

Conservation District Enters Goodyear Awards Program

Albemarle Soil Conservation District has entered the national Soil Conservation Awards program sponsored by the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio, it is announced by District Chairman L. C. Bunch, of Edenton.

Members of Albemarle District will compete against other soil conservation districts in the state. Non-partisan judging committees, selected from North Carolina's outstanding exponents of the soil conservation movement, will determine the state's outstanding district for the period May 1, 1957 to April 30, 1958, on a basis of total points scored in performance of regular district duties.

Grand award for one member of the winning district governing body in each of the 50 competing units, and the top cooperating farmer or rancher named by that district, will be an expense-free, vacation trip to Goodyear's fabulous winter resort, the Wigwam Guest Ranch on Goodyear Farms, Litchfield Park, Arizona, in November or December 1958.

Members of the Albemarle district governing body who will compete for the Goodyear award are: George Winslow, J. A. Bray and Joe Nowell of Perquimans County; W. R. Gregory, W. L. Davis and J. E. Morgan of Pasquotank County; Manley West, M. E. Doney and Ralph Powers of Currituck County; H. A. Leary, Grady Stevens and W. F. Williams of Camden County, and L. C. Bunch, Joe Webb, Jr., and R. H. Hollowell of Chowan County.

National winners of the Goodyear Soil Conservation Awards will be honored at the seven regular area meetings of the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts. Plaques will be awarded at State Conventions to the hundred first and second place winning districts.

cuts voted last year, the House actually has increased the overall total by nearly $500 million.

Unless the economy forces in Congress are able to check this trend — backed by "grass roots" support — there seems to be no limit to what the big spenders might demand — and get — in the future.

Huge excessive spending could weaken the nation economically — and thereby make more different resistance to the Soviet program for world domination.

Such, in brief, is the general outlook in Washington. But a number of specific decisions are pending, including whether to weaken state's rights still further by federalizing the unemployment compensation system.

Following hearings by the House Ways and Means Committee, there seems to be no likelihood of action on the Administration's program for compulsory loans to the states by the federal government for supplemental unemployment compensation payments.

Principal attention now is being given the bill introduced by Chairman Mills (D-Ark.) of the Ways and Means Committee. This would provide for outright grants of federal funds to all states for extension of unemployment benefits.

It was pointed out by a number of witnesses during the hearings that both the Administration proposal and the Mills bill involved in essence a federal "relief" program in the guise of unemployment compensation.

Remove Infested Pine Trees Before Summer

Did you know that your pines may be a breeding place for pine bark beetles this spring?

R. S. Douglass, forestry specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, says if you had trouble with these little pests last summer, you may have some trees full of hibernating beetles now.

If this is the case, as soon as the warm weather comes the beetles will begin their destructive work of killing your pines, according to Douglass. A few weeks later another generation will hatch out and begin their chewing also.

Douglass points out that the best control for these pests is complete removal of all infested trees before warm weather.

"A little time spent in your woods looking for these infested trees now and removing them may save the loss of quite a few valuable pines during crop season when you're too busy to salvage them," he concludes.

N. C. Egg Producers Should Find Out-Of-State Markets

Sure it makes you feel good to have your neighbor's business. But North Carolina egg producers will be doing themselves and their fellow Tar Heels a favor if they begin thinking more about out-of-state business.

That's the opinion of Clayton P. Libeau, poultry and egg marketing specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service.

Libeau says that bringing new money into the state helps raise incomes a lot more than "trading among ourselves within the state." He explains: "A 600-case truckload of eggs sold in Washington, D. C., can add $7,200 to North Carolina income even if the eggs are sold at 40 cents per dozen."

In addition, Libeau points out, incomes per week are higher in most other states than in North Carolina. This means that folks outside the state have more money to spend on high-quality. Low-income people usually won't pay the price for Grade AA eggs and prime steak. Thus Tar Heel farmers will have to revise their thinking on quality when they begin shipping more out-of-state products.

Libeau says that some of the things needed for a strong out-of-state egg production and marketing program include:

- (1) A concentration of large family flocks in a small area to reduce the cost of hauling feed and supplies to the farm and reduce the cost of hauling eggs to a central marketing facility.
- (2) Laying strains or breeds capable of laying more eggs than other production areas.
- (3) An egg packing and cooling room on each farm.
- (4) Better producer-marketing agency agreements than other producing areas.
- (5) A strong central market agency handling from 6,000 to 10,000 cases of eggs per week.
- (6) Eggs refrigerated and humidified from the farm to the retail store to assure high quality and better service.
- And (7), a county with about 500,000 hens laying at a rate of 72 per cent to supply 1,000 cases of eggs per day.

Chowan Credit Union Takes Step Forward

Officers and directors of the Chowan Credit Union announce a forward step by completely modernizing its bookkeeping methods as the result of acquisition of a Burroughs Sensi-matic posting machine.

New passbooks will be issued each member in exchange for the old passbooks so that members are requested to bring passbooks to the Credit Union office to be exchanged as soon as possible.

Under the new system it will be necessary for each member to bring the passbook every time business is transacted with the Credit Union.

Washington—Congressional activity between now and adjournment undoubtedly will continue to be influenced primarily by three factors: politics, the current business recession, and the Soviet threat.

Politics — The election next November will be on the minds of most members of Congress most of the time. This is to be expected. And most members of Congress believe that, to get re-elected, they must, generally speaking, try to please their constituents back home.

This gives added importance to the Easter recess, during which, members of Congress spent considerable time talking over their problems with their supporters back home. If a composite of these conversations were possible, it would not be too difficult to predict congressional action on a number of vital issues awaiting consideration.

Recession — Consideration of so-called anti-recession legislation is inextricably tied up in politics in some manner. The big spenders are pushing "pump priming" programs — and will continue to do so — despite the fact that seven years of "pump priming" failed to reduce unemployment appreciably in the 30's.

The Eisenhower Administration takes the position that the basic groundwork for economic recovery has been laid by expanding and speeding up existing programs — and that any new "crash" spending projects are inadvisable. It is contended that they would bring about huge deficit spending which in turn would stimulate new inflation.

Prospects for tax-reduction legislation may be determined by the outcome of this struggle. The administration expects to decide whether to recommend a tax cut after receiving further reports on economic conditions. The reports are expected to tell whether a tax cut is desirable as a business stimulant. There is considerable bi-partisan support for such action.

Soviet — The rapid growth in federal spending, triggered by the launching of Russia's first Sputnik, continues unchecked and there is serious talk within Administration circles of a possible $80 billion budget for the 1960 fiscal year.

Thus far this year, the House has acted on six appropriation bills. Instead of the substantial
