Clubwomen Are Observing American Home Week

Clubwomen of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs will observe American Home Week, November 24-30. The purpose of this observance is to point up the importance of the home to the American way of life.

Local clubs will mark the observance in cooperation with other groups of the community with special programs, home life exhibits in schools, churches and libraries. Ministers will be asked to use the home and family as a basis for sermons, and mayors will be asked to proclaim the week.

Individual clubwomen and their families will mark the week with family reunions, sharing the Thanksgiving spirit with foreign students from nearby colleges, underprivileged, handicapped, and lonely senior citizens.

Special emphasis will be on families visiting nearby historical points of interest as a part of the Federation's emphasis on enjoying "North Carolina Heritage with Your Family."

Mrs. D. O. Arnold, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, said, "If liberty is the touchstone of our society, the American Home must be its exemplification. If a challenge must be recognized before it can be met, we can say that our challenge as clubwomen lies in the American home as the fount from which must spring our country's moral and intellectual leadership, and if the home circle is to flourish, the home which is the training ground for our citizenry, must be basically solid and secure."

In making the announcement of American Home Week, Mrs. James Badgett, State Chairman, Home Life Department, said, "Thanksgiving Week is a most appropriate time to pay special tribute to the American home—the very foundation of our democracy. We call upon all clubwomen to rededicate themselves to preserving our priceless heritage. To help promote moral and spiritual values is the responsibility of every club member—every home maker—and every family is urged to observe American Home Week.

Through its divisions involving family life, religion, youth conservation, family economics, home management, and modern food trends, the department directs its efforts toward strengthening home life and to improving conditions without the community which effect family relationships.

Blue Ridge Garden Club

The monthly meeting of the Blue Ridge Garden Club was held on Wednesday, November 20, at the home of Mrs. J. B. Winkler on Blowing Rock Road. Mrs. Lee Reynolds and Mrs. J. C. Cline were hostesses with Mrs. Winkler. Sixteen members were present.

After the luncheon, the club president, Mrs. W. H. Pelmons, conducted the business meeting. Among the items receiving attention were: maintenance of the Daniel Boone Native Garden, the Christmas Decoration Contest, plans for the State Lily Show to be held in Boone on June 20-21, 1964, and various other club projects.

Mrs. Wayne Richardson presented the Bird-of-the-Month Study. She gave a very informative paper on the Carolina Cardinal.

Mrs. Frank Payne and Mrs. E. T. Glenn had charge of the program which consisted of the showing of arrangements prepared by club members. These were along the general theme of "Season's Greetings" and reflected the harvest, Thanksgiving, or Christmas motif. After the meeting was concluded, some of these were carried to the different rest homes, some to the college and the county libraries, and some to shut-ins.

Cigarette output in the 1961-62 fiscal year was approximately two per cent above the preceding year.

Total Eight-State Burley Yield To Shatter Records

The total crop in the eight-state burley belt is estimated this year at 688 million pounds—a record output.

It carries an average support price per hundred pounds of $58.30, a gain of 50 cents a hundred over 1962's $57.80 support average.

One of the important developments in the area of supports this year is the application of increases among the better grades of flyings, lugs and leaf—with gains ranging from $1 to $3 a hundred pounds.

As a result, the producer will have a sizeable price increase for his interest in producing quality burley.

Paul D. Goddard, Secretary-Treasurer of the Burley Stabilization Corp., noted that "We have been trying for six years to secure an increase in the better grades. Realizing that we have stressed the production of quality tobacco, it is fitting that producers should be rewarded for their efforts in maintaining a high-standard, useful and what should be a very suitable crop for the manufacturer."

In other developments concerning the 1963 crop, Goddard also announced that burley which is commingled with other crops when offered for sale on a warehouse floor will not be eligible for price supports under a new provision of the standard contracts between burley auction warehouses and the Burley Stabilization Corporation.

The Burley Association administers the price support program in Kentucky, Ohio, Tennessee, North Carolina, Indiana, West Virginia and Missouri.

About Your Home

Are you a part-time gardener who wants a full-time garden? Most of us are, but few of us know how to go about accomplishing a colorful garden year around. The secret lies in mastering the art of pot gardening.

You will find that pot gardening enables you to stage your own show any time you wish. You grow or buy plants in pots or tubs and move them into your garden when they reach full bloom. Another advantage is that you can weed out scrawny plants and replace them with vigorous plants with little or no trouble.

Pot-gardening requires lots of planning, but you will find it more than worth the trouble. There is a great advantage in being able to create your flower picture after the plants are in bloom.

If you plan a sequence of blossoms, you could start with daffodils, tulips, petunias and chrysanthemums. This will give you color from March through October.

For winter show, don't overlook the broad leaf evergreens. Tub of mountain laurel, azalea and pinks can also be used to make beautiful designs in the winter garden.

This is not an expensive kind of gardening. It is something that the whole family can enjoy so invest in a few pots and the necessary bulbs and plants. You won't be sorry.

ARCHITECT'S DRAWING OF PROPOSED NEW CLASSROOM BUILDING

$1 Million Classroom Building Planned For ASTC

Bids were tabulated Wednesday for a million dollar classroom building at Appalachian State Teachers College at Boone. A Lenoir firm was among the low bidders.

The college awarded the contracts with the alternates to the low bidders subject to certification and approval of the Division of Property Control of the North Carolina Department of Administration.

Parlier & Tomlinson of Lenoir was low bidder on plumbing at $37,436.

Low on the general contract was N. C. Monroe Construction Co. of Greensboro with a base bid of $639,173 and a total bid with alternates of $700,474.

Ingold Co. of Hickory submitted a base bid of $97,600 for heating. The firm's bid with alternates was $109,028.

Electrical Wiring Co. of Hickory was low on the electrical work with a base bid of $82,530 and total bid with alternates of $83,980.

Plans for the building were drawn by the Lenoir firm of Clarence P. Coffey, architect, and associate, Grayson Annas.

The total of the bids on which the contracts are expected to be awarded is $930,918. This figure is well within the amount appropriated for the building.

The 1963 N. C. General Assembly appropriated $1,065,000 to construct the three-story building having total floor space of 81,000 square feet. The building is expected to be completed and ready for occupancy in September 1965.

It will have 8 classrooms, 3 laboratories and 1 reading laboratory on the first floor; 19 classrooms and 5 lecture classrooms on the second floor; and 20 classrooms on the third floor. It will also have approximately 80 offices for professors.

The brick structure will house the reading, special education, placement, guidance and counseling and audio visual departments of the college.

A special feature will be closed circuit television to view activities at Appalachian High School, used by the college as a demonstration school in its teacher education program.

Four lecture halls will be equipped with electronics, transparent projection screens to screen material simultaneously in all four halls. Only the University of Miami in Florida has this special screening feature, according to the architects.

The bids on the building were tabulated in the office of the college vice president.
