Plans Completed To Print Southern Colonial Cook Book

Chowan Entries Should Be Sent to Mrs. E. N. Elliott

The State Council of Home Demonstration Clubs has completed plans for editing a Southern Colonial Cook Book with recipes from every county in North Carolina. Miss Virginia Wilson, Extension Nutritionist, is working with the State Committee and every recipe will be tested.

The procedure for compiling the cook book is as follows:

All recipes should be sent to Mrs. E. N. Elliott, Chairman of the Cook Book Committee, by March 15th. They will be tested, duplications eliminated and the final ones sent to the district representative on the State Committee.

What to include: Something interesting about the recipes—where they came from, or how they were used. Many families have favorite recipes which have been handed down and have an unusual story behind them. Several counties have had outstanding statesmen, Governors, etc., and any recipes used by their families would be a valuable contribution and of interest to everyone.

Edenton and Chowan County should have a large number of colonial recipes and it is hoped that they will be well represented in this North Carolina Cook Book. Anyone who has one or more of these recipes is requested to send copies to Mrs. E. N. Elliott, chairman.

Miss Virginia Wilson, Extension Nutritionist, will work with the Committee in an advisory capacity.

Chowan County Chorus Invited To Sing At District Meeting

The second in the series of music meetings which Mrs. Frank Elliott is conducting in Chowan County will be held this (Thursday) afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Chowan High School auditorium. At the first music meeting held attendance was very good and it is hoped that it will be even better at this meeting.

These meetings are sponsored by the Home Demonstration Clubs for people who are interested in learning more about music. At the meeting in January the group decided to stress church music this year so these meetings should be especially interesting and helpful to members of church choirs, and ministers.

The Chowan County Chorus, composed of Home Demonstration Club women, has been asked to sing at their district meeting in Hertford on April 16th. The County Music committee is making plans for this and will discuss them at the Music meeting Thursday afternoon.

VMF-224 Returns To Edenton Air Station

Many In Group Recently Returned From Mediterranean Cruise

On Friday, the 15th, Edenton was treated to an unusual sight. Fourteen "BANSHEE" jet fighter planes in combat formation circled the city in preparation for landings at the recently activated Edenton Marine Air Station. The aircraft were manned by pilots of VMF 224, recently returned from six months of extensive maneuvers in the Mediterranean on the Carrier F.D.R.

Last July, Squadron 224, based at MCAS, Cherry Point, was ordered to prepare for the cruise. At that time, Edenton Field was an outlying field for Cherry Point. It offered excellent facilities for simulated carrier landings, and on July 12, 1951, the practice began. In a mere seven days the pilots were qualified to land aboard any carrier.

They flew aboard the F.D.R. in Norfolk, Va., and spent several weeks readying for the cruise. The carrier departed Norfolk on the 3rd of November, and returned on the 4th of February. While on maneuvers, 224 participated in demonstrations for high ranking officials of the Armed Forces, including General Eisenhower and Admiral Carney. All observers were favorably impressed at 224's efficiency, and spoke highly of them.

Squadron 224 is now in the process of reorganization, and much is expected of them. Edenton will be seeing a lot of this squadron in the next few months.

In A Dilemma

Edenton people interested in preservation of historical shrines are in right much of a dilemma. The recent purchase of the Penelope Barker home site on Broad Street by the P & Q Food Center necessitates removal of the large frame dwelling house to make room for a modern super market.

The Herald understands the proprietors of the P & Q Food Center, Henry Quinn and Haywood Phthisic, have agreed to give the building to any group, provided it is removed from the present site. The Jaycees are vitally interested in moving the house, but are at a loss to know where it can be moved.

It was first thought that the house might be moved on the Iredell property on East Church St., which was recently acquired by the State of North Carolina. Another suggestion was to secure the right of the Belk-Tyler Company to place the house on the vacant lot back of the present Belk-Tyler Store.

To remove the house to either site involves complications, so that just what will be done is a large question mark. The Jaycees are now endeavoring to enlist the aid of other groups in an effort to save the house as another historical shrine in Edenton.

The First Senatorial District is composed of eight counties—Bertie, Hertford, Gates, Chowan, Perquimans, Pasquotank, Camden and Currituck, and the District is allotted two Senators. J. William Copeland, of Hertford County, and J. Emmett Winslow, of Perquimans County, represented the District in 1951. Copeland has announced that he will be a candidate to succeed himself. Winslow is reported to have stated that he will not again be a candidate.

No Senator has been elected from Gates County since 1923, and since that time every other county in the District has sent a Representative to the Senate one or more times. In view of this record, Godwin stated that he and other Gates Countians feel that Gates County is now entitled to furnish the District one of its two Senators in 1953.
