Missionaries And Former Mission Workers To Appear In Churches

A number of missionaries and former mission workers will be in Watauga county next week helping the various churches in the Three Forks Baptist Association as they conduct Schools of Missions.

Shown are some of these workers. They are:

The Rev. J. J. Cowser who resides at Wingate, since his retirement from missions work. He is well known throughout North Carolina. He served in Brazil and is affectionately known as the "Bible Millionaire." Before his retirement he had supervised the printing of more than a million Bibles for distribution throughout South America and other parts of the world.

Miss Ola Lea served for several years as missionary to Taiwan. She is making her home in Greensboro.

Miss Pauline Martin, who is living at Kingsport, Tenn., is on furlough from her mission post in Nigeria, Africa.

Miss Hazel Moore, Appomattox, Va., served Southern Baptists for a number of years as missionary to Nigeria. She has been active in Schools of Missions since her retirement from active mission work.

The Rev. A. E. Spencer, who has spoken in Boone earlier this year, is on furlough from Okinawa. The Rev. Mr. Spencer lives in High Point. Upon his return to service he will participate in one of the largest evangelistic movements in Japan.

Dr. C. L. Thompson is living in Knoxville. He is on furlough from work in Argentina.

Miss Pauline White served in Brazil. She lives in Gaffney, S. C.

John Gibson, director for the Watauga Schools of Missions, said anyone who is interested
