

Allotment Compliance Needed To Share Soil Bank Payments

Compliance with all acreage allotments is a basic eligibility requirement for payment under the 1957 Soil Bank Acreage Reserve Program, H. D. Godfrey, Administrative Officer for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee, says.

In order to complete payments under the 1957 Acreage Reserve Program, as soon as possible, ASC county offices have been instructed to make payments under the Acreage Reserve Program as soon as compliance has been checked on the commodity placed in the Reserve, with no regard at the present time to the acreage of other allotment crops on the farm. According to Godfrey, this means that a farmer who accepts a Soil Bank Acreage Reserve payment and is later found to have over-planted some other allotment crop on the farm will be required to refund the total amount of the Soil Bank payment or be subject to legal action.

A farmer who places land for a particular crop in the Acreage Reserve Program not only has to meet program requirements for those acres but also must stay within his farm's allotment for all other crops covered by the program. This includes cotton, tobacco, peanuts, and corn. Farmers must also comply with their wheat allotments provided the wheat allotment is over 15 acres. Where wheat acreage is being placed in the Soil Bank Reserve, farmers must comply with their allotment even though that allotment be less than 15 acres.

Godfrey explained the making of these Soil Bank payments before all compliance is checked by saying that the percentage of farmers who do not comply with the allotment programs is so very small that it would not warrant holding up all payments until all compliance had been checked.

Campaign Is Now In Full Swing Keep North Carolina Beautiful

Governor Luther Hodges' new campaign to rid North Carolina of the "litterbug" is now in full swing—and will continue through the summer.

"Keep North Carolina Beautiful" is the slogan of the Governor's committee for Clean Highways—the group which is conducting the 90-day effort.

"This is the first step toward what we believe will be a much cleaner and more attractive State," said Governor Hodges. "We are starting with the highways, public parks and recreation centers because there the accumulation of travel-trash is the first eye-sore to greet the traveler. But we hope this movement will spread to include every city street, every school ground and every individual's own private yard."

"Our big problem is to arouse the conscience of our people. Once a person stops to think, he is not likely to dump trash out of his car window or leave the beaches, mountain resorts and public parks looking like so many trash heaps. It's an easy matter to keep litter in a bag in your car, and then empty it when you reach a proper receptacle—such as many filling stations are providing. As for that empty cigarette pack, why not put it back in your pocket where it's been all the time, instead of throwing it along the highway?"

"We are counting on the children to be a big help in putting this effort across. Boys and girls are very adept at arousing their parents' conscience—as all of us parents know. And this is a movement in which they can set the good example for us to follow."

Three N. C. Outdoor Dramas Now Showing

Roanoke Island, site of the first English settlements in America. With the exception of three years during World War II, it has played each summer since then and has been seen by over a million people. Roanoke Island was the objective of Sir Walter Raleigh's ill-fated attempts to establish English colonies in the New World in 1585 and 1587, and it was the tragic mystery surrounding the disappearance of the "lost" colony of 1587 which inspired the drama. Land surrounding the Waterside Theatre is now Fort Raleigh National Historical site, where the dwellings of the early colonists and the little earthen fort which guarded them have been restored. Scenes in the drama re-enact authenticated events in Elizabethan England and on Roanoke Island, but Playright Green does not attempt to solve the mystery of what happened to the Roanoke Colonists.

The Cherokee Indian Reservation in the Great Smoky Mountains is the home of "Unto These Hills," its cast including descendants of the Cherokee leaders portrayed in the drama. Written by Kermit Hunter of Chapel Hill, "Unto These Hills" is beginning its eighth season as America's box office champion among outdoor historical dramas. It is produced in Mountainside Theatre at the community of Cherokee on U. S. 441 near the North Carolina entrance to the Great Smoky Mountains National Park. "Unto These Hills" is the story of the Cherokees' struggle to keep their homes and the martyrdom of one of their leaders, Tsali, to permit his people to remain in the Great Smokies rather than be removed to the west across the "trail of tears."

Daniel Boone, who blazed a trail across North Carolina's Blue Ridge Mountains, before the Revolutionary War, is the central figure portrayed in "Horn In the West." In this play Kermit Hunter tells the story of the westward movement of pioneers who carved homes out of the wilderness and defended their freedom in the Battle of Kings Mountain. The drama, which has played every summer since 1952, is staged in the Daniel Boone Theatre at the town of Boone, six miles from the Blue Ridge Parkway in Northwestern North Carolina.

The dramas are produced by non-profit historical associations and draw much of their direction and talent from the Carolina Playmakers and the University of North Carolina's Department of Dramatic Art, Chapel Hill.

NAAS NOTES
By CAROLE McFERREN
It seems that social functions are at a premium these days. I guess everyone is trying to get away from the heat by staying home. But, here we go with what we have...
Last Saturday evening the O' Wives sponsored a Pot-Luck-Bingo at the O' Club. Winners in Bingo included Lt. Richard Coleman who took the big prize, Mrs. Hal Shore, Mrs. Earl Carpenter, Lt. Chuck Yates, Captain Ray Fortmeyer and the very lucky Jerry Havill's, who collected three of the prizes. Hostesses for the Pot Luck were Mrs. Gordon Keller, Mrs. Kenneth Byers, Mrs. Lyle Beeler, Mrs. James Groover, Mrs. Jack Mimmick, Mrs. Wm. Bethel, Mrs. John Waterstreet, and Mrs. Early Spiars. Everyone agreed they had a wonderful time.
Mrs. Marshall L. Spiars of Mayersville, Mississippi, is the guest of her son and daughter-in-law, Lt. and Mrs. Early Spiars.
Mrs. Ray Fortmeyer was the honoree at a recent Farewell Party hosted by Mrs. Jack O'Connor. Mrs. Fortmeyer will leave for Monterey, Calif., this week. The guests were Mrs. Don Dalton, Mrs. John Waterstreet, Mrs. Lou Cornish, Mrs. Doug Smith, Mrs. Paul Leahy, Mrs. Kent McFerren, Mrs. Carl Rechin, Mrs. Harry Gillis and Mrs. James Bowlers.
The O' Wives Club will hold their July business meeting on the 12th. The program will consist of the installation of new officers.
