

Farm - Home Week Proves Worthwhile

Experience, Information And Enjoyment For All Who Attended

According to County Agent C. W. Overman, the annual Farm and Home Week program at N. C. State College last week was a very interesting one. Nearly 2,500 were registered and it was estimated that the total attendance amounted to well over 3,000 farm people. Said Mr. Overman, "Farm men and women who failed to attend certainly missed a great opportunity for enlarging their scope of experience, information and enjoyment."

The variety of classes offered for study and discussion of farm and home problems enabled a person to select the class most suited to his needs. From observation practically all of these classes were well attended, and the interest was high. These classes included such things as clothing selection, insect control in the home, making clothes and other things more suited for the homemaker. Classes principally for men were: Placement of fertilizers and how fertilizers act in the soil, adding livestock to the farm, saving labor and other things pertinent to the farm operation today.

The evenings were devoted to group singing, led by Mr. Overman. Amateur talent contests were most interesting and in many cases provided much fun. The quiz program, sponsored by the N. C. Farm Bureau and the N. C. State Grange, provided entertainment and fun. On each evening a very inspiring address was brought by some outstanding speaker.

HEALTH FOR ALL

ACNE

Teen-agers are sometimes the victims of many aggravations, some real, others fancied.

One of the trials of the teens is the "adolescent affliction" known as "acne." Acne is a chronic skin ailment, characterized by the appearance of small pimples and sometimes blackheads particularly about the face and at times on the chest and back. Although it attacks most frequently during adolescent years, older people and young children can also suffer from it.

Despite years of research on the subject, the exact cause of acne is still not known. Doctors believe that acne in adolescents is primarily linked with the physiological change and development taking place during those years.

We know more about factors which aggravate the condition. People suffering with acne should avoid drugs like iodides and bromides, exposures to external irritants like oils and tars, and certain foods such as chocolate, greasy and fried dishes, nuts, some types of fish, pork, and rich soda fountain concoctions.

In general, acne is a chronic inflammation of the oil glands and hair follicles of the skin. Usually, the condition starts when the sebaceous, or oil glands, are clogged with dirt or dead skin cells. What we know as "blackheads" are the surface ends of these clogged pores, darkened by exposure. Pimples associated with acne result when the plugged glands become inflamed and infected.

Hence cleanliness is of paramount importance in dealing with acne. The skin, particularly the affected area, should be kept clean with soap and warm water. Scrupulous cleanliness will remove blackheads and clogged matter and will also discourage the formation of pimples by removing bacteria which might otherwise have a chance to set up infection.

While the cause, treatment, and cure of acne are still under study, the doctor or a dermatologist can give the sufferer relief and sometimes shorten the life of the skin ailment.

The idea that acne is a necessary part of adolescence and that the teenager will "grow out of it" is old-fashioned and sometimes dangerous. Acne can and does leave scars on an individual's personality as well as his skin. It is foolish to suffer heartache and embarrassment from a stubborn case of acne when modern medical science can relieve or correct most skin ailments, including acne.

While neither the doctor nor skin specialist can guarantee to cure acne overnight, proper medical treatment will bring about improvement or correction of the condition in a reasonable length of time.

This Week's Poem

By WILBORNE HARRELL

"Let us then, be up and doing,
With a heart for any fate."
—Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

THE BRIMMING CUP

When the past lies dead and the future frowns,
And the cup life holds but a mocking draught;

When the brow is bloody with thorny crowns
And misery's cloak we wear and cannot doff;

When the night seems the longest and darkest
And storm clouds gather to frighten the sun;

When life seems gauntest, weariest and starkest
And the stout heart quails at the course to run;

When the last few grains that fall in the glass
Measure my struggles so desperately grim,

Can I then say: Courage, this too will pass.

Can a heart hold more when full to the brim?
No brimming cup or heart running o'er

But can with faith find room for one drop more.
