

J. A. Webb, Jr., Named On FHA Committee For Chowan County

Various Types of Assistance Is Offered to Farmers

Joe A. Webb, Jr., was recently appointed to the Chowan County FHA Committee for a period of three years effective July 1, 1952, replacing James L. Hassell, retiring committeeman.

The Chowan County FHA Committee is composed of Hilery T. Hobbs, T. A. Berryman and Mr. Webb. These men work closely with E. F. Morgan, County Supervisor for Chowan, and Perquimans counties.

It is the duty of these committeemen to certify as to the eligibility of persons applying for all types of assistance offered by the Farmers Home Administration Program. Also passing upon farms being considered for purchase, enlargement or development under the Farm Ownership Program or for improvement under the Farm Housing Program.

Types of assistance offered by the Farmers Home Administration are as follows: Operating loans to help eligible operators of family-type farms get ahead through better farming; farm development loans to owners of under-developed farms; farm enlargement loans to owners whose farms are too small to be an economic unit; farm ownership loans to eligible applicants to purchase family-type farms; farm housing loans to owners to construct, improve, alter, repair or replace a house or other building essential to the operation of the farm.

The local office of the Farmers Home Administration serving Chowan County is located over the bus station in Hertford and is open Monday through Friday from 8 A. M. to 5 P. M.

Group Chowan Farmers At Experiment Station

On Tuesday afternoon of last week several Chowan County farmers visited the Tobacco Experiment Station in Pitt County near Greenville. Those attending were Earl Ashley, G. W. Bunch, George W. Bunch, Jr., T. C. Byrum and Mr. Layden. The weather had been just as dry at the Experiment Farm this year as elsewhere, consequently the crops there are not good.

Several new varieties of tobacco are being tested and possibly some of them will be released within two or three years. Liming and fertilizer tests are also being conducted to determine which combination of the two is the best for most farming conditions.

Meadow nematodes are becoming serious pests to fine-cured tobacco growers. One of the best practices to control this pest is to follow a good system of crop rotation. Tobacco, corn and small grains should be included in the rotation.

We always have time enough, if we will but use it aright. —Goethe.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Keating

I have heard more than one farmer say there should be an open season on hunters. That statement heralds the end of an American tradition. Louis Bromfield predicts that in the not too far distant future all hunting and fishing (except on state-owned lands) will be on a permission basis, most of it on the basis of lease for the season or fee for a day.

In the old days the average farmer did not mind the invasion of his land by an occasional sportsman. On the whole, there was plenty of fish and game and the sportsmen were well behaved. Then as the cities grew the sportsmen increased in number and many of them were of a new breed. Often they took a gun and some cartridges and went out shooting everything that turned up on the landscape; they cut fences, left gates open and very often stole anything that was loose and could be carried.

Very quickly farms began to be posted and on opening day the farmer got out his shotgun, not to shoot game but to run hunters off his place.

But recently there has developed a new angle to the public hunting problem. Landowners have begun to realize that sportsmen are willing to pay a good-sized fee for the right to hunt and fish where there is plenty of game. With this has come improvement in game food and habitat. For the smart farmer knows that the more game he has the more customers he will have. He has begun to plant both feed and cover and to pay some attention to his ponds and streams.

There is also an increasing tendency in this country for sportsmen's organizations and private clubs to buy or lease considerable acreage and to develop it with their own money.

Bromfield thinks the restrictions on free public hunting are almost certain to increase as population pressures in many areas become difficult. This is happening even in so vast a country as Texas with its millions of acres of wild land.

The one bright factor in the picture is that as more farmers and landowners come to understand the value of revenues from hunting and fishing fees, the more attention will be paid to clean streams, to habitat and to food. It may cost a few dollars a year for the right to top quality sports, but it will be worth it to many.
