MISS DOROTHY ANN ATWELL

Miss Atwell Will Appear In Piano Recital Nov. 1

The Music Department of Appalachian State Teachers College will present Miss Dorothy Ann Atwell in a faculty piano recital on Friday, November 1, at 8 p.m., in the Fine Arts Building Auditorium on the college campus.

Miss Atwell, of Houston, Miss., is a member of the piano faculty of the Music Department and came to Appalachian in September, 1962. She received her Bachelor of Music degree from Mississippi State College for Women, Columbus, Miss., and the Master of Arts from Teachers College, Columbia University, New York.

Miss Atwell's teaching experience includes piano and public school music at Benoit Consolidated School, Benoit, Miss.; piano at McComb High School, McComb, Miss.; piano at Scarsdale, New York, in the studio of Dr. Robert Pace, head of piano instruction at Teachers College, Columbia University. Many persons in this section heard Miss Atwell in a duo-piano recital last spring in which she appeared with Mr. Walton Cole.

Numbers to be played in the recital are: Le Coucou, by Daquin; Pastorale, by Scarlelli; Toccata, by Paradies; Sonata, Op. 104, by Schubert; Intermezzo, Op. 118, No. 2; by Brahms; Capriccio, Op. 118, No. 3; by Brahms; Novelette, Op. 21, No. 8, by Schumann; Four Preludes, by Debussy; Roumanian Dance, Op. 8a, by Bartok.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

Health and Beauty

A new skin serum, said to be a treatment for wrinkled and aging skin, has been introduced by a well-known name who backs the use of the uncompromising term "wrinkle reducer" with very impressive statistics that eight out of ten women who participated in tests experienced a noticeable lessening of wrinkles.

If this is true, it is the greatest thing that has ever happened in the cosmetic department. We will have to see results for ourselves before we can go along with this new cream. For as far back as the use of face cream goes, women have been trying to find a cream or lotion that would retard the development of wrinkles. And as far back as this, there has been some mixture being sold that had great claims made for it. It has usually been sold at an amazingly high price, and did no more good than any other softening face creams.

Doctors have debunked this type of advertisement, and tell women to save their money and become adjusted to the fact that all of us must develop the signs of age when our time comes. This does not mean that we must not make the most of what we have, and that the use of creams is not good. However, don't fight age—it is something that comes to all of us, and it can be our most satisfying time of life.

Develop new interests and hobbies. Be interested in your town and in doing something for other people. Grandchildren are said by many to be much more fun than children of your own. You can have all the fun, and when you are tired they can be returned to mother and daddy. If you will stay interested in events and people, you will be interesting yourself. This kind of thinking will do more to keep you young and attractive than any cream or lotion you can buy.

Women who have been very pretty or beautiful in their youth seem to have a much harder time adjusting to the effects of time on their appearance than the homely, or just nice looking, women. It seems they become accustomed to the compliments and adoration their looks bring, and when these compliments stop, they are unhappy. It is not unusual for this situation to become so bad that professional help must be sought. If this is indicated, don't delay; the cream

Tripletts Vows Said Saturday

MRS. THOMAS TRIPLETT

Miss Sheila Triplett became the bride of Thomas Triplett on Saturday, October 19, at 6 p.m., in the First Presbyterian Church of Boone. The Rev. J. K. Parker, Jr., pastor, performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. Ernie C. Triplett, Sr., of Banner Elk, and the late Mrs. Triplett. She is a graduate of Cove Creek High School, and is employed by The Northwestern Bank in Boone.

Mr. Triplett is the son of Mrs. Clemon Triplett of Triplett, and the late Mr. Triplett. He attended Appalachian High School and is employed by the Blowing Rock Furniture Factory in Lenoir.

The bride wore a suit of Cascade blue and a corsage of pink carnations.

Only members of the immediate families attended.

Following the ceremony, Mrs. Howard Edmisten, aunt of the bride, entertained at an informal reception at her home on the Bristol Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Triplett will live in the Allen Henson Apartments on the Blowing Rock Road.

Rhododendron Garden Club

Mrs. Dave Mast was hostess to the Boone Rhododendron Garden Club at her home at Sugar Grove for the regular October meeting.

In the devotional period Mrs. Elizabeth King spoke of the many changes that we see at this time of year and challenged us to learn to appreciate them.

Mrs. Mary High showed a film from the Oases Company on Christmas flower arrangements.

Mrs. Dave Mast presided at the business session when it was decided that the group would bring arrangements, candles etc. for the Christmas meeting. Some of these would be placed in the Garden Club window uptown.

Refreshments were served during the social hour.

Most people mistake authoritative talk for intelligence.

Listening is usually smarter than talking.

Dear Jane And Rachel

Dear Jane And Rachel

I had a visit with Roberta Yarbrough last week and she told an interesting story. Said she was attending a meeting of her garden club in Dublin, Georgia recently and a man was lecturing on flowers, plants, shrubbery and etc. During the talk he told them of a small town in North Carolina where the women took a great deal of pride in their surroundings and were so interested in gardening. Roberta said she spoke up and said she bet she knew where that town was. . . Boone, North Carolina. Sure enough he was referring to Boone. The speaker was Grady Wright, brother of Mrs. Carrie Winkler.

Your daddy and I went to the annual meeting of the Southern Appalachian Historical Association held at Daniel Boone Hotel a week ago tonight, and had a thoroughly enjoyable time. Mr. Wallace Carroll, editor and publisher of the Winston-Salem Journal, was the speaker. This was a dinner meeting and the food was exceptionally good. I was so glad your daddy could go . . . just happened to be one of those times when he was able to get off the first part of the week.

Jewell and Fred (Mast) came by Saturday afternoon and took us to Salisbury for the Ninth District Democrats monthly meeting held at the Yadin Hotel. We had known for some time that they had lined up an excellent speaker, but we didn't know we would have the pleasure of chatting with two of our candidates for governor, ex-Judge Dan Moore and ex-Judge Richardson Preyer . . . each accompanied by his charming wife. Hearing chairman Lunsford Crew would have been a big evening, but to have the visit with the candidates was a nice bonus. The food was outstanding and I never saw a bigger variety for a meeting of this sort. They had prepared enough to feed twice as many people as were present . . . even though the dining room was almost filled. Must have been 300 people there. I had fun!

But, from reports I am getting this morning, we missed a big Saturday night in Boone . . . the selection of Miss Watauga County, an annual affair sponsored by the Jaycees. I am really sorry we couldn't be here for that. Every contestant is pretty . . . and I'm glad I didn't have to help choose the winners. Congratulations, all!

The recipe I am sending this week was in the May issue of

(the Farm Journal and is extra good. Hope you will enjoy it. Georgia Chicken Pie
2 (2 1/2 lb.) broilers
2 tsp. salt
1 1/4 c. butter or margarine
4 c. biscuit mix
1 1/3 c. milk
1/2 tsp. pepper
2 c. boiling water
Cut chicken into serving pieces; sprinkle with salt; let sit 30 minutes.
Cut 1/4 c. butter into biscuit mix. Add milk all at once; stir with fork to soft dough. Beat 12 strokes. Divide into four equal parts.
Roll out one portion of dough to 1/4 thickness (knead each part gently 10 times just before rolling). Cut into 1x2" strips; lay strips over bottom of buttered 4 qt. baking dish. Top with half the chicken pieces.
Place 1/4 c. butter in lumps between and on pieces of chicken; sprinkle with 1/4 tsp. pepper.
Roll second dough portion and cut as before; lay pastry strips over chicken until covered.
Place rest of chicken on this pastry, making sure chicken pieces touch edge of baking dish; add 1/4 c. butter in lumps and sprinkle with 1/4 tsp. pepper.
Roll third dough portion large enough to cover chicken; seal it to inside of dish. Cut small hole in center of pastry; pour in enough boiling water to barely float the crust (about 2 cups).
Bake in very hot oven (450 degrees) about 15 minutes, or until brown. Remove from oven; spread with 2 tblsp. softened butter.
Roll remaining dough large enough to cover first crust; place over top, again sealing to side of dish.
Return to oven 10 minutes, or until second crust is lightly browned. Remove chicken pie from oven; spread with remaining butter.
Reduce oven to slow (325 degrees); bake 45 minutes or until chicken is tender (add more boiling water as before, if needed). Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Worthwhile Club To Meet
