

Miss North Carolina And Court

The new Miss North Carolina, Jeanne Flinn Swanner (Miss Graham) poses with her court of five finalists after the judges made their decision Saturday night at Greensboro Memorial Auditorium. Miss Swanner was the tallest contestant in the pageant, measuring a lovely 6'2" (and 39-25-39), and weighing 160 pounds. She sang and played the ukelele in the talent competition. To her left is Miss America of 1963, Miss Jacquelyn Jeanne Mayer.—Photo by Paul Weston Studio.

Speaking Of Golf

By JOE MAPLES

Another week goes by and our players continue to turn in improved scores and they also continue to pull off unusual golf shots. Chip ins are so regular that they are almost the expected thing and quite a few extra long putts are being holed. None of these however, create quite as much excitement as when a player makes an eagle on a par four hole. Harvey Ayers pull off the last of several that have been reported, by holing out a nine iron shot on the first hole. Another boost for the "wrong siders" since Harvey is one of the growing number of left-handers.

Glenn Andrews turned in his very best score of a short golfing career the other day, a fine 84. Glenn is better known for his booming tee shots rather than his scoring but he found the groove on this day and came way below his average.

All three of the top professionals from Greensboro played the local course during the past week. We had Aubrey Apple from the Green Valley Golf Club who is also President of the Carolinas Section, PGA, also Tom Case of the Sedgefield Country Club who ran into some of his members while on the course and Charlie Farlow of the Starmount Country Club and the Carolinas Seniors professional champion.

Bruce Sudderth, Bob McKaughn, Estel Wagner and myself enjoyed a round of golf last week at the Blowing Rock Course even though we came out on the short end of the match. Bob made a great birdie from about twelve feet on the final hole to turn the trick. Bruce played some of his better golf during the round for a score of 68 and with the help Bob gave him on several holes, they proved to be too tough for Estel and I. Estel had a fine 74 while Bob shot 79 and I played it one over. The course as usual, was in fine condition, and people can say what they will about it being short but those par three's will test the ability of any player. There are four that are about as tough as they come and the seventh though some shorter, requires a very accurate shot or else!

Dirksen and Halleck doubt tax cut this session.
