Legislative Report

eek for the North Carolina Camp Lejenue, and on Friday the lawmakers will go to Charlotte for a visit to the North Carolina International Trade Fair.

These trips are supposed to informational, but on the basis of other trips to date, it is clear that they are, in fact, primarily social. While no state funds are spent, and while a session of the Assembly is normally held during these trips, very little is accomplished, and almost everyone considers it a wasted day in the legislative process. Many legislaare becoming impatient with the ever-increasing number of trips, and there is hope the next legislature will this trend by rejecting such invitations. The Election and Election Laws Committee of the House has voted to send an amended version of the Senate bill to the House floor, and this measure will probably be debated in the House this week. As amended, it would allow applications for absentee ballots to be made only by the voter, either in person or by mail. The one exception to this general rule is in the case of someone taken ill suddenly in the last five days before the election, and in that case a relative could, with a doctor's certificate, obtain the application.

The Senatorial Redistricting pot continues to simmer, and the House is now waiting patiently for a Senate committee to make a decision on the many different proposals before it. The Currie Bill still seems to be the frontrunner, although there is growing support for some of the other bills.

Higher education and N. C. State were in the limelight of the Assembly last week, and the Senate and House have deadlocked over the name change for State college. A conference committee of three senators and three representawill be appointed this week to see if a compromise

The State bond issue propositions — for schools and for roads—are still in committee in the House. The road Bond measure remains without the support fo the governor and the Highway Commission, and the legislature remains sharply divided between the two school bond proposals submitted.

The Appropriations subcommittee is scheduled to finish its closed sessions within the week, and this will be followed by about two weeks of open sesions. The report of this subcommittee is usually the signal for the rush to adjournment, and June 1 remains the target date of both House Speake

Clifton Blue and Senate President Pro Tem Clarence Stone. I have been pleased by the continued interest of the officials and the people of Wata-uga County in the proposed State legislation which would affect our county, and as alrepresentative know of gs on any issue in

Sincerely yours, Jim Holshouser

JURY GOES TO JAIL

Harlan, Ky .- In the end the jury went to jail instead of the man on trial.

Judge Acey Cornett instruct-ed the jury to bring in a verdict on a drunken driving charge against the accused. They found Bradley Farley guilty of public intoxication. The judge repeat-ed his instructions. This time the jury acquitted Farley.

The jury was then sentenced to pay $3 each or spend three hours in jail for contempt. ASTC Elects '63-'64 Yosef

Jimmy McCurdy, a physical education and social studies major from Taylorsyille, was elected Yosef for 1963-64 in a run-off eletcion prior to the yone's support in electing YOSEF, and I am very ad to have been elected to position. I would like to that the aims and objec-s for Yesef in the coming year are to put some new life in Yosef and to be a champion Yosef to go with the champ luced at ASTC next year."

Yosef, a long-time symbol of port of the entire student body before he can fullfil the duties given to him. He is an active pant in pep rallies (with his jokes, antics, and pep talks for the team and students). THE APPALACHIAN urges your support of Jimmy during the coming athletic campaigns.

FOUNDER'S DAY

spectacular values...
spectacular celebration!

CONTINUING ALL THIS WEEK 3 Floors of Unforgettable Bargains!

Free Prizes Daily

Free Freezer May 4

Drawing for daily prizes at 4 p. m. each day. Drawing for Freezer at 4 p. m. Saturday, May 4. You can register every day—you must be present at drawing to win

BOONE'S LARGEST DEPARTMENT STORE

from Our HALLMARK Selections

Please Her with

CORDAY Tousours Moi Fame

MAX FACTOR Golden Woods

Give Mom Candy

Gift Boxed by Nunnally's — Belle Camp

> Compounding Prescriptions Is Our Profession

CAROLINA

PHARMACY

E. King St.

264-3781

Don't Let Disaster Hit You In The Pocketbook!

One low-cost, dependable Grange policy gives you full protection against death or destruction from the perils named of valuable dairy cattle, sheep and hogs, farm work horses and mules, or loss or dam-age of your tractor and farm equipment.

National Grange Livestock & Farm Machinery Equipment Policy

Fire and Lightning; Loss while in transportation—by land or water; Windstorm; Theft, excluding escape or mysterious disappearance; Aircraft or other falling objects; Explosion, Earthquake and flood, including rising waters; Collapse of bridges or culverts; Protection automatically increased when new stock or equipment is acquired.

Call Write or See JERRY ADAMS

National Grange

MUTUAL INSURANCE COMPANY 416 W. King St.-Boone, N. C.

264-2433 or 267-2403