he didn't. The wire story quoted Lake, the segregationist Raleigh lawyer who lost to Terry Sanford in the bitter Democratic primaries of 1960, as saying this:

I've got a great deal of friends and a great deal of votes, and I hope I'll have a good deal of money . . . Under these condition, I will consider running again very strongly."

Lake was reported to have made the statement at a Kiwanis Club luncheon during a question - and - answer session with reporters.

Reached by telephone last night at a dinner party in a North Wilkesboro restaurant, Lake said he didn't say yes and he didn't say no.

"My statement wasn't that strong," he said. "I said that there were many things to consider before I could make a decision."

Lake said a reporter asked him whether he would run for governor "under the right conditions." In a jovial mood, he said, "answered that under these conditions (friends, votes, money) I might run."

He said he didn't intend to give the impression that he was making a definite commitment of any sort. "I haven't made a decision yet," he said.

Lake, a former Wake Forest law professor, told the Kiwanians in his speech to beware of trends toward "socialized welfare states" in the federal and state governments.

He charged liberal leaders, state and federal, with leading the people to "tyranny and despair" rather than freedom.

He strongly criticized the Kennedy administration's action in sending troops to the University of Mississippi to assure the admission there of Negro student James Meredith. Housing Order

Lake also lashed out at Kennedy's executive order banning segregation in federally supported housing projects. He said new housing construction is "limping and crawling" be-cause of "heartless legislation."

Public schools, he said, have been "brought down to mediocrity by court orders."

"Our tomorrow will be paralyzed if we ignore the past," Lake said. "Republican and Democratic party leaders today have failed to look back into history at party principles.

Farmers Move To Big Tractors

During the next two years, North Carolina farmers will continue to shift to tractors with more horsepower.

A recent state-wdie survey shows that in 1961-62, about 69 per cent of new tractors purchased will be in the 25-55 horsepower range. At present, about 57 per cent of tractors on North Carolina farms are in this range.

The survey was made by J. C. Ferguson, extension agricultural engineer at N. C. State College, with the help of county agricultural agents.

The survey also showed that about 9 per cent of the new tractors would have 55 or more horsepower, as compared with 7 per cent now.

Tractors with 25 horsepower or less will decline, the survey shows. About 36 per cent of presently owned farm tractors are in this category. An estimated 22 per cent of the farmers planning to buy tractors want a tractor in this power range.

Writes For N. C. Education

The December issue of North Carolina Education includes an article by Mrs. Laura F. Church, teacher of reading at Appalachian High School. Entitled "Reading, Eating, and Union Suits", the article shows a humorous contrast and comparison between schools of yesterday and today.
