Teachers Request Higher Salary To Meet Living Costs

Over 3,000 In Poll Say 30 Per Cent Increase Is Necessary

Replies of 11,000 teachers from all over North Carolina have revealed that most of the men and women in the state's classrooms think their salaries are insufficient.

More than 10,000 public school teachers, whose answers are included in these incomplete returns, told the State Education Commission that they cannot maintain a satisfactory standard of living on their present pay, according to Commission's Executive Secretary, W. H. Plemmons.

The poll was made as part of the study of the state's school system now being conducted by the Commission. Other questionnaires have been sent to school officials, parents and citizens all over the state. Results will be analyzed by the Commission before it makes its report on the school's strength and weaknesses to the Governor and the 1949 General Assembly.

Over 3,000 teachers answering the poll said that a 30 per cent increase in salary is necessary. Another 2,000 set the raise at 40 per cent, and more than 2,000 others would ask for double their present pay. Only 191 teachers in North Carolina would be satisfied with 10 per cent more, and 384 would like to see an 80 per cent raise.

More than 8,000 of the teachers agreed that the salary for teaching in a rural school should be the same as that paid in a city school.

Nearly all of the teachers believe that they should attend state authorized professional meetings without loss of salary when substitutes are available. About 6,000 teachers said that expenses of teachers on such occasions should be paid.

Some 8,000 teachers say it would be "practical and desirable" for them to take every seventh year for study or improvement.

Results of a similar questionnaire answered by representative citizens of North Carolina are being tabulated, and will be announced within the next few days.

Lions Club Minstrel Presented Tuesday

Leary, L. T. Dunbar, Bill Cozart, J. Clarence Leary, A. P. Hassell, Jack Mooney and M. A. Hughes, while a few numbers were rendered by a quartet composed of J. Clarence Leary, C. W. Overman, A. P. Hassell and Oscar Duncan. All were called upon for an encore.

The second part of the program was a comical skit with the scene in a doctor's office. H. A. Campen, as doctor, was obliged to leave the office, leaving Sidney Campen and William P. Jones in charge to wait on patients. The patients they received were Bill Vogedes, Oscar Duncan, John Mitchener, J. Clarence Leary and Dr. W. S. Griffin, all of which produced predicaments which brought forth much laughter on the part of the audience.

As a specialty act between the two parts of the minstrel, Leslie Waldorf and Al Fredericks of Elizabeth City rendered several piano duets.
