

Speaking Of Golf

By JOE MAPLES

The climax to the 1963 Carolinas Section PGA championship was written Sunday as Furman Hayes of Gastonia shot a steady round of 90 to edge Avery Beck of Whispering Pines by one shot for the title over the short but demanding New Bern Golf & Country Club course.

For four days, professionals from all over North and South Carolina were busy trying to win their share of the prize money under almost perfect conditions weather wise. The only complaint may have been on the wind which was rather gusty most of the time but the pros were so glad to see some warm sunshine they overlooked the wind.

Charlie Farlow and myself teamed up in the Pro-Pro championship for a best ball of 67 good for seventh place money. We had an excellent chance of winning and though we putted good, the ball just wouldn't fall for us. Joe Cheves was to have been my partner but illness prevented him from making the trip.

My play during the championship proper wasn't too bad considering and my putting was excellent. At the end of twenty-six holes I was only one shot behind the leader but five double bogeys during the remaining holes really finished me off. Three of these came as a result of almost perfectly hit shots that turned sour for one reason or another.

Our fine championship was climaxed by a hole in one contest put on by the sponsoring E-Z-GO Car Company, with the prize being an electric cart. Bob Becknell was the skillful winner as his last of three shots at the 140 yard hole was in all the way, a truly perfect golf shot. A couple hundred spectators including myself were lucky enough to be watching as Becknell holed out. My closest shot was six feet and until Bob came along, N. C. Riddle who was the first man to have a try at it, was close with a shot of 23 and 34 inches.

Local golfers are starting to get restless as the first of April gets closer and closer. This means of course, that we can hope to be playing in Boone in just a few more short weeks. At present, the ground is very soft when it thaws but with some good rain and drying winds to settle and dry it out, we should be able to depend on playing our course no later than the middle of April.

Meantime some of our players continue to make the journey down the mountain to play. Guy Hunt, Richard Kelley and Jack Cobb from Boone and Andrew Yasinac of Sparta made a three day tour last week, playing at Fort Bragg and Tanglewood. They stopped at Pinehurst but were unable to get a suitable starting time so didn't play there. Estel Wagner and J. D. Cook played the new Cedarwood course outside of Charlotte the other day with Estel shooting an 82 and J. D. an 89.

Playing permits for the 1963 season are now being sold and anyone interested should contact either myself or Major Thomas. The rates are unchanged and as follows: For family, first member $90, second $48, all the rest $36 each. The present permits will expire on April 30th. Anyone buying one for the first time will have the use of the course from the date of purchase, or as soon as we open.

173 Golf Courses Listed In Carolina

By MIRIAM RABB (N.C. Travel Editor)

173 golf courses, situated from coast to mountains, are listed in a new Bulletin, "Golf In North Carolina", just published by the Travel Information Division of the Department of Conservation and Development, Raleigh, North Carolina, and free on request.

New courses include the Number 5 at Pinehurst, fifth 18-hole course at the Pinehurst Country Club; the 18-hole Whispering Pines Country Club course near Southern Pines and Pinehurst; and the Oak Island and Bolling Spring Lakes 9-hole courses near Southport in Southeastern North Carolina.

The Oak Island Golf Club's course is the first North Carolina golf layout adjacent to the seashore. Under construction and expected to be ready for use during the summer of 1963 are nine holes of the Lake Toxaway Golf Club course in a new resort development between Brevard and Highlands in the Blue Ridge Mountains.

Courses described in the Golf Bulletin include 85 with 18 holes, and 88 with nine holes. A number of the nine-hole courses are being expanded to 18 within the coming year.

Longest course on the list is the famous No. 2 Championship at Pinehurst, scene of the USGA National Amateur Championship Tournament in 1962. It is 7,051 yards, par 72. Largest greens are at Tanglewood Park's 6,810-yard course near Winston-Salem.

MARCUS COOKE

Marcus Cooke ASTC Wrestler

Marcus Cooke, 19 year old sophomore from Boone, was an outstanding member of the undefeated Appalachian State Teachers College wrestling team this past season. Cooke weighs 137 pounds and is the son of Dr. H. M. Cooke of Boone.

Cooke wrestled in the 123 pound class and had an outstanding record. He was used sparingly in the matches. Many things are expected from him in the next two years. Cooke was also a member of the college soccer team this past year. Upon his graduation from Appalachian in two years, he plans to teach.

Golf Pro Has Auto Accident

North Wilkesboro, March 7—A driver swerved to miss a dog yesterday morning on the Oakwoods Road and his car overturned.

William Spencer Greene Jr., pro at Oakwoods Country Club, was not injured in the accident but his 1963 model car was damaged about $700, according to report of Trooper P. G. Potts of the Highway Patrol, who investigated the accident.

Greene was quoted as saying that a dog darted out from behind a bank. When he swerved his car it struck a culvert on the side of the road and overturned.

A society that neglects children should not blame the adults that develop an attitude to neglect society's laws and customs.

Frank Meyer Is Head ASTC Baseball Coach

Frank "Dutch" Meyer has been named head baseball coach at Appalachian State Teachers College. It was announced today by college officials. Meyer, who is also head wrestling coach at the mountain school, replaces Dr. Joe Bryson who resigned in order to devote his entire time to his teaching duties.

A veteran baseball man, Meyer played for the University of Nebraska while in college and spent some time on minor league teams. In addition, he spent three years as a trainer in the minors.

Meyer came to Appalachian two years ago as assistant professor of physical education, assistant football coach, and head wrestling coach. His wrestling squad has just completed an unbeaten season and is currently competing in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics championship tournament.

Meyer is a veteran coach in all sports. He has had coaching experience in high schools and junior colleges in California before coming to North Carolina. A native of Nebraska, Meyer attended Nebraska Wesleyan and obtained the B.S. degree from the University of Nebraska. He played varsity football for three years at the University. Meyer earned the master's
