Variety Vacationland Featured In Pa. Show

North Carolina's Variety Vacationland is being featured in the big Philadelphia Travel and Vacation Show April 19-28.

Princess Grace and Prince Rainier of Monaco are guests of honor at the show's festive opening in Convention Hall April 19. Thereafter, show hours are from noon until 11 p. m. daily and Sundays.

The Travel Information Division of the Department of Conservation and Development is sponsoring the North Carolina travel display, at which information about every section of the State will be available to show visitors.

On duty at the travel exhibit with members of the Travel Information Division staff are Miss Betty Lawhon of Rutherfordton, North Carolina's "Miss Variety Vacationland" and 1963 Rhododendron Queen, and Miss Karen Ray of Wilmington. Miss Ray has taken part in the Tourarama programs of the Southeastern North Carolina Development Association this spring, and Miss Lawhon has represented the State at travel shows in Washington, D. C., and Cincinnati.

President John B. Kelly, Jr. of the Philadelphia Travel and Vacation Show, Inc., has assembled exhibits from all over the United States and from many foreign countries for the show, which has been nearly three years in planning and preparation.

Cancer Campaign To Commence April 22

Mrs. Walter A. Hawkinson, president of the local chapter of the American Cancer Society, announces that the week of April 22 has been set aside for crusaders to contact all homes and individuals. The Watauga county volunteers will be giving of their time and energy to provide local citizens with adequate information about the dangers of cancer, how to go about getting help when it is needed, and to provide everyone with an opportunity to join the fight to conquer cancer.

Citizens are urged to welcome their crusading neighbors, to use the helpful literature that is provided, and to give as freely as they can to support this important health organization. The American Cancer Society cannot function without this crusade. The personal contacts are necessary to make all conscious of how important it is to have regular checkups.

The funds collected enable the all important research program to find a cure for cancer, and to operate cancer detection centers, to provide treatment for cancer victims, and to serve as an information center for citizens of Watauga county who need information on cancer.

Members of the Watauga County Chapter of The American Cancer Society are using the slogan: "Don't Fear Cancer—Fight It! with a Check and a Checkup!"

Good advice: Losers should never bet.

BUDGET CUTS

The Senate Armed Services Committee cut out $771,000,000 in Defense Department requests for aircraft, missiles and other military hardware. But it agreed with the House in voting an extra $863,700,000 to speed development of the RS-70 reconnaissance strike bomber.

The House voted a reduction also of $91,964,000 in appropriations for the Post Office Department. This came despite the objections of Postmaster Day and postal employees.
