

May 20 Deadline To Sign Up For '57 Marketing Season

Anticipated Coop Exchange Will Open May 27

The Chowan Cooperative Produce Exchange has set May 20 as the closing date for accepting new members and sign-up crops for the 1957 vegetable marketing season, according to E. L. Pearce, president.

Present members of the Cooperative should contact the president or secretary, Carey Evans, immediately if they wish to sign up crops for this marketing season. Any growers who wish to become members of the Cooperative and sign-up crops for this season should do so by May 20. This closing date is set in order that final plans for the marketing season may be worked out and the manager, Linwood Layton, may know how to set up his plans.

It is anticipated that the market will possibly open on May 27. This depends upon the progress of the crops and it may be that some produce will start moving the week of May 20. A letter has been mailed to prospective buyers stating the approximate opening date, the list of vegetables and approximate acreage and also the date of movement.

It is hoped that this will help to advertise the market and bring in buyers. This information has also been sent to the State Department of Agriculture and the Vegetable Packer publication.

GUM POND CLUB MEETS

The Gum Pond Home Demonstration Club met with Mrs. Earl Smith for its May meeting with 12 members present. All business being taken care of, the demonstration was then given by Mrs. Carey Evans, clothing leader. "Being Well-Dressed At Small Cost" was the topic of the demonstration. Mrs. Evans pointed out the fact that a well planned wardrobe to suit personal needs was much cheaper and more practical than a closet full of things not suitable to wear.

"When you plan to buy clothing check what you have," said Mr. Evans. "Some small accessories may be all that you need to make an entirely new outfit." She had samples of materials showing how the various colors could be used together in planning an outfit whether it be a coat, suit, blouse or dress. After hearing Mrs. Evans give this demonstration everyone felt like going home and cleaning out to see what could be added to or worked over in their wardrobe.

Miss Beulah Evans, food conservation leader, gave an interesting talk on freezing strawberries. She showed the club each step from the selection of the berries to the freezer. This was of much interest to all as strawberries are now in season.

In the absence of the family life leader, Mrs. Charlie Peele, a reading was given by Mrs. Marvin Smith.

Refreshments were served by the hostess during the social hour.

EPIC OF FRUSTRATION—It may look like these gentlemen of Paris, France, are vigorously applying themselves to party drinking but it just isn't so. They're working—tasting wine. The wine-tasters are sampling sips of Vouvray wine from the banks of the Loire. And tasting is all they do since the sample must not be swallowed lest it leave a lingering taste which might affect later judgments.

Farrowing Pens Prove Successful

Chowan Farmer Well Pleased With Experiment

Fred Bunch, Jr., of Cross Roads community decided last winter that he needed to do something to save more pigs at farrowing time. The matter was discussed with County Agent C. W. Overman, and Fred decided to convert some old livestock stables into farrowing pens.

The county agent assisted Fred in drawing up plans for the size stalls needed and for facilities to go in them. The building was underpinned with cement blocks. Stalls about 8 by 10 feet were made. A door was made to each stall so that the brood sow could go outside. Guard rails were constructed around the stalls and an electric brooder was constructed in one corner of each stall.

Fred packed the soil as securely as possible in each of the pens and scattered a small amount of litter about the floor. The stalls were used for spring farrowing. Fred reported last week that he did not have a single mashed pig in any of the farrows and was well pleased with his venture thus far.

These farrowing facilities were constructed at a minimum of cost. Mr. White stated that the expense involved and the labor it took for the work was well justified in the saving of pigs this spring over his experience in the past. "Hog raisers in Chowan County, regardless of the number of brood sows kept, can provide proper farrowing facilities and profit greatly by using them for farrowing, says Mr. Overman.

"Records show that our loss of pigs at farrowing time has been extremely high where proper farrowing facilities are not provided."

It is hoped that other hog growers will call on the county agent for assistance, if needed, and provide proper farrowing facilities to give the brood sows a chance to raise the most profitable litters.

Young Churchmen Hosts Next Sunday

The Young Churchmen of St. Paul's Episcopal Church will be host to youth groups from Windsor, Hertford and Elizabeth City Sunday.

Tommy Kehayes, president, will welcome the visitors, to be followed by buffet supper in the Parish House. A program has been planned for the evening with Misses Peggy Dale, Leigh Dobson, Carolista Fletcher Kathryn Wozelka, Sara Relfe Smith, Milly Price, Joan Garrett in charge of arrangements.
