

New School Principal Lions Club Speaker

James Powers Succeeds Fenton Larson at School

Members of the Edenton Lions Club were favorably impressed with the new principal of the local high school, James Powers, who, with superintendent John A. Holmes, were guests of Coach George Thompson at the regular meeting of the Club held Monday evening.

A native of Wallace, Mr. Powers is a graduate of Wake Forest, with A. B. and M. A. degrees. While at Wake Forest he was a member of the tennis team and served as captain during his last two years.

He also engaged in track and baseball while at College.

Mr. Powers has 12 years experience in teaching and as principal in Davidson, Durham and Wake Counties, he taught science and mathematics and coached all forms of athletics in the above mentioned schools.

"I believe that we should stress scholarships first," said Mr. Powers in his brief, but interesting talk.

"I think that athletics should merit a place second to scholarships, since the development of one's body should keep pace with that of one's mind."

During World War II Mr. Powers volunteered for duty in the Army and served as lieutenant in the vocational training of civilian and enlisted personnel.

Upon being discharged from the Army in 1946, Mr. Powers became connected with the Veterans Administration in the training program for disabled veterans. "It was during this time that I had the opportunity to observe the fine work that is being done for the rehabilitation of these veterans who were more unfortunate than myself during the war," said Mr. Powers.

"I should like to commend the Lions Club for their assistance in securing glasses for school children, not otherwise able to provide themselves," said Mr. Powers in remarking upon the project of aid to the blind, which the club is sponsoring.

Superintendent John A. Holmes expressed great satisfaction in being able to procure a man of Mr. Power's experience and training in the middle of a school term, in replacement of Principal Larson, who resigned to accept a superintendency elsewhere. Mr. Powers just completed post graduate work in school administration at Carolina when the vacancy occurred.

A Baptist, Mr. Powers is married, but has no children. His wife, the former Blanche Johnson of Lillington, is a graduate of Duke University and at present is a member of the faculty of Lowes Grove High School in Durham County.

Ernest Ward, Jr., gave the usual 3-minute talk and afforded the members considerable fun with his jokes, as well as some inspiration.

N, O, P and Q Drivers Must Renew Licenses

Persons whose surnames begin with N, O, P and Q now may apply for renewals of drivers' licenses. Persons in this category may seek renewals through June 30.

At the suggestion of Jeff B. Wilson, Director of Department of Motor Vehicles, examiners throughout the State kept their stations open in the afternoon as long as the applicants were on hand during the L and M rush. For the convenience of the public the practice remained in effect through January 6 to take care of the L and M drivers who had failed to make application before the December 31 deadline. The Highway Patrol cooperated with examiners in giving road tests to applicants.
