

KNOW YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

F. E. Bittendorf, representative of the Social Security Administration, is in Edenton every Thursday at the North Carolina Employment Security Commission in Citizens Bank Building.

There is good reason why the Social Security Administration identifies its more than 100 million accounts by numbers rather than by names. Recorded with the Social Security Administration are over one million Smiths, many thousands of Johnsons, Andersons, and others of the more common names.

A social security number is an important number. It signifies that an account has been opened with Uncle Sam's insurance system. Each self-employed person or person employed by others should see that his correct number identifies his account. Use of an incorrect number means extra work for the Government, the employer, and the account number holder. It may mean loss of benefits on retirement or death. If a person is under social security but fails to obtain a number, he has not established a social security account although he may be paying for this Federal insurance.

If you will need a social security number soon, apply for it immediately. It probably will take ten days before you receive the number. Obtain an application from any post office or from the Norfolk social security office.

Account number cards should be safeguarded. It costs Uncle Sam to replace each lost social security card. If a card is lost, application should be made for another card bearing the same number. Also, if you change your name—as a bride does, be sure your social security account is changed to your new name.

Don't pick a number off a boxcar. If you need a social security number see, the Social Security Administration so that you can be assigned a number which will belong only to you. Do not try to remember your number—remember we all forget. Instead, always look at the card when you need to use a social security number.

Record Funds Provided For 4-H Club Work Advancement

A new record total of $847,744 was provided for the advancement of 4-H Club work during 1956 by the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work, according to G. L. Noble, director, in releasing the annual report of the organization.

The funds were used for conducting a comprehensive program of 4-H awards, incentives, and leader training, in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Agriculture and Extension Services of the agricultural colleges in the 48 states, Noble stated.

Unique among youth service agencies, the National Committee is a voluntary, non-profit corporation that functions as a clearinghouse in behalf of the 4-H program. During the past year nearly 60 business organizations, foundations, and public-spirited citizens channeled funds through the committee for 4-H awards and other services benefiting the 2,164,000 boys and girls enrolled in some 90,000 clubs across the country.

L. R. Harrill, North Carolina 4-H Club Leader, pointed out that individual awards to more than 141,000 of these 4-H members included 220 college scholarships of $300 each, 1,121 educational trips, and 141,118 medals, as well as U. S. Savings Bonds, watches, and hundreds of other items.

Several of these donor organizations also gave major financial support for the training of nearly 37,000 volunteer 4-H leaders.

Among the notable annual undertakings of the committee is its joint sponsorship with Extension Services of the National 4-H Club Congress each fall in Chicago. Through the award programs some 1,200 top-ranking 4-H'ers earn all-expense-paid trips to the Congress where they receive nationwide recognition.

Ernest J. Ward, Jr., Clerk.

ber, is the little boy in Manorville, New York, who recently was trapped in a well for twenty-four hours. His father and mother, who are members of the Bible Protestant Church (formerly affiliated with the Methodists), credit his rescue to answered prayer offered by themselves and their pastor, the Rev. John A. Vignali. Sam Woodson, the Negro construction worker who pulled Benny from the tunnel is in agreement with them. Said Woodson, when asked by a reporter if he had talked with the boy, "I didn't have a chance to talk with him. I talked with God. All the time I was praying to God to give me strength. Bringing the boy out alive was the biggest thrill of my life. It's wonderful to be a tool in the hands of God."

NO HANDICAP—Janet Walter, a student at New York's Hunter College, has been crippled with polio since 1945 but she doesn't permit it to hinder her work. A member of the honorary scholastic society, Phi Beta Kappa, Janet is now working on several stage and television plays. She's hoping for a scholarship at the Yale Drama School.
