JEAN'S PERSONAL COLUMN Dear Jane And Rachel:

By JEAN L. RIVERS I hope both of you had a chance to see "A Look at Mon-aco" on television a week ago Sunday night. The story of that 500 year-old principality was beautifully told by Philadelphia's Grace Kelley, who married Prince Ranier several years ago. Though the entire country is very small, only 350 square miles, it has just about everything other European nations have except taxes. Only the rich and near-rich live there and I presume the tax situation has a lot to do with their sound financial condition.

Anyway, the whole thing sounded like a fairy story, and I am delighted one of our girls can share it.

Recently it was my pleasure to see the handsome new book, "The Face of North Carolina" by Bruce Roberts. Eloise Melton told me she had seen a picture of this section of Boone in the book and that it was in the college library. As soon as I had the opportunity I called Leonard Eury and he brought the book by the office that afternoon. We were delighted to see that the picture was of your daddy's old home, the first Watauga Democrat building, the pretty little Methodist church, W. R. Lovill's law office, Ed Coffey's law office and several other buildings in west Boone at that time. The photographer must have stood about where our dining room now is to make the picture. It was most interesting and we certainly appreciate Leonard's bringing the book for us to enjoy.

I had a wonderful time last Monday afternoon when I returned the book and Leonard took me on a tour of the library. It is a fabulous place! They have just about everything except enough space. I was most interested to see part of a 1929 copy of the Watauga Democrat on microfilm, which Zeb Shook brought into the viewing room. (I guess that is what they call it). The changes that have been made since 1929 are almost unbelievable. Many of the businesses are no longer here and the cars and fashions have changed drastically. Getting back to the microfilming... they have all can give yourself a mental test.

On my way home I stopped for a short visit with Bill and Ethel Norris at Appalachian Soda Shop and with Ruby Weston, who recently moved her studio into her new building on Appalachian street. It was a good day!

I didn't get to go to Charlotte last Tuesday night for the board meeting of the Blowing Rock Horse Show Association because of a six inch snow. I was very disappointed... since the members were invited to be dinner guests of David Johnson at the Charlotte City Club. I miss so many nice affairs because of the weather.

Because I am back at the office while your daddy is ill with the flu, I won't be able to tell you about the visit with the Dr. Rankins. Must run now!

Love, Mom
