present.
"North Carolinians are fortunate in having available to them growing collections of books in our school libraries, public libraries, college and university libraries and special libraries—all of which are valuable sources of knowledge and enlightenment, representing the accumulated experience of all mankind.

"In recognition of the fact that our freedom to read imposes a responsibility on all of us to make constant and beneficial use of our library facilities, I am glad to designate the week of April 8-14, 1962, as National Library Week in North Carolina, and urge that all citizens unite in this effort to achieve a better-read, better-informed America, to stimulate interest in libraries of all kinds to the end that we realize the full potential of our national purpose."

Give what you have. To some one it may be better than you dare to think.
