Entomologist Looks Over Peanut Projects

Dr. J. R. Dogger, entomologist with the N. C. Experiment Station, was in Chowan County Thursday of last week to work with the peanut plots which are being used as demonstrations to control the Southern root worm. He found evidence of the Southern corn root worm on the untreated area at R. T. Harrell's farm. No evidence of the root worm was found on the treated area. The treated area at Mr. Harrell's was treated with Heptachlor at the rate of 11/2 pounds actual material per acre. The plot at E. M. Howell's farm was treated with Aldrin at the same rate per acre. No evidence of corn root worm was found on either the treated or untreated areas at Mr. Howell's.

New Shredder At Hobbs Implement Company

In its new No. 60 shredder, the New Idea Division, Avco Manufactur-ing Corporation, has suspended the three shredding heads from the top in such a way that the back is left open. This arrangement has reduced wrapping to a minimum and increased the even distribution of material. Running at standard power take-off speed, the adjustable hammers achieve 19,225 hits per minute. They not only cover two rows but pulverize the center as well, thus eliminating a windrow effect and distributing the pulverized material evenly over the soil.
