Federation Meeting Is Held In E. City

"Try Giving Yourself Away" was the subject of an address by Otis B. Copeland, Extension Editor, State College, Raleigh, at the 25th District Federation meeting held on Thursday, April 25th, at Central School in Elizabeth City.

Mr. Copeland urged the 300 women present to take time to give of themselves in the little friendly and neighborly deeds of everyday life. "Give with friendliness, time, and an enthusiastic spirit," he urged. Using humorous stories and remarks, Mr. Copeland delighted his audience with his presentation.

In a unique installation of officers Mrs. I. E. Halsey, Jr., of Chowan was installed as second vice chairman.

Chowan County was represented by 40 of its outstanding club women, placing second in percentage of attendance. Perquimans County received the gavel for having the greatest percentage present as compared to its total membership.

Not His Turn

A colored preacher at the close of his sermon, discovered one of his deacons asleep. He said, "We will now have a few minutes of prayer. Deacon Brown will lead." "Lead?" queried Deacon Brown, "I jis' dealt."

PENGUINS MEET FROGMAN—Penguins must lead calm day-to-day lives, expecting little in the way of diversion in the Antarctic. So the sudden appearance of a Navy frogman from the depths of frigid waters easily explains their startled looks. Trying to make friends with the animals, the unidentified intruder in the snow is a member of Task Force 43 which recently completed the second phase of "Operation Deepfreeze," supporting American scientific studies for the International Geophysical Year. This penguin-interest shot was taken during construction of an operating base at Marie Byrd Land.

New Booklet On Blood Pressure Is Now Available

Common Misconception Cleared Up In Booklet

Some common misconceptions about the danger of high blood pressure are cleared up in a booklet issued by the American Heart Association and available through local chapters of the North Carolina Heart Association, or its state office in Chapel Hill. The pamphlet also reviews modern methods of treating hypertension and states that the outlook for high blood pressure patients is now more favorable than ever before.

The author of "High Blood Pressure" is Dr. Edgar V. Allen, senior consultant in Medicine at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minnesota, and president of the American Heart Association. One of the popular beliefs Dr. Allen shows to be false is that the height of a person's blood pressure alone tells how serious the condition is. What is important, says Dr. Allen, is how the person's heart and arteries can take high blood pressure. In general, women seem to be able to withstand high blood pressure better than men, and for some individuals of both sexes, hypertension may be tolerated comfortably for years with little or no treatment.

Another common misconception is that high blood pressure inevitably leads to a stroke or apoplexy. "It does not," says Dr. Allen. "Strokes are a possible complication of hypertension, but only a small percentage of persons with hypertension have serious strokes. Strokes can occur in men and women with normal blood pressure as well as in those with hypertension."

Dr. Allen warns against self-diagnosis. High blood pressure symptoms, such as headaches, shortness of breath and dizziness, are also symptoms of many other causes and sometimes a person can have hypertension with none of these symptoms at all. The only way to make sure, Dr. Allen advises, is to let your doctor be the judge.

"It takes two to treat your hypertension—your physician and you," writes Dr. Allen. "You can play your part best," he continued, "by following your doctor's instructions carefully, being patient during trial periods of new medicines, and easing—as much as you can—your approach to life and its demands." He points out that patience is indeed a virtue in dealing with high blood pressure, for each person reacts differently to the modern drugs which can help bring blood pressure down and sometimes it is necessary to try various drugs, or combinations of several, to get results. Special diets, recommendations for daily living and even surgical procedures are other methods the doctor uses to treat hypertension.

BLOODSHED BOXSCORE ON N. C. HIGHWAYS

Raleigh — The Motor Vehicles Department's summary of traffic deaths through 10 A. M., April 29, 1957 is as follows:

Killed This Year	304
Killed To Date Last Year	331

unknown, Dr. Allen says that research scientists working on the problem are following several promising leads. Among them he lists heredity, emotions which are "wrapped up somehow in the whole business" and changes in body chemistry—for example, release into the blood stream of pressure-raising chemical substances by the kidney under certain conditions. Since it is estimated that at least five million people in this country suffer from high blood pressure, it is important that this research in causes and cures go on.

The booklet, "High Blood Pressure," was written primarily for the person with hypertension and for members of his family. It explains what high blood pressure is, what the physician can do about it and, perhaps most important of all, how the patient can help his doctor treat him effectively. Single copies are available without charge from local Heart chapters or from The North Carolina Heart Association, Miller Hall, Chapel Hill, N. C.
