Two Boys, A Stream, And Paradise

The sun was shining brightly, the cool wind danced across the ripples of the tumbling water, and two boys pondered the pleasures of Paradise, completely unaware of the camera which filmed their image of youth. With the coming of summer vacation (Thursday) Allan Waters (left) and David Bolick (who said that he was looking for the fish that got away) made the most of a sunny afternoon last week at a Point along the Middle Fork near Blowing Rock. Waters is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Waters, Linville Road; Bolick's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Bolick of Blowing Rock. The youths will be seventh graders this autumn. In the meantime, it's weeks of ecstasy with hook, and line or just plain loafin.' (Story on page two).—Staff photo.

2,500 Expected To Enroll At First College Summer Term

Approximately 2,500 students are expected to enroll at Appalachian State Teachers College for the first session of summer school, according to a recent report from Dr. James Stone, director of summer sessions. The first summer session will begin on June 6 and continue through July 12. The summer session will officially open with a faculty meeting in the Fine Arts Auditorium on June 5. Registration will start at 8 a.m. on Thursday, June 6, and classes will begin at 7:30 a.m. on Friday.

Dr. Stone said that the amount of correspondence received by the college and the number of dormitory rooms reserved by the students indicates that the 1963 Summer Session at ASTC will be the largest in the history of the college. He expects the enrollment to increase by five per cent over last summer.

Last summer for two summer sessions the enrollment was 4,711. This year the enrollment for the two sessions is expected to reach or exceed 5,000.

A large number of outstanding visiting professors will serve on the summer sessions faculty. A high school camp will operate on the campus of Lees-McRae College and a camp for elementary school students, grades 5 through 8, will be offered at Camp Broadstone. Enrollment at Lees-McRae will be approximately 200 and for Camp Broadstone about 50.

Approximately 400 students are expected to enroll in the two-week workshops during the first summer session. The directors of these workshops will come from leading colleges and universities in the southeast.

Mrs. Tate Has Fatal Attack

Mrs. Lloyd Tate, long-time summer resident of Blowing Rock, and Manager of the Blowing Rock Horse Show, died Tuesday morning in Southern Pines, from a sudden illness with a heart condition, according to word reaching Blowing Rock.

Funeral details were incomplete Tuesday but word was that the rites would likely be held Thursday morning in Southern Pines.

Mrs. Tate, whose late husband, Lloyd Tate, was the founder of the Blowing Rock Horse Show, had lived in Blowing Rock during the summers for nearly forty years. Since her husband's death, she and her daughter, Mrs. Mary Ann Greene, had managed the popular horse show.

Besides her daughter, two sons survive, Lloyd Tate, Jr., and William Tate.

GARY J. DALTON

Dalton To Be Editor Of Paper At Blowing Rock

Gary J. Dalton, 22, a June graduate of the University of North Carolina, will begin working for the Democrat June 7 as Editor and advertising salesman for the Democrat's Blowing Rock newspaper.

Office space has been secured in Greene's Grocery Store building on Main Street in Blowing Rock, and the quarters are being repainted.

Dalton is a native of Danville, Va. He attended the University of Virginia before transferring to the University of North Carolina in 1960. He received a BA degree in journalism, at UNC. Last year he was advertising manager of The Daily Tar Heel, the UNC school newspaper. He was also a resident dormitory advisor and held a University scholarship. He is a member of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity.

His newspaper experience includes two summers with the Winston-Salem Journal as sports reporter and news reporter. Also he worked one summer with the Danville (Va.) Register and Bee as advertising salesman.

Dalton's hobbies are golf, reading, and music. He likes most sports with the emphasis on football, basketball and baseball.

Clean-Up Week On At Blowing Rock

Cleanup time is being observed in Blowing Rock this week and next, according to an announcement made by Mayor R. E. Hardin Monday.

The Mayor is anxious that there be a good response to the clean-up effort since the tourist community will be crowded

Lauds People Of Area For Civic Unity

By JOE MINOR
Staff Writer

A large group of Watauga county citizens and visitors were told Monday night what "Horn in the West" has meant to this area.

Robert Campbell, editorial page editor of the Winston-Salem Journal and Sentinel, spoke to members of the Appalachian Historical Association and their guests at the annual dinner meeting at Daniel Boone Hotel. Eighty-six persons were in attendance. The association sponsors the outdoor drama.

Campbell said the drama, since its inception in the early 1950's, had caused Boone to be a focal point of Northwest North Carolina. He praised the people of the community for their unity of effort in producing the "Horn."

The Twin City editor said the drama has much historical value, and has contributed greatly to the economic status of Northwest North Carolina. He also pointed out the cultural contribution the play has made.

Dr. I. G. Greer, president of the association, presided over the meeting. He said the large number of people in attendance indicated a continued interest in the work of the association.

Mayor Wade E. Brown welcomed the group, and reports were given by various officers and workers in the association.

Dr. D. J. Whitener said the association would divide its interest and money among other community projects as well as the "Horn" in promoting and improving the area. He called attention to the large crowds expected here this summer and especially to the Carolina Charter Tercentenary Celebration June 29.

Mrs. B. W. Stallings reported on the Daniel Boone Native Garden and told of the state-wide support it has.

Herman W. Wilcox, executive vice president of the association and chairman of the Tercentenary celebration here, recognized Larry Penley for the work he

After-Dinner Talk

Leaders of Southern Appalachian Historical Association pose as they chat with the speaker for the association's annual dinner Monday. Left to right are Dr. W. H. Plemmons, president of Appalachian State Teachers College; Robert Campbell, the speaker; Dr. I. G. Greer, president of the association; and Herman W. Wilcox, executive vice president.

Dr. Archie Challenges ASTC Grads Not To Fear Changes

"As students you should never get to that point that you are fearful of risking failure. Obviously, none of us wants to invite failure but if we are to move and to change and to adapt ourselves to the new circumstances in our society, there the same day that we stop living, physically or spiritually, and begin to vegetate."

He challenged the students to work hard, play hard, and give their lives wholeheartedly and with abandon to whatever it is that they decide to do. "Above all, I beg of you to have the courage to change whatever it is you are doing if and when you get to the point that what you are doing is no longer any fun but has become merely a routine exercise."

Dr. Archie said in conclusion, "I hope that your college experience has provided you the tools, the skills, by which you can continue to grow and to educate yourself throughout all (Continued on page two) will ever be risks in failing." These were the words of Dr. William C. Archie, director of the North Carolina Board of Higher Education, as he addressed the 429 undergraduate and 36 graduate candidates who received diplomas in graduation exercises Saturday at Appalachian State Teachers College.

In his speech Dr. Archie emphasized "What Do We Do Next?" He said, "The day that we stop asking this question is

Two Parades Are Planned For June 29

General Chairman of the Carolina Charter Tercentenary Celebration Herman W. Wilcox, announces that there will be two parades instead of one during the celebration on June 29. The "Wagon Train" parade will be about 10 a. m., route to be announced as soon as it is worked out. The second parade will begin at 12:30 p. m.

In reply to the many inquiries to enter objects in the parade, Mr. Wilcox suggests anyone who desires to do so to clear with the parade marshal, Robert L. Breitenstein, or his office at once.

Mrs. Reynolds Named 'Woman Of The Year'

Mrs. Lee F. Reynolds of Boone was chosen Watauga County "Woman of the Year" by the Business and Professional Women's Club of Boone during a dinner meeting this week at the Daniel Boone Inn.

Mrs. Maxie Edmisten, president of the club and dean of women at Appalachian State Teachers College, presided over the meeting and presented Mrs. Reynolds with a medallion in recognition of her selection.

Mrs. Reynolds came to Boone in 1938 after her husband had accepted a position with ASTC. They have lived in Boone with the exception of Dr. Lee Reynolds' tour of duty with Uncle Sam during World War II.

Mrs. Reynolds was selected for the honor because of her outstanding work in the Women's Society of Christian Service, the Boone Methodist Church and her civic and service club work.

She has engaged in many activities in Boone. She and her husband have planned, built and (Continued on page two)

Town Officials Are Renominated

Mayor Wade E. Brown received the Democratic nomination to succeed himself without opposition in a city convention Saturday night.

Incumbents Howard Cottrell, Harry Hamilton and Conrad Yates were again nominated for the Board of Aldermen.

All four candidates made brief remarks and the convention went on record in favor of the school bond and hospital bond issues. It was also the opinion of the meeting that the primary system be retained for nominating county candidates. No objection was raised to the city convention method.

Re-elected to the city Democratic Executive Committee were Wayne Richardson, E. Ford King, Jr., Mrs. Ruth McConnell, and Grady Moretz. Elected to succeed Mrs. Rob Rivers was Dr. Ray Derrick.

The municipal election will be held June 18.
