THIS WEEK'S BIBLE THOUGHT

HARMONIOUS LIVING GIVES PEACEFUL OLD AGE: And thou shalt go to thy fathers in peace; thou shalt be buried in a good old age.—Gen. 15:15.

Two Very Important Elections

Two very important elections are scheduled to be held, one on July 12 and the other on July 27, in both of which those who are eligible to vote should not fail to cast a ballot. The Herald has no hesitancy in saying that it hopes both elections will be carried by large majorities.

The July 12 election has to do with the tobacco referendum, the result of which will decide whether tobacco acreage allotments will be continued or farmers allowed to plant according to their individual inclinations. Under the program it has been proven that growers secure more for their tobacco than when planting was unrestricted, so that there is little argument why a tobacco grower should not favor the quotas. Of course, there will be some who, because they object to being governed, would rather double their work and expense and at the end have no more, and very probably less, than they will have under the program with less acreage.

The other election, while not having anything to do with income, will decide whether or not permanent improvements will be made in Edenton which will mark the greatest step forward in the town in over a quarter of a century. As is to be expected, there is opposition to the proposed project, principally because it will mean added taxes to liquidate a bond issue. Most of this opposition, however, comes from those who are obliged to pay income tax, while at the same time taxes are deductible from their incomes. Would it not be better and far more beneficial to Edenton if this tax money went toward improvements and show some signs of progress than to send a check to the collector of internal revenue?

Yes, there will be quite a bit of opposition, so that The Herald urges all who are in favor of the improvements to see to it that their names are on the registration books in their respective wards and then to be doubly sure to vote "Yes" for the bond issue. Registration books are now open and will remain open until next Saturday, July 13, and, of course, the election will be held July 27 between the hours of 6:30 A. M. and 6:30 P. M. Edenton has stood still long enough. It is time to move forward if it is ever to move in that direction.

Why Not Have A Band?

That there is no little interest among Edenton young people to have a band is reflected in the fact that some 30 boys and girls, without anyone to direct them, gathered together a group of instruments and some old discarded music, practiced faithfully and presented a concert Fourth of July night which was a distinct credit to them. Of course, the incentive was the fact that C. L. McCullers, former Edenton band director, agreed to come over from Kinston to direct a concert as a Fourth of July feature.

The affair attracted a goodly number of friends of the boys and girls and Mr. and Mrs. McCullers and so well did the youngsters perform that compliments galore were expressed, as well as the wish that Edenton would again have a band.

There are very few in Edenton who do not remember only a few years ago when Edenton gained a great deal of publicity as the result of a crack high school band. It is well remembered that for almost any occasion the band would turn out, thus adding greatly to the interest and putting over affairs which otherwise would have been very dull and much less impressive.

Edenton needs a band. Enough talent is here to form and develop a creditable organization. Many, especially after the Fourth of July concert, have expressed a wish that we have a band. Other towns even smaller than Edenton have good bands. What are we waiting for?

Charlie McCullers is to be complimented upon his interest and willingness to journey to Edenton to provide a holiday attraction on July Fourth and The Herald hopes that his coming will revive interest in a band to such an extent that means will materialize to again have an Edenton band. Who will start the ball rolling?

HEARD & SEEN

By "BUFF"

Coming home from a few days' vacation with the usual after-vacation lazy feeling, but faced with the job of getting out a paper from scratch gives me some idea of how a baseball pitcher feels when he gets out of a hole with the bases loaded and nobody out. It was just as serious a hole that I faced Monday morning, but as this is written I have somehow or other gotten things shaped up so that readers should get their paper about the same time as usual. All of which makes me dread vacations, for upon returning a fellow catches the devil for the few days of precious pleasure.

So seldom do I get a vacation that possibly a few observations might be in order. For instance, following a long trip looking for highway signs and passing through crowded cities, I'm working on a contraption which will enable the driver of an automobile to pass the steering wheel to the person next to him or even on the back seat, for that's where most of the suggestions come from when it comes to knowing the right thing to do.

It was while entering my home town that I made the remark, "Nothing looks familiar to me." However, my son was quick to remind me that the red traffic lights look familiar wherever one happens to travel.

Going into a restaurant (and in many of them liquor is sold) I saw several unique signs. One read, "Don't swear before ladies—let 'em swear first." Another (no doubt left from the blackout days) read: "Don't leave building during black-out. You may be lit and not know it." Rest rooms were labeled "Setter" and "Pointer", while in other places they were designated "Toots" and "Casper" and "He" and "She". But about the best one I saw read: "Use less sugar, do more stirring—the heck with the noise."

A fellow does some foolish things on a vacation. For instance, my daughter wanted to go up the George Washington monument in Washington. After riding up in the elevator the "bright" suggestion was made to walk down in order to look at the various tablets of contributors. It's 850 steps in the monument and about half way down I debated with myself whether to go back up and take the elevator or continue to walk down. We walked down, but my legs let me know about it next morning. A tip: It costs no more to ride than to walk.

It was while leaving the monument that one sailor said to another, "Well, our uniform got us in that place free." But his friend was quick to reply, "Yes, but I'd still rather be home and pay to get in."

As the result of taking a vacation I lost out on a barbecue feed, for Henry Goodwin had all of his children and grandchildren home once more and came in to invite me out while I was gone. He barbecued a 100-pound pig and did some close figuring, for he had just about a pound left, which he figured I would have eaten. Anyway, both Henry and Mrs. Goodwin were very much elated over the fact that they had all of their children together one more time.

Being away for three or four days and not encountering a drop of rain, I was informed that it had rained every day in Edenton. It might be a good idea to change up the baseball signs at street intersections. Instead of reading "Baseball Today", it might be a good idea to have them read, "Baseball When It Stops Raining". At the present rate rained-out games will last up until football season, so that there might be an argument as to which teams can use the lights.

I had an opportunity to fish a while in a lake situated in the mountains of upper New Jersey. They have exactly the same kind of fish in that bloomin' lake as we have around here lately—the kind which don't bite.

Anyway I'm not so very much scared to be a little cockey since I came back, for with me came my daddy, who is pushing the 80-year mark. The Bufflap "Junior" has to go to bed early but he'll get up and help me out if I get in trouble. He likes to parade around, so if anyone sees a strange guy lost, just direct him to The Herald office.

Yes, there are some honest people left in the world, and John Asbell, Jr., will vouch for it. Recently he lost his wallet and came in The Herald office too late to insert a classified ad, but this week the wallet was received in the mail with the following note from Miss Ruth Ange, who lives at 7504 Georgetown Road, Bethesda, Md.: "Found your pocketbook in Edenton theater while on a visit. A check will follow to cover the amount of money left after mailing this." Young Asbell had 13 bucks in the wallet, so that he recovered all but a few cents, thanks to Miss Ange. It's one of those things which happen only once in a life-time. Johnny searched everywhere he thought he might have lost his wallet, and had about given up the idea of ever finding it, but miracles apparently still happen.

Farmers Are Losing Subsidies On Lambs

Many sheep growers are failing to apply for subsidies on lamb sales and thousands of dollars are being lost.

The subsidy rightfully belongs to the farmer who grows the lambs, but some buyers, who are not slaughterers, are collecting the subsidy and keeping it themselves.

Hazel Meacham, Extension marketing specialist at State College, advises that growers take a copy of the bill of sale issued by the slaughterer of the lambs, not necessarily the buyer; submit the bill of sale to the local AA office; and receive a sight draft for the subsidy.

The subsidy is $2 per hundred pounds on lambs weighing 60 to 90 pounds; $2.65 per hundred for weights of 90 pounds and up; and $1 on all other lambs and sheep.

The subsidy applies on all sales through June 30 and the farmer can claim the subsidy through August 31.

All lambs that have been marketed by growers in cooperative sales have been listed for the subsidy, according to Meacham.

RAY-PRIVOTT

Miss Mary Louise Privott, daughter of C. Dan Privott and the late Mrs. Privott, and Charles Cox Ray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Ray of Lillington were united in marriage on June 22 in the Rocky Hock Baptist Church. The Rev. W. C. Francis, pastor of the bride, officiated at the double ring ceremony. A program of music was rendered by Miss Mary Irma Rives of Goldston.

The bride wore a white linen suit with black and white accessories and wore an orchid corsage. Ushers were Wilbur J. Privott of Edenton, brother of the bride, and Jimmy Withers of Broadway.

Mrs. Ray was graduated from East Carolina Teachers College. She is a member of the faculty of the Boone Trail School.

Mr. Ray recently returned from the United States Army.

Immediately after the ceremony the out-of-town guests were entertained at the home of the bride.

After the wedding trip the couple will be at home in Lillington.

To Our Customers:-

A Statement of Price Policy on PURINA CHOWS

It is true that our prices on Purina Chows have increased since the end of OPA ceiling on July 1, 1946.

BUT . . .

These new higher prices are due entirely to the increase in the cost of feed ingredients. All ingredients have risen sharply . . . some as much as $37.50 a ton.

This increase in the price of Purina Chows is not as large as the increase in ingredient costs. New prices reflect only a part of the out-of-pocket increase to Purina.

The new prices on Purina Chows do not include a single cent per bag or per ton more profit for Purina. The profit margins on Purina Chows have never been up to the full amount allowed under OPA and will not be raised now to margins previously permitted.

WE ARE PROUD TO FOLLOW PURINA'S POLICY

As authorized Purina dealers we are pledging ourselves to follow the manufacturer's lead. We know that our first responsibility is to our customers—we want to keep feed prices down as much as possible. We are not increasing our margins—we will not be short-sighted and take advantage of the present situation at your expense.

True, feed prices will go up or down as prices of ingredients vary—but we promise as always to do our best to supply all the Purina Chows we can get at the best price possible.
