

Negro Home Demonstration News

By MRS. ONNIE S. CHARLTON, Negro Home Demonstration Agent

It is time to bury our winter coats, suits, dresses, nats, gloves, ties, socks, sweaters, jackets, shoes and other accessories in moth zalls, naphthalene crystals or some other type of moth preventative substances.

Since we have such busy long schedules from day to day, let us be wise, change our old habits and make a new start for next year. In preparing garments that are to be stored it should be kept in mind that collars, cuffs, and pockets should be thoroughly cleaned to remove grease and dirt which is one of the evils to all fabrics and the open door for moth larvae to enter and do their work of destroying garments. I am suggesting that you:

1. Mend, air, sun, dry clean, or launder your winter garments. (Certain dry cleaning plants will clean your garments in mothproof substances at your request.)

2. Sprinkle or scatter moth balls, naphthalene crystals, or any other spray for moths in the pockets, sleeves, and other close places to protect garments from moths. Pack in a large pasteboard box or trunk. Seal box with gummed paper. Label and put away until fall or store garments in mothproof bags. (Blue tissue paper may be used to store garments in that may fade or turn yellow.)

3. Use this same method for storing blankets and quilts. Be sure bedding is clean before storing.

4. If you have winter shoes to store, clean them thoroughly. In August give them another brushing, because under the most careful attention they will collect mold during the damp period of summer. Place shoe trees in them or stuff toes with tissue paper and store in a dry place.

5. Small articles such as gloves, wool socks and sweaters may be stored in clean, dry half gallon jars. Seal tight, label and store in a dry place until fall.

New Drive To Keep Beautiful State Launched

With the full backing of Governor Hodges and key members of his administration, a 90-day educational campaign to clean up the highways of North Carolina will be launched on July 1.

Spearheading the drive will be the newly appointed Governor's Committee for Clean Highways, a group which has adopted the slogan "Keep North Carolina Beautiful—Don't Be A Litterbug."

The Statewide campaign is planned as the beginning of a long-term effort to clean up the State. Though the initial drive will be concerned primarily with clean highways, parks and public areas, the movement is expected to expand to the point where it will concern a variety of things ranging from the chewing gum wrapper a boy tosses on the sidewalk, or his father throws out of a car, to the unsightly "automobile graveyards" which are found near the entrances to many North Carolina municipalities.

"We must start somewhere and we chose the State highways and parks as the best place to start," said the Governor. "But this is only the beginning of our efforts to keep North Carolina beautiful and to get rid of the litterbugs."

Governor Hodges appointed Voit Gilmore of Southern Pines, president of the North Carolina Travel Council, chairman of the committee.

At the request of Chairman Gilmore and other members of the Committee, Governor Hodges agreed to serve as its Honorary Chairman.

The summer campaign will be divided roughly into two divisions. Chairman Gilmore, the State officials and the representatives of the Travel Council and the Broadcasters Association—with the help of the State Advertising Division—will promote the anti-litterbug campaign on the State level. Smith and Currie, the latter being chairman of the Broadcasters Special Event Committee, have chosen the clean-up campaign as the number one public service project of North Carolina radio and television stations.

The representatives of the Garden Club, the Federation of Women's Clubs and the 4-H Clubs will conduct the campaign on the grass roots or local level. They are expected to carry the campaign to municipal officials, Chambers of Commerce, civic clubs and into the schools when they open in September.

"The hardest part of this job will be on the local level," said Chairman Gilmore. "I join Governor Hodges in his expression of appreciation to the representatives of the three clubs which have undertaken this assignment."

The Governor's Committee for Clean Highways is receiving the help and cooperation of Keep American Beautiful, Inc. as it prepares for the 90-day campaign. Representatives of oil companies and other organizations and interests have indicated their willingness to cooperate in the promotion of the Statewide effort.
