couples has made it possible for many of them to retire and enjoy an easier life in their later years. Social Security also enables them to be more independent of their children financially and otherwise. Another change with far-reaching effects on families is the gradual shift from farm to rural non-farm or urban living.

Although it is true that some families do not seem to have the strength to withstand today's demands, the majority of our families in North Carolina are happier than in any previous generation. Family administration is on a more democratic basis, with all family members having a greater share in decision making, division of labor, recreation activities, and other aspects of living together throughout the family life cycle.

Another in a series of articles in which the North Carolina Department of Motor Vehicles explores some of the significant facts behind last year's traffic accident toll.

Here's where they happened—the death-dealing traffic accidents that last year claimed 1254 victims in North Carolina. In town mishaps killed 195 while out in the countryside the casualties mounted like this: killed on state numbered roads 244, on county and local roads 430, on U. S. numbered highways 368, and on the Interstate system 17. Injury figures as tabulated in a special study by the State Department of Motor Vehicles listed 15,309 hurt in urban mishaps and 19,129 in rural. Most of the personal injuries (like fatalities) occurred on county and local roads, the agency noted.

Sunday School Lesson

HEADED FOR DISASTER?
 International Sunday School Lesson for July 8

Memory Selection: "Turn now, every one of you, from the evil way and wrong doings."

Lesson Text: Jeremiah 19: 21; 25:1-11.

Today we have for the purpose of our study, the aim of helping people realize that the only true basis of security for a nation (or for an individual) is to be found in obedience to the laws of God.

The title of this lesson sounds frighteningly appropriate for people who are living under the threat of atomic war and the destruction of civilization and, indeed, of humanity itself which such war would almost inevitably bring upon us. It suggests, in no uncertain terms, that we give serious thought to this Bible passage to see if we can find in the words of the prophet a way of escape for ourselves.

Jeremiah gave a vivid picture of the horrors that would befall

You are witnessing one of the frustrations in Ted's life. Like his namesake, the Red Sox slugger, Ted likes to tag a good fast ball and send it over the fence. But, today, our batting-practice pitcher just can't seem to find the plate.

Another frustration in Ted's life will occur next Sunday morning. Like every American youngster Ted needs religious training. But Ted's parents, who should be offering him opportunity and encouragement in spiritual growth, can't seem to find the Church.

Our children deserve the full spiritual opportunity which our free heritage has preserved for them. Today it is their turn to develop the power with which God endowed them. And our assignment, like the batting-practice pitcher's, is to offer them our best . . . and not lost control.

Changes Made In Family Relations

Various Factors Play Role In Family Relationships

By FRANCES JORDAN Family Relations Specialist

All of us remember that old song "The Old Grey Mare, She Ain't What She Used To Be". Well, the family isn't what it used to be either. Let us take a look at some changes in the family life cycle.

The most significant differences in the cycle of the family today as compared with 50 years ago relate to birth, marriage, and death. We marry at a younger age and have a shorter period of childbearing. Our children are launched from the home into career or marriage when the parents are under 50 and the succeeding middle aged period when the couple are alone at home is a phenomenon not enjoyed by most families two generations ago. With the increase in life span of the husband and wife, there are more families today in which both of the couple enter the last stage of the cycle, the aging years.

What are some other factors which are creating changes in family relationships? Each family unit is no longer an economically independent producing group, but rather a consuming unit in which children are a financial liability. More goods and services are obtained outside the home, creating a shift in the functions of the family unit. Today, the family does not exist just for the purposes of providing food, clothing, and housing, but assumes the responsibility for the basic personality development of its members. The family creates a setting which provides emotional strength to meet the stress and strain of living in the made pace of today. It is also recognized that people are happier living in families than being alone. We enjoy a higher standard of living, which is due in part to higher level of education of family members, better health, and technological advances. But with it, we have greater status seeking pressures from business, industry, and even our neighbors. We live in a mobile society, which isolates the young family from relatives and their control over its behavior patterns. The employed homemaker is creating sweeping changes in family living today. It is no longer a question of whether she should or should not work, but rather how the family can adjust effectively to the situation. Factors which must be considered include the attitudes of the family members, including her own, toward working outside the home; the quality of substitute care for the children; and the ability of all members to share the home responsibilities. The Social Security benefits for our aging
