

C. W. Overman Sees Better Egg Prices Next Two Months

Temporary Surplus Was Caused By Fear And Now Vanished

County Agent C. W. Overman says a temporary egg surplus has developed in many sections of the State during the first half of January, and that apparently this condition was due mainly to reduced settings by hatcheries, open winter weather and fear on the part of egg dealers that the market would drop sharply.

This fear caused the dealers to buy for immediate use only, thereby weakening the demand on the local markets, but this temporary surplus and scare has about vanished, and the egg markets are now much stronger than was the case in mid-January.

Plans for extended price support for eggs during the coming spring season of flush production were announced January 22, by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Designed to carry forward the Department's program of supporting producer egg prices at a minimum of 85 per cent of parity to encourage expanded production of War Time needs, the plans call for increased purchases of eggs during the months when supplies are greatest and prices are normally lowest. Purchases of eggs by the Department during the months immediately ahead will aim at continuing the support of producer prices at a level equal to 85 per cent of parity, and, in addition, preventing a disorderly seasonal price adjustment.

The plans for supporting egg prices during the next few months of flush production call for the following: (1) Make full use of virtually all of the production capacity of egg-drying plants. (Operating on an around-the-clock basis, present egg-drying facilities can produce more than 200,000,000 pounds of dried eggs annually, which would require over 20,000,000 cases of eggs).

(2) Inaugurate purchase of U. S. wholesale grades of fresh shell eggs for school lunch, relief and other immediate distribution purposes, and for storage for subsequent distribution.

(3) Make purchases of shell-treated export grades of fresh eggs later in spring production season for storage, until shipment during the fall months.

(4) Continue, for the time being, limited purchases of export grades of eggs for immediate use. The average U. S. farm price of eggs for February was about 17c and 85 per cent of parity will be nearly 21c per dozen for that month. The March farm price was about 16c per dozen and 85 per cent of parity will be a little over 19c. The April U. S. Farm price was nearly 20c and 85 per cent of parity will also be a little over 19c.

"Therefore," says Mr. Overman, "we are assured of better egg prices in February and March this year than were received last year. May we suggest that the farm people cut out the loafers but do not sell off the layers. We believe that local egg prices will be considerably better than they were last spring. Be sure to produce clean, quality eggs, gather them in wire baskets and store in a cool place on the farm while they are being held. The quality of eggs must be reasonably good for the Government to buy them."

My Swan Day
 By Gracie ("Well, I Swan") Allen

• Dreamt I had to bathe 139 babies when along came a pure white Swan and it was as mild as imported castles and it turned into a BIG cake of soap and guess what the soap was? SWAN!

• Woke up late—but was all showered and dressed in half the time, because Swan lathers twice as fast as old-style floaties. Good!

SWAN FLOATING SOAP

8 ways better than old-style floating soaps

Two convenient sizes—Large and Regular

• Georgie says the only thing harder than my head is Swan Soap. He just talks like that because Swan is harder than old-time floaties.

• What fun I have now, doing dishes, what with SWAN laugh-laugh-laughing at hard water! Nothing stops SWAN from kicking up wonderful suds.

Tune in every week!
