Christian Workers School At Hertford

Odum has been Conference Secretary of Youth Work of the Women's Society for two terms, Conference Secretary of Missionary Personnel for the Women's Society, and is now President of the Fayetteville District of the Women's Society of Christian Service. She has served as counselor at religious camps for young people, and on the North Carolina Conference Committee on Christian Vocations, as well as many other activities with young people.

The course on "Home and Church Cooperating in Children's Work" is an outstanding course for persons who work with children in the church. It is intended to familiarize both parents and teachers with the work of the church with children and the cooperation necessary between the home and the church. Mrs. Queen is the wife of the Rev. V. E. Queen, pastor of Duke Memorial Church, Durham. She has had wide experience with children as public school and kindergarten teacher, and is temporary Conference Director of Children's Work for the Methodist Church. Mrs. Queen resided in Hertford for four years. Her course is a popular one and valuable to both parents and church workers equally. It is not a course for children, however.

Lloyd C. Bunch Again Named SCS Chairman

pointed chairman of the poster committee.

A resolution was passed requesting Mr. Bunch to introduce a bill at the state meeting of district supervisors in session Tuesday and Wednesday of this week at Winston-Salem. The resolution states that soil conservation districts not paying their dues be suspended and not be allowed to take part in district activities of the state organization of soil conservation supervisors.

District supervisors who attended the state meeting in Winston-Salem early this week were: L. C. Bunch and J. A. Webb, Jr., from Chowan; Grady Stevens and H. A. Leary from Camden; George Winslow and Joe Nowell from Perquimans, and Ralph Powers and F. E. Doxey from Currituck; James H. Griffin, local work unit conservationist who represented the Soil Conservation Service at the meeting.

Next meeting of the district board of supervisors will be in Currituck County in May.

Experience shows that success is due less to ability than to zeal. The winner is he who gives himself to his work, body and soul. —Chas. Buxton.

'Pops' Campbell Is Featured In Magazine Article

Donald Campbell, better known as "Pops" Campbell, was recently the subject of a long article in "The Second Line," the official organ of the New Orleans Jazz Club, a nationally known organization.

Under the title of "Crusader for Jazz," the article gives the long, colorful career of "Pops" Campbell, from his early beginning as a musician to his present role of radio commentator in the field of Jazz.

Donald Campbell has been broadcasting his Jazz program and comments on "Jazz and Personalities" for over two years on radio station WCDJ, Edenton, and has become well known locally and nationally as an authority on the subject.
