dence of good results from driver education:
Since its beginning in 1933, Dr. Florio notes, the program has helped reduce the number of deaths per hundred million miles of vehicle travel from 15.6 to 5.3.

A Cleveland, Ohio, survey of 1,700 students who took driver training and 1,700 who didn't showed that accident rates may be influenced by proper instruction. The 1,700 who took the school course had only half as many accidents as those who did not.

A state-wide study in Pennsylvania concluded that "Completion of driver education appears to be related to improved driver performance. This improvement may be observed with respect to accident responsibility and number of arrests and is more marked in the case of arrests."

A nation-wide study by a major insurance company found that high school-trained drivers had fewer violations and fewer accidents than those who had learned to drive in some other fashion.

Now insurance companies give as much as 10 per cent reductions in automobile insurance rates when youths have successfully completed a high school course that meets state department of education recommendations.

Estimated Income Tax Due Sept. 15th

Taxpayers paying estimated income tax are, according to J. E. Wall, of the Internal Revenue office in Greensboro, required to pay their third installment of tax due on 1962 estimated income by September 15, 1962.

If the income expected to be earned during 1962 has changed, taxpayers should file an amended declaration of estimated tax. A blank form for use as an amended return is printed on the back of the bill which taxpayers receive for an installment of estimated tax. Mr. Wall points out.

Sunday School Lesson

International Sunday School Lesson for September 9

Memory Selection: "Let us go at once to entreat the favor of the Lord, and seek the Lord of hosts."—Zechariah 8:21.

Lesson Text: Haggai; Zechariah 4:6-10a; 8:18-22.

With this lesson we move into the period of the early years after the return from the Exile. It was not an easy time for those who came back, for they had come to a devastated country and city and had to begin at the very bottom to reconstruct a way of life. Many of the people, indeed, had left lives of comparative comfort and convenience in Babylon. Many probably had indulged in a somewhat idealized vision of a glorious return, but the hard realities of life that they faced precluded that. It is therefore not surprising that to them this

SUSIE'S IDEAS

Do you suppose Susie wants an addition for her doll family? Or ice cream and cake for supper tonight? Or a new pair of fancy black patent-leather shoes?

I'm Susie's mother, but I wouldn't know! You'd have to have seven league boots to keep apace with her active little mind!

For instance, she'd overheard us discussing our new family policy of having a suggestion box. Susie was determined to get into the act too. It is typical of her, typical of our family. We enjoy doing things together. We believe in unity in work, in play, and in prayer.

We center our family activities about the Church. The children go to Church School—Susie can hardly wait for each Sunday morning—and my husband is active in the Men's Club. I am president of the woman's group in our parish. Yet—it does take a lot of time and effort. But I am never happier than when I am doing church work, because I know how truly worthwhile it is.

Don't forget that your church needs workers too! Just as you need the Church!

SCHOOL AND YOUR CHILD

By John Corey, Appalachian State Teachers College

Driver Education: Frill or Necessity?

By the end of last month millions of American auto owners had plomped down extra dollars to get their '62 license tags. In North Carolina and some other states the money helps finance expanding driver education in public schools.

Many wonder: Is the instruction a necessity? Does it really take up to thirty hours of classroom instruction and six hours of practice driving to learn to operate a car? Some boast they caught on in an hour.

Will the training really reduce traffic accidents, in which 40,000 are killed and nearly 1 1/2 million injured, with a loss of $8 billion each year?

Is the public school the proper agency for driving instruction? Dr. A. E. Florio, University of Illinois professor of safety education, answers a firm "yes" to all these questions.

"Because most authorities blame the human failure of the driver in 85 per cent of all accidents," says Florio, the co-author of a safety education textbook, "we should concentrate on studying the cause of human failure."

"This can be best accomplished in a formal driver education course under the direction of a qualified teacher. If our young people are going to drive, and over one million teenagers do start each year, we should take every means available to get them started with the proper attitudes, knowledge, habits, and basic skills."

Modern driver education strives to place under steering wheels a generation of youngsters who will act as mature citizens in a driving population of 87 million persons operating close to 74 million vehicles.

School driver education programs are available to students just at the time they reach legal driving age. This is the ideal situation, because a basic tenet of learning is that first impressions have the most lasting effect, claims the Illinois educator.

If Junior learns to handle a wheel in a driver education class with others in an ideal teaching-learning environment, Dr. Florio continues, he is more likely to form a high set of standards to guide him in every-day traffic situations.

And he also picks up little tricks of the driving trade which actually save money. Many drivers, for example, clutch their car before putting on brakes. The footbrake should be applied first. The car stops sooner and wear and tear on expensive brake shoes is lessened.
