

Auto Accidents

The truck driver was blowing his horn, Suddreth said, and between the two, several drivers were alerted and pulled off the road. One unidentified driver, who was beginning to make a left hand turn from King Street down Depot Street, saw the truck heading towards him and managed to bolt his car towards Andrews Chevrolet, narrowly missing a head-on collision, according to Suddreth.

The lumber truck weaved through one and a half more blocks of "somewhat congested" traffic before making initial contact with a vehicle. A 1951 Ford, traveling in the same direction as the truck, was literally picked up by the truck and was carried some 50 feet up the street. The entire rear end of the car was jammed into the back seat of the auto. The driver of the Ford, the only person injured in the freak accident, was scratched on the right arm. He was not hospitalized.

After hitting the Ford, the truck sideswiped a 1962 Chevrolet and a 1956 Ford, demolishing both cars. Also a 1963 Buick was damaged extensively, reports show.

The truck was slowed down to about 45 miles per hour by the first impacts, according to Suddreth who last clocked the truck as it passed the Methodist Church.

At the corner of the First Baptist Church the driver whipped the truck into a sidestreet, flipping the truck over on its top. Only ten minutes earlier, hundreds of Bible School children had been playing at the usually busy street corner.

The cab of the truck was held up off the pavement by the high load of lumber chained to its bed. The driver crawled uninjured from the wreckage.

Boone volunteer firemen hosed down the eight cars and truck to prevent leaking gas from starting a fire. Estimated damage ran from $3,000 to $8,000. No official figure had been arrived at Tuesday.

A similar accident involving a runaway truck, hauling a load of cabbage, occurred in Boone on August 21, 1957, when a Daytona Beach, Florida, woman pedestrian was killed. The truck lost its brakes near Fox Service Station and plowed into three vehicles before striking Mrs. Hugh Cloyd, 67, and killing her.

Eleven Injured Sunday
Eleven persons were injured Sunday in a head-on collision of two cars, 10 miles east of Boone on the Meadow Creek Road. The accident occurred at 3 p. m., according to patrolman William Teem.

Admitted to the Boone hospital were the Rev. and Mrs. J. D. Grogan and their son Preston of Reidsville, all of whom suffered fractures, cuts, and bruises; and Wendell Wilcox, Quay Grogan (no relation to the Rev. Mr. Grogan) and Claude Huff, all of Wilkesboro.

Treated at the hospital and dismissed were Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Grogan and their three daughters of Greensboro and one other child of the Rev. and Mrs. Grogan.

The minister received several broken ribs, Teem said, and Mrs. Grogan suffered a broken leg. The son, Preston, sustained a severe scalp wound requiring 24 stitches to close.

Investigation was continuing Tuesday; no charges had been made at that time. Both vehicles—a 1953 Pontiac and a 1961 Rambler station wagon—were total losses.

According to the officer, who was assisted in the investigation by trooper John Steinett, the Rev. Mr. Grogan was driving a station wagon which contained 11 persons, and Wilcox was the driver of the car in which Quay Grogan and Huff were passengers. Teem said weather conditions at the time were bad and could have been a factor in the accident.

The Meadow Creek Road, he said, is a narrow, winding road. Brain Concussion

A 25-year-old Watauga received a brain concussion and possible skull fracture in a mishap on N. C. 321 Saturday. Patrolman Baker listed the injured as Ted Stephens, driver of a 1957 Pontiac in which three other young men were riding. The passengers were uninjured.

Stephens was thrown from the vehicle as it turned over shortly after the driver attempted to pass another car. When the car came to rest, Stephens was pinned beneath it. He was semi-conscious when help arrived.

Ankle Fracture
Patricia Daniels, 16, of Miami, Florida, received severe scalp and facial lacerations and a broken ankle in an accident on the Blue Ridge Parkway Friday night, near the intersection of the federal project and N. C. 321. A car stalled on 321 caused the wreck, Baker said.

The accident happened when a truck, traveling north on 321, rammed into the rear of the stalled car, a 1953 Chevrolet. After the impact, the truck bounced into the opposite lane of traffic and hit a 1963 Ford head-on.

The Daniels girl, driver of the Ford, was accompanied by Thomas Lane, teenager from Florida. Lane's nose was broken, according to a Blowing Rock hospital spokesman.

Total Loss
A 1955 Oldsmobile was a total loss as a result of a smash-up at the intersection of 105 and 221 just outside the Boone city limits Sunday at 12:25 p. m. Two persons were injured slightly.

A 1960 Mercury, operated by A. E. Hamby of Boone, was traveling south on 221, patrolman Teem said, when it struck the right side of Mrs. O. M. Hampton Sr.'s, car. Mrs. Hampton had pulled into the main line of traffic when the accident occurred, Teem said. She and her 14-year-old son were treated for minor injuries at Watauga Hospital.

About $300 damage was done to the Mercury.

Minor Accidents
Patrolmen Baker and Teem stated that between the two of them, about six other accidents were investigated within the county during the four-day period beginning Thursday.

The runaway truck accident Friday night involved the most cars in a single accident ever recorded in this county.

Singing

Television show, which has been running coast to coast on many American AV channels for two years. He is an approved evangelist of the Methodist Church and has conducted revivals throughout the nation.

"Singing on the Mountain" is non-denominational and no admission is charged. The traditional handbill put out by Chairman Hartley extends the invitation "Whoever will may come," and so many accept that the annual event at Grandfather Mountain has become the largest of its type in the South.

Dr. Billy Graham preached the annual sermon at the 1962 Grandfather Mountain singing convention and drew the largest crowd ever assembled in North Carolina. Just before Graham spoke the State Highway Patrol reported that U. S. 221 was blocked from Marion to Blowing Rock, a distance of 55 miles.

All congregations in big cities, and get advice for them quickly.

School Board

The local board would be authorized to continue the system of appointment and retention by resolution of five-member board of which three members are to be affiliated with Democratic party and two with the Republican party.

Letter To Editor
Dear Mr. Editor:
"A thought for today."
It's really difficult to change customs by force and abolish prejudices by laws. A quiet appeal to reason over a span of time would have made integration more effective.

Heartbeats

Now, physicians in Boone can get a specialist's oral report on an EKG within a few minutes. "The new service is of great value," Mrs. Virginia A. Groce, hospital administrator, and Dr. H. M. Wilson, chief of medical staff, agree. "It will speed up diagnosis in many cases. We have been doing quite a number of electrocardiograms a month, but with the new telephone system we believe that number will increase." Here is an example of how the service may be used: A doctor in Boone may request an electrocardiogram for a patient he suspects may have had a heart attack. EKG sensing devices are strapped to the patient's arms, legs and body. They pick up the small electrical impulses generated by the contraction and relaxation of the heart muscle.

These electric impulses are amplified and fed into a DATA-PHONE, a recent Southern Bell development, where they are converted into frequency-modulated sound signals.

A medical technologist then dials the telephone number of the receiving station at the offices of Fredrick A. Thompson, M. D., Otis Richard Thompson, Jr., M. D., and Carrie James Walton, Jr., M. D., in Lenoir.

The technologist, talking with the person answering, coordinates the operation of the Data-Phone and EKG machine in the Boone Watauga Hospital with similar equipment in the laboratory. Then the transmission of audible signals representing the pulsations of the heart is started.

At the receiving point, the sound signals are reconverted into electrical impulses to "drive" the EKG machine. Thus, the heart action is charted simultaneously by EKG machines in Boone and Lenoir. A cardiologist, studying the tracings as they are being made, can give an oral report to the attending physician within a matter of minutes. A written report can follow.

Successful transmission of heartbeats by telephone may have paved the way for long-distance evaluation of various other medical tests. It may be possible some day to use a dial phone to transmit such important data as X-rays and measurements of blood pressure and respiration.

Eventually, the medical-data-by-telephone system may make it easier for physicians in any part of the country to consult with other doctors in different cities. General practitioners in small towns could "dial" information to specialists, who usually are in Boone and Lenoir. A cardiologist, studying the tracings as they are being made, can give an oral report to the attending physician within a matter of minutes. A written report can follow.
